

LEGION CONFERENCE WAS BEST EVER HELD

Eastern Oregon District Well Represented at Meeting Monday.

STATE PARTY HERE

Program Snappy, and Entertainment Features Greatly Enjoyed; Drum Corps Here From Athena.

"The best conference ever held in the state," was the comment of George Griffith, State Commander of the American Legion, Monday evening, when the conference here was drawing to a close. This seemed, also, to be the sentiment of the entire state party as well as of the 50 post delegates present.

The business session of the conference was held at the Elks temple beginning at 2:30, and many topics of interest and importance were discussed. Particular stress was placed upon the drive, now under way, sponsored by the Legion, for a $50,000 fund for the care of the orphans of deceased service men. The state commander urged that this matter be given very earnest consideration by the posts of the state, and that when the quotas for the Oregon posts were given out that each post go over the top without delay.

C. L. Sweek, local attorney, on behalf of the city of Heppner, welcomed the visitors in a few well chosen words.

Certificates of Meritorious Service, emanating from the National Department, were distributed to the following posts: Athena-Weston, Arlington, Echo, Hermiston and Heppner. These certificates are awarded because these posts have succeeded in reaching a membership already this year as large as they had at convention time, June, of last year. Oregon department now has twenty-three hundred more members than were enrolled at this time last year, now having 7600. It is expected that by July the 10,000 mark will have been reached.

Kenneth Cooper, director of the Portland regional office of the Veterans' Bureau, was present and presented the work of that organization, paying particular attention to recent legislation affecting the interests of the disabled veterans. Under present laws and regulations it is no longer necessary to prove service connection in order to receive treatment for disabilities at government hospitals, so long as the disabled man can avail himself of those services.

Carl Moser, state adjutant, in a short address, outlined the membership work of the state department and the aims of the department in that regard. This was Mr. Moser's first in Eastern Oregon, and many of his remarks were in expression of his amazement at the "great open spaces" in this part of the state, and he said he could hardly believe that many of the immense ranches they passed could be owned by only one man.

Harold Warner of Pendleton, executive committee member for Eastern Oregon, presided at the conference. Mr. Warner has been very active in the work of the State Department since its organization and has an immense fund of information and suggestions, the benefit of which was freely given the delegates present. He is a very efficient presiding officer and each subject was thoroughly covered by reason of his direction of the discussion.

In all the papers presented by the delegates, service to the community was stressed. It is one of the basic ideas behind the American Legion that only through giving service to the nation, state and nation, can the organization take its rightful place in the world, and the record of the posts in this district as brought out at the conference, shows that they are letting few opportunities pass by to be of service to their communities. This work includes such activities as Americanization work with naturalized aliens, care of disabled buddies, assisting the Boy and Girl Scouts, backing up every project which has for its object the bettering of conditions in the various communities. The record of the posts in Eastern Oregon in this regard is the best in the state, according to the state officers, and it is the intention that this record shall be maintained and extended in the future.

Jerry Owen, editor of the Pacific Legion, explained the aims and accomplishments of that paper, calling attention to the fact that this paper, the official organ of the Department of Oregon, is recognized over the country as being one of the best Legion papers published.

Athena-Weston post sent over their drum corps, and this live bunch added much to the enjoyment of the occasion. Their pep was manifested at all times during the day and they were voted the liveliest bunch that had been in Heppner for a long time.

The banquet at the Elkhorn restaurant at 6:30 was fully enjoyed, and while the tide of exuberance ran high at times, the fun was clean and wholesome, and here again the local post was highly complimented. To show their appreciation of the treatment received here, the visitors chipped in and made up a fund of about $10 which is to be turned over to the Boy Scouts of Heppner with the compliments of the Legion conference. Many amusing talks were made, and war experiences recalled through song and story. The smoker by the high school, at which the visitors were guests of the local post, elicited much favorable comment, and the dance at the pavilion finished the entertainment for the day.

Officers and members of Heppner Post are highly pleased at the success of the convention, which success is due largely to the untiring efforts of Paul M. Gemmill, post commander, who directed the work of planning and preparing for the conference. His compliments were showered upon the Heppner post. Especial commendation was received because of the swimming pool, which the visitors inspected and which they all stated was a fine monument to the energy and vision of the local organization. Most of the visiting delegations left for home after the dance, but the state party stayed over here Monday night, going down to Hood River Tuesday morning for a conference there that afternoon.

