Coolidge and Dawes.

With the election of Coolidge and Dawes out of the way the sheep and wool growing industry of Oregon should now be able to settle down to the business at hand—that of producing an acceptable wool clip and a large lamb crop for 1925.

The tariff on wool is not likely to be lowered unless speculators run prices up to a point where the consuming public may center an attack on the growers' protection. There is at this time one or more members on the tariff commission who would welcome an opportunity of instituting an investigation into the reasonableness of the tariff on wool and the chances are that there will be plenty of agitation from many sources for such a hearing.

Under present conditions we think it improbable that lower tariff rates could be justified before any impartial board of inquiry. If we are to maintain our American standard of wages to those employed by this industry and keep wool growing on a profitable basis for those engaged in it, it is essential that the cost of production here and abroad be equalized by a growers' tariff.

The present operations of the tariff prove conclusively that we are getting no more protection on any class of wool than we are entitled to receive and on some classes of wool we are not receiving the full benefit of the rates established by the law.

The fact that the sheep and wool growing industry kept its house in order and was not greatly disturbed over the Presidential election was in no sense due to the minimizing of damage which would result in case Coolidge and Dawes were not elected. During the whole of the campaign, prices were either held steady or advanced. This was very unusual for a Presidential campaign and showed that the conclusion had been reached by manufacturers and wool dealers, as well as by sheepmen interested in extending their flocks, that the election could only result as it did.

For this reason it is our opinion no considerable increase in price of sheep or wool will follow the election. With lambs being contracted at 10 cents per pound and offers of 40c per pound being made on wool it would appear that the industry in Oregon is in for a profitable period. The essential thing for growers to remember at this time is that full steam ahead should mean more careful devotion of our energies to improving the quality of our wool clip and both the number and weight of the lamb crop. Thus far growers have not shown any interest in disposing of next year's wool clip on a contract basis. Very little interest has also been shown in disposing of next year's lamb crop on contract. The feeling is general, we believe, that there is plenty of time before the wool is shorn or the lamb is ready for market to make the sale.

Wide Roads Prevent Accidents.

Pennsylvania will not start on general highway widening program until the whole state is provided with travelable roads, says the state highway secretary. However, 40-foot paving is favored on important trunk highways with all rights of way from 50 feet to 120 feet wide.

Western states have already started on a widening process for roads but instead of building 40-foot pavements they are putting a 2-foot shoulder on each side of existing 18-foot pavements and covering the old pavement or macadam road with a water proof covering of asphaltic concrete to absorb the jar of rapidly moving vehicles and thus prevent crystallization or destruction of non-elastic road surfaces or pavements.

In addition, wherever possible they are widening the road grade from fence to fence with a gentle slope for drainage like a city street. This relieves traffic congestion on a narrow paved strip as it permits six to eight vehicles to stand side by side if necessary. Eliminating side ditches and widening roads in this manner is the greatest step yet taken to eliminate automobile accidents.

Proposed New Taxes.

Salem Capital Journal. Governor Pierce announces that he will recommend to the legislature the imposition by the state of numerous new taxes, to provide additional sources of revenues to support state bureaucracy. Among the taxes proposed is one on moving pictures, one on cigarettes, and another cent a gallon on gasoline, making a total of four cents gas tax.

The Governor is consistent, for his program of fulfilling his campaign promises of reducing taxation consists in imposing new taxes, such as the income tax, and creating new boards to spend the revenues thereby obtained, instead of the simpler program followed by Brother Charlie Bryan in Nebraska, of cutting down expenditures and discharging half of the state employes under his control.

The income tax was repealed, after a thorough trial, because it provided double taxation instead of reducing it and experience proved it a penalty on industry that retarded development by keeping out investment capital. If Oregon was at war with any country, there might be an excuse for the luxury taxes, but so far as known, all is peaceful on the Willamette. Another cent upon gasoline would arouse every auto-
