

Local Happenings

Walter Luckman was in town from Lena on Tuesday and states that there is considerable feeding of stock out that way. The weather is not cold but there is sufficient snow to make it necessary to hand out the hay to the stock. The range conditions are not very good this fall as the grass got too late a start, but just the same Mr. Luckman is in good spirits and thinks there is a fine future right ahead for the sheep and wool grower.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Jones of Pasco, Wash., drove to Heppner on Sunday afternoon, bringing with them Mrs. E. N. Crawford, who has been spending the past three months in that city at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned home on Monday afternoon. While Pasco seems quite far away from Heppner, with the good roads between here and there it is now but about 4 hours' drive.

Cecil Warner, who was in the city on Tuesday from his home near Lexington, announces that he has made a trade with a party at Hermiston for a tract of land over there, and some time after the first of the year will move onto the project and engage in the business of hay raising and dairying. Besides the 20 acres he trades for, Mr. Warner has taken a lease on 40 acres and this will make him a pretty good sized dairy farm.

Richard McElligott, formerly engaged quite extensively in grain raising in the lone country, spent several days in Heppner this week, from his home in Portland. He was here to look after some business affairs and enjoying a little visit with the old timers. Mr. McElligott left for lone Wednesday to spend a short time visiting with his son, Charles McElligott, on the old McElligott farm out south of town.

Judge Gilbert W. Phelps and J. S. Beckwith, court reporter, came over from Pendleton on Sunday afternoon to be present at the opening of the December term of circuit court on Monday.

Top Reasoner dropped in on his friends here Friday and spent the day. He had been over in the Monument country to look after business and was returning to his home at Addie, Wash., where he and his family are located and where Mr. Reasoner and the boys are engaged in lumbering. He continued his journey Saturday.

The ladies of Bethel chapel report that their bazaar held on last Thursday afternoon was a splendid success. The articles offered for sale went readily to the Christmas shoppers and the candy and cooked food were also in great demand. Their financial returns exceeded the sum of $200.

Fred Steiwer, of the firm of Raley, Raley & Steiwer, Pendleton attorneys, was in the city on Tuesday to attend to legal business before the circuit court. He appeared as the attorney for P. A. Anderson in his mandamus proceedings against Clerk Anderson.

Mrs. C. W. Shurtie visited with relatives at Arlington on Sunday. Her sister, Mrs. Weatherford, is leaving for Southern California to spend the winter and Mrs. Shurtie desired to visit with her before her departure.

Mrs. J. H. Franklin and Mr. and Mrs. Clark Key of Freewater spent the week-end visiting with friends at Heppner and Cecil. Mrs. Key was formerly Miss Bernice Franklin, a student of Heppner high school.