BOARDMAN WINS SUNDAY'S GAME

Held Scoreless Until Last of Ninth North End Team Rallies and Takes Game From Locals.

The first ball game of the season was played at Boardman on Sunday when Frank Shively's Morrow county team met the Irrigators of that project in a lively encounter that took ten innings to decide the score. In reporting the game to this paper, Mr. Shively states that it was a well fought contest throughout, with everything coming this way or that, the locals till the ninth and nothing but goose eggs in the frame for Boardman.

At the close of the first half of the 9th, Heppner had 4 tallies, when the Boardman boys made a grand rally and tied the score on Wednesday. Heppner failed to make a point and the irrigators put through one more tally, pulling out of the hole with victory. Rohey and Cochran were the Heppner battery, and were backed up by splendid team work. "Old" Olson, a high school lad, was in the box for Boardman, and he is reported to be a "comer" and capable of holding his own with the best of the amateurs. His team also gave him "splendid" support.

Arlington will play here on Sunday, and another good game is promised the fans, this being the beginning of the series for the season.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION.

For the purpose of considering any matters that may be brought before them, the grand jury was called to meet at the court house on Wednesday. It is expected that they will put in several days investigating cases that have been brought to their attention. Judge Gilbert W. Phelps is here today from Pendleton and taking up such matters as the circuit court as call for his attention, and also clearing up the docket for the coming June term.

Mrs. Rose Floren and baby of Willow creek were visiting friends in Heppner on Tuesday.

John L. Jenkins, prominent citizen of Boardman, was transacting business at the court house on Wednesday.

ELKS ENTERTAIN.

A number of past officers of Heppner local Elks entertained at the club rooms on last evening. A "April Fool" party, and all decorations and items of entertainment were carried out along this line. The party was largely attended by the Elks and their ladies, and much fun was had. Prizes were awarded for the ladies to Mrs. Richard Wells and Mrs. Arthur Wheelhouse, and for the gentlemen to J. W. Beymer and H. A. John. The consolation prizes going to Mrs. Dean Goodman and Mr. Storey. Refreshments were served.

WILL HOLD VESPER SERVICE.

The Girl Reserves will hold a vesper service on Easter, April 12th. The program will be given at the Christian church at 6:30 p. m., and is in the nature of a union service. A united choir will furnish the singing. The Reserves have been spending the past month in a study of China, and this vesper service comes as a climax to that study. An offering will be taken in the interest of the work and forwarded to the secretary of the Girl Reserves in China.—Press Reporter.

JONES-WEBSTER.

