

Local Happenings

The City Market got moved the first of the week to their new location on Main street. They now occupy the room in the Garrigues building vacated by David Wilson and will have the place nicely fitted up for their line of business. A new ice house is being built in, and adjoining this will be installed the ice machine. The interior of the building is to receive a dress of white paint and it will be quite attractive.

During the past week Clive Huston disposed of the summerfallow on his Sourdough ranch to Ray Young, and the latter and his family have moved from the Bell place and taken charge of the Huston place. Mr. Stapleton, who has been in the employ of Claire Hopper at the battery shop for the past year or more, moved with his family to the Bell ranch on Monday and will run that place.

Postmaster Smead was able to return to his work at the office the first of the week, being about recovered from the effects of the auto mishap of which he was the victim the first of last week. Wallace states that he might have shown up on the street sooner, but when he took a look at himself in the glass his countenance did not present a very nice appearance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner were called to Portland on Tuesday on matters of business. They were accompanied by Mrs. Roy Missalidine, who went to the city for a short visit with her people. They returned home Wednesday. During their absence, Bonny Cochran mothered the children at the Turner home and says she enjoyed it very much.

Moving is the work this week. On Sunday D. A. Wilson moved his stock of goods into the room in the Masonic building vacated by Sam Hughes Company, and the City Market, who have taken a lease on the room in the Garrigues building vacated by Mr. Wilson, are moving in and fitting up their butcher shop there.

J. B. Huddleston and his sister, Miss Beas Huddleston, are enjoying a visit here with old-time friends for a few days, being on their return home to the ranch near Lone Rock. Miss Huddleston has been living for the winter in Portland, and J. B. is getting back from a visit of some weeks at Portland and Sound cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maddock and family, accompanied by Miss Miriam Kenney, drove over to Heppner Saturday afternoon where they took in the Elks banquet and ball. While in Heppner they visited with the Kilkenny family. Mrs. Kilkenny is a sister of Mrs. Maddock.—Condon Globe-Times.

Up around Gurdane the weather conditions are ideal and the grass is beginning to grow. Stock is in good condition, and but little reseeded grain will be necessary. The word delivered here on Saturday by Dilard French who was in the city attending to business matters.

Erb Kirk left for the John Day country the first of the week and will spend a week or ten days in gathering up some five cars of cattle for the City Market. These cattle have been contracted for delivery to the Thompson Bros. of Dillon, Ore.

Louie Swardlik of the American Hide and Junk Co., of Portland, arrived in the city on Saturday, and is now busily engaged in picking up the hides, pelts and furs and junk of the community. It has been some time since he visited these parts.

Mike Doherty, prominent Butler creek sheepman, is very ill at St. Anthony's hospital. He has been suffering from typhoid fever and is hourly growing weaker. Mr. Doherty is married and has five children.—Pendleton East Oregonian.

W. A. McClintock was in the city Saturday from his ranch over in the Gooseberry section. Some reseeded grain has been done out that way, but the greater portion remains yet to be finished, and spring grain will be sown.

Misses Zora and Mae Kilkenny returned to Heppner Wednesday noon after spending a few days visiting with Miss Kathleen and Margaret Maddock and Miss Alice Smith.—Condon Globe-Times.

A letter received Tuesday from Mrs. M. E. Cotter states that Mr. Cotter underwent a very serious operation at St. Mary's hospital, Rochester, Minnesota, last Friday.—Ione Independent.

The Willing Workers will serve a big chicken dinner on Thursday, April 9, at the parlors of the Christian church, for the sum of 50c. At this time they will also conduct an apron sale.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner and family and Miss Josephine Kirtley motored to Pendleton on Saturday and spent a day visiting with friends, returning home Sunday afternoon.

J. J. Kelly of Heppner is reported to have purchased lambs here last week and the first of this week. He appears to have other interests here also.—Condon Globe-Times.

Word has been received that Mr. and Mrs. Mayne Moore of Los Angeles are the proud parents of a new baby girl. They named her Betty Joy.—Ione Independent.

Banker Gansel of Ione was in the city during several days this week, having business in connection with the seed wheat loans to clients of the Bank of Ione.

Oscar Keithley, though a mighty busy man these days of reseeded wheat, took time to drive into town and attend to business affairs on Saturday.

H. S. Thompson and D. J. Thompson were stockmen in the city the first of the week from Dillon, Oregon. They were registered at Hotel Heppner.

Mrs. Earl Gordon went to Arlington Tuesday for a short visit at the home of her sister, Mrs. George Stephens, and with friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ayers departed on Tuesday by auto for Portland and will spend a week or two in the city visiting relatives.

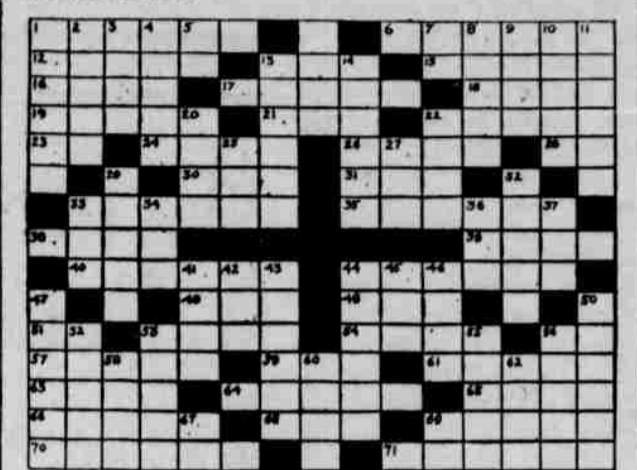

Tilman Hogue was in the city from his Gooseberry ranch on Tuesday. Choice residence property for rent. Inquire Case Furniture Company.

