Farmers as Manufacturers.

HENRY FORD, who makes ten instead of two blades of grass grow where one grew before and sometimes where none grew before has said that farming should be done in twenty days; and this coupled with Edison's vision of twenty years ago, which disclosed a manufacturing rural community, plus the present condition of the farmer, brings sharply to the front a situation of significance.

Every day the farmer is being chased out of the fields by his own machinery. Due to improved methods of operation he can raise more food than the world can eat. The result is he is always selling on a glutted market. Finally he rushes into the city and the city man would rush way from it if he knew where to go or what to do.

Thoughtful review of the farmer's situation leads one to the belief that his relief will come not in palliative legislation, but in the adjustment of his business to the electrical age which is now beginning to take its place in our economic life. There is only one answer to the poor condition of the farmer plus the high cost of living for the urban population, namely, the elimination of the idle hour. The times of planting, cultivating and harvesting. For the rest, his time and investment are waste that must be spread over the volume of his product. If our farms were equipped with small manufacturing plants that could be kept busy producing standardized necessities, such for example as screws, nails, bolts, shoe laces, knife handles and a thousand and one other products, then the rainy day would be one of activity and profit instead of one of loafing at a loss. One of these days Mr. Ford will work out the problem and the idle hour will be abolished.

We defy California to produce any better weather, any time, than Morrow county has been enjoying for the past two months. We had a nasty spell in December that did a lot of damage, to be sure, but mother nature seems to be doing her level best to make amends, and what we have been enjoying is not to be excelled anywhere. A friend of ours remarked to us yesterday that he had been keeping tab on the weather conditions and that our mean average temperature had been on a par with that of San Diego for the past six months, regardless of the severe spell in December. In the meantime we have also had more than the normal amount of moisture.

—§-§-§—

Whole Nation May Hear.

IT IS announced that the inaugural ceremonies March 4 will be broadcast by a chain of stations scattered across the continent so that every nook and corner of the United States will be in tune with Washington.

Forty stations will be linked together by telephone wires, breaking all records for interconnection between broadcasters.

When President Harding was inaugurated in 1921, the public address system was employed enabling the crowd of 125,000 which filled the plaza and overflowed into the park to hear his voice.

Think of the wonderful advancement during the short period of four years! President Coolidge's voice will be carried to a national audience of 25,000,000.

—§-§-§—

The local weather man reports that up to the present, Heppner has received more than her normal portion of moisture, and reports from over the county are to the effect that the ground is well wet. The fine open spell of weather should bring the newly-sown grain up rapidly. Plenty of moisture at the right time in June will insure an abundant crop and there should be a good harvest the coming fall. At any rate, we shall have forgotten all our troubles within a year or two for present conditions are bound to change for the better.

Tax Free Property.

Manufacturer.

IT USED to be only churches and schools that were tax free property on a large scale, and state legislatures always had some one who enjoyed introducing a bill to place church property on the tax rolls.

We hear little or nothing of that any more, but in the past twenty-two years the value of real property exempted from taxation has risen to twenty-one billion dollars, says a National Industrial Board.

How such a vast amount of real estate and improvements can escape taxation, will become the subject of a great deal of inquiry and possible official investigation.

Considered on top of tax-free securities in the shape of municipal and state bonds, that are voted by the people for all manner of public purposes, the problem is a serious one and affects all investments.

This Week's Cross Word Puzzle

By "GREAT BEND"

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

The first letter of each word is indicated by a number placed in the blank white spaces, and by referring to the list of words given below, you will find the definition. For instance, number one horizontal gives the definition of a word which will fill in all the white spaces to the first black space at the right. Number one vertical gives the definition for a word which will fill in all the white spaces to the first black space below. The black spaces indicate the end of a word, and no letter is placed in them. When completed, the puzzle must read both horizontally and vertically or across and down.

This cross-word puzzle was arranged in Great Bend, Kansas. We do not have the name of the originator. However, as it is an exceptionally fine design, and contains some excellent words, we are passing it along to our readers.

Few of the words are really difficult. However, there are some real testers in the puzzle, just to arouse your interest, and the cross-word puzzle fan should get a great deal of enjoyment out of solving it. Look at No. 46 horizontal. It is an 18-letter word. Obey!