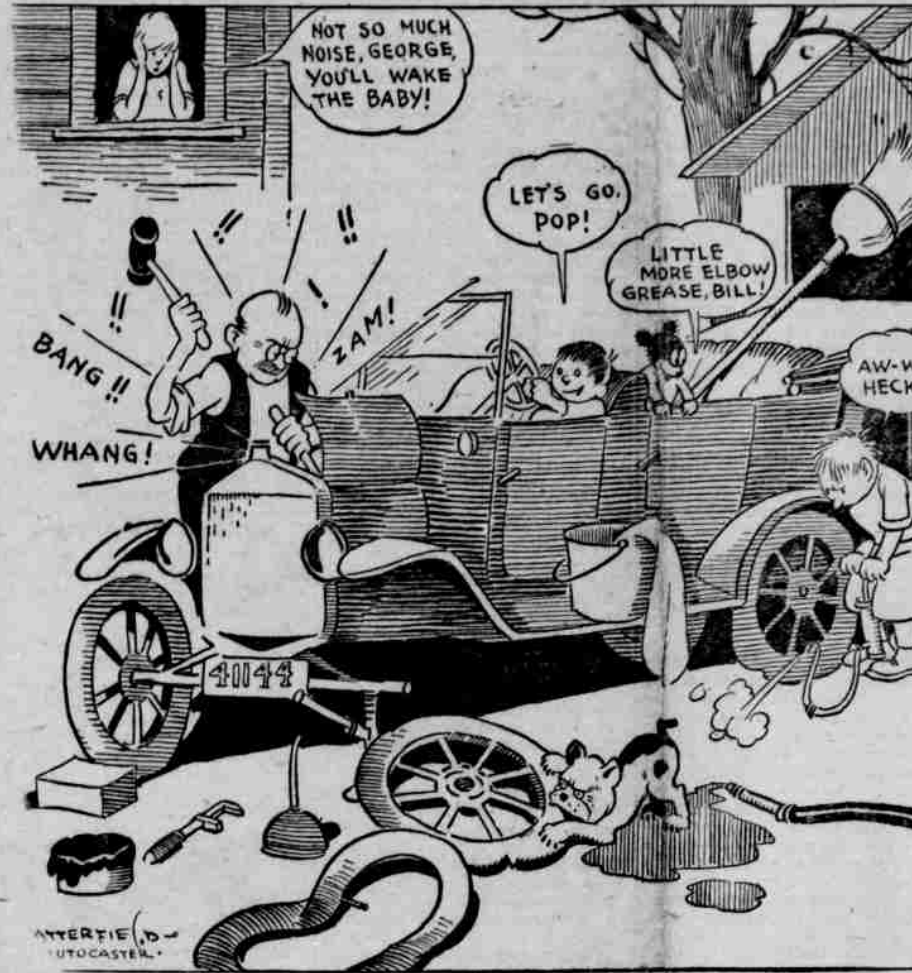

Mr. Harlan Jones and Miss Vera Webster were married at the Methodist parsonage in Heppner on Saturday, March 28th. Rev. E. C. Alford officiating. Mr. Jones is a resident of Tacoma, Wash., where the newly married couple will make their home. Mrs. Jones has been one of the teachers in the public school at Lone. Her people reside in Yakima, Wash.

W. B. Barratt was up from Portland for several days the past week to see how things looked hereabouts. Billy thought of applying for a job on the Barrett sheep ranch until he looked things over carefully, when he decided to return to Portland. As a matter of fact, in the more than 40 years of his experience as a sheepman and rancher here, he had never seen the range poorer at this time of year, a condition resulting, no doubt, from the December freeze. Things are beginning to look some better now, the recent rains and warmer weather bringing forth the grass again and the hills are putting on their green. The situation looks a little brighter when Mr. Barratt visits us again.

Heppner people have always been noted for their ability as good entertainers but they beat all previous records Saturday when E. B. Aldrich of the East Oregonian visited their city. The convivial Heppnerites entertained the august Aldrich so royally that before he recovered he spread a brain storm over the front page of the E. O., ordering the state highway commission to build a highway immediately from Pendleton to the Morrow county city by the Vinson route. Aldrich based his demand for the road on the convenience of transcontinental auto tourists. Now that he is looking after the interests of cross country travelers he ought to make the situation look a little brighter when Mr. Barratt visits us again.

A QUESTION OF SERVICE.

La Grande Observer.

The closing of the government land office in La Grande is not only poor economy but it's poor government policy as well. The action has been taken by virtue of an old statute which provides for closing when the revenue from the office fails to measure up to certain standards. That policy and the executive action that has carried it into effect on the La Grande territory cannot be backed by sound judgment.

Government land offices, while they are generally self-supporting, and should be under a considerable period of time, were created for the service they may render citizens and not for any revenue the government may or may not receive from them. To transfer the work of the local land office to The Dalles and consolidate the work of the two offices is supposed to be an economy. Actually it will result in greater expense to those doing business with the land office because their fees, which support the office, will not be reduced and the time and expense necessary to visit The Dalles is greater. And the office exists for public service. Theoretically the business can be done by mail, the government states, but actually this is not true, otherwise one land office at Washington, D. C., would be sufficient for the country.

Whether or not the land office can be re-established at La Grande remains to be seen, but the government policy of service should make that action possible. If a strict policy of economy and that only, is to supersede one of service, the government faces a program of eliminating half of the rural postoffices of the country, all rural routes, and most city free delivery. Obviously such action would be absurd and contrary to the wishes of the public to whose service our nation's officials are pledged. The same rule should apply to government offices which control a large amount of public lands.

HEPPNER HIGH NEWS

The smokeless smoker promoted by the "H" Club of Heppner high school on March 30 was a decided success in spite of the several matches called off on account of sickness. For a while the promoters were tearing their hair and racing around to get up some last minute matches and their efforts were rewarded when some of the boys from the other towns willingly put on quite a few rounds of exhibition boxing which was well received by the large crowd in attendance. Some of these matches were:

"Frenchy" Smith vs. P. Knight, both of Boardman.

Todd Brothers of Hermiston. Brahears vs. Eckleberry of Lone. George Ritchie of Lone vs. Eb. Hughes, of Heppner.

NOTES FROM STATE MARKET AGENT

Know Your Dealer.