This Week's Cross Word Puzzle

By WALTER E. BARNES

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

The first letter of each word is indicated by a number placed in the blank white spaces, and by referring to the list of words given below, you will find the definition. For instance, number one horizontal gives the definition of a word which will fill in all the white spaces in the first black space at the right. Number one vertical gives the definition for a word which will fill in all the white spaces to the first black space below. The black spaces indicate the end of a word, and no letter is placed in them. When completed, the puzzle must read both horizontally and vertically or across and down.

Our Washington Letter

N. P. S.

Washington, D. C., March 4.—President Coolidge's Inaugural Address was a typical Calvin Coolidge message to the people of the United States. It was clear, concise, and so worded that every citizen of our land knew just exactly what the President meant.

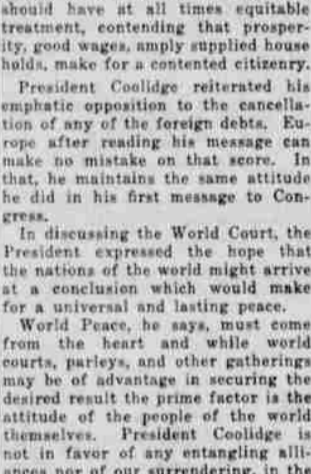

In his address, President Coolidge voiced the heartfelt wish that the United States might continue to prosper, that the lot of each man, woman and child might be a happy one. The President did not waste any words in flowery rhetoric. His speech was from his heart. It contained the utterances of a man who genuinely loves his country. The President voiced his desire that labor in all its branches should receive full and adequate return for its efforts. He does not believe that any time of human activities should receive something for nothing, but he is emphatic in his belief that labor should be paid a just wage. He believes that the working woman, as well as the working man, should have at all times equitable treatment, contending that prosperity, good wages, amply supplied household, make for a contented citizenry.

President Coolidge reiterated his emphatic opposition to the cancellation of any of the foreign debts. Europe after reading his message can know no mistake on that score. In that, he maintains the same attitude he did in his first message to Congress.

In discussing the World Court, the President expressed the hope that the nations of the world might arrive at a conclusion which would make for a universal and lasting peace.

World Peace, he says, must come from the heart and while world courts, parleys, and other gatherings may be of advantage in securing the desired result the prime factor is the attitude of the people of the world themselves. President Coolidge is not in favor of any entangling alliances nor of our surrendering, in the slightest manner, the rights that we have enjoyed for years. Touching upon the matter of foreign relations, the President expressed the desirability of the United States not only maintaining but extending relations with the peoples of the world. There is no doubt that he believes that amicable commercial relations will do much to bring about better political feelings between the countries of the world.

Calvin Coolidge drove home the importance of the saving of the taxpayer's money. There is no doubt that in the President's mind is the determination that during his administration the nation's debt may be materially reduced. This he desires, because it will be one of the contributory causes of lessening the burden now borne by the people in the form of taxes. His views on this subject, if acted upon by state governments, would further reduce the burden of taxes borne by our people. There is a determination on the part of the President to prevent the waste of a single dollar of the people's money. He believes that every dollar saved in the matter of taxes will add to the comfort of the men, women and children of the nation. The program for the curtailing of Government extravagance will continue, if the next Congress gives him the support he desires and the support it should.

In the matter of tax reduction, the President expressed the thought that it might be possible to further reduce the income and nuisance taxes for 1925. This result he makes clear can be accomplished by the saving of the people's money, through careful stewardship on the part of the Government officials.

In another part of his address, the President spoke of the great desirability of the thorough assimilation of those who have come to this country from alien shores. While he did not voice in as many words the claim that the United States today is the greatest land of opportunity in the universe, yet one reading between the lines could gather that that was what was in his mind. He desires that every alien admitted to our shores receive just and fair treatment, and that the thought may be brought home to the new citizen that the United States is the land of opportunity, not only for himself, but for his children.

such protection as will enable him to receive wages that will provide ample comforts for him and his family. He is for the protection of the American wage scale and the American standard of living, which is the highest in the world. The Inaugural Address of President Coolidge was delivered with characteristic simplicity and earnestness. It was the kind of message that the people of the United States expected him to deliver. It was a reaffirmation of their confidence in him, as expressed by the millions of people who voted for him in November, 1924.

HOUSE AND CONTENTS BURN.

On last Saturday morning the house and all its contents on the ranch of Joseph Weisler near Parsonville were destroyed by fire. Mr. Weisler, who lives alone on the place, had just got his breakfast well underway when he discovered the fire in the roof around the stovepipe. He rushed outside with a bucket of water and succeeded in extinguishing the flames, but on going inside he found that the fire had spread to such an extent that he could do nothing, in fact in entering the house he was in the flames, and the most of the hair on his head was singed off and it was necessary for him to throw himself on the floor and crawl out. Everything in the house was destroyed and Mr. Weisler was left with scant clothing. He was in Heppner on Monday getting some new clothing, and states that he has rented his place and will not go back there to live, for the present, at least.