During the past year many complaints have come to the State Market Agent from shippers of farm products, that the dealers have not been at all fair with them, and in many cases no remittances have been received. Recently the market agent investigated the case of a farmer in southern Oregon who last November shipped his turkeys to a Portland commission house, and had never received any remittance. In this case the commission house had been out of business for many weeks, the parties had left the city and nothing could be done. The market agent advises shippers to investigate the commission houses before shipping. There are many reliable firms in the city. And he also advises that shippers take quick action when remittances are not forthcoming after about a week, and that any complaints sent to him will be given prompt investigation.

Law Must Be Enforced.

Violation of the new potato inspection law is widespread, and the law makes it the duty of the State Market Agent's department to enforce it. The penalty is from $10 to $100 fine, and 10 days to 30 days imprisonment, or both fine and imprisonment.

In lots of 50 pounds or more the potatoes must be graded and the sacks stenciled with the grower's name and address. The grade must be stenciled on the sack. In lots of 10 to 50 pounds the sacks are not stenciled and the potatoes graded. Above 10 tons state inspection is required. This law applies to all potatoes sold or offered for sale in Oregon. Growers, buyers, retailers, farm peddlers and others should see that the law is complied with to be safe from prosecution. Seed potatoes do not require further inspection if certified by the O. A. C.

Another One That Shines.

The grape growers of Yakima, Wn. have a co-operative selling agency—one that works. Members of this association receive 50 per cent of the price paid for the grapes—think that over you farmers who have had from 25 to 75 per cent held out on you. This association marketed a crop valued at $48,000 and it cost them but $5,000. The growers' hands and feet were marked without a dollar loss, due to efficient packing, grading and shipping. And another amazing endorsement is that within 30 days from shipment, 75 per cent of the 405 growers' grape hands and feet were marked. The final settlement was made within 50 days. The moral is that farmers can do for themselves what big money concerns do for themselves, any time they will get together and be determined to run their own business. Intelligent handling and economy will make co-operative movements successful.

The Canadian Way.

The Saskatchewan Co-operative Elevator Co., a strictly farmers' organization, is fast becoming a powerful factor in Canada. It now has a total of 405 elevators in Saskatchewan owned and operated by farmers.

Shippers Need Protection.

Market Agent Spence thinks there should be a state law for the protection of the thousands of country shippers who ship their products to the various buyers and commission houses. Any concern can rent a room, with a few papers and commence business. The state should investigate and issue a license to them.

ELKS WILL PRESENT COMEDY.

DISEASE CARRIER VERY DANGEROUS

Germes Often Present After Patient Has Fully Recovered; Precautions Necessary.

When a person is ill with diphtheria, typhoid fever, smallpox, pneumonia, or any other infectious illness, instinctively we want to stay away from him so as not to catch the disease. Furthermore, it is the duty of the health authorities of the community in which you live to see that no one does go near such a case except the person taking care of the patient. But when the one who has had the infectious disease gets over his fever, feels like himself again and is able to be about, he naturally resents being prevented from taking up his usual daily routine and mingling with other people. Oftentimes, however, the germs causing certain diseases persist long after the illness itself is over. This is especially true of diphtheria and typhoid fever. When this occurs such a person is called a carrier of the disease. While no longer sick himself, he is capable of giving the disease to others.

Before the one who has had diphtheria may be released from quarantine, the rules and regulations of the Oregon State Board of Health require definite laboratory tests of the secretions of the nose and throat. This rule oftentimes makes the person impatient, but it is necessary for the protection of other people.

Following typhoid fever, the germs of this disease may stay in the gall bladder, multiply in numbers, and be discharged from time to time into the intestines. When this occurs the person is a great danger to others, especially if he is engaged in any occupation where milk or other raw food is handled. This typhoid carrier condition may persist for many years—even for life—although sometimes an operation on the gall bladder will cure it.

It is not always necessary for a person actually to have had the symptoms of a disease to become a carrier of it. For example, you may be exposed to a case of diphtheria, but possess enough natural protection so that you do not show any symptoms. A laboratory test would prove that there are many diphtheria germs in your throat or nose. In such a case you may become a carrier and a dangerous one. The danger here is that no one knows of the condition and you may be a danger to the persons necessary to protect other persons. It is possible to become a carrier of other diseases besides typhoid fever and diphtheria.

The best way to guard against becoming a carrier, or if you are a carrier to guard against spreading disease to others is to cultivate good habits of personal hygiene. Be particular about washing your hands; keep your fingers away from your mouth and nose; and cover up each cough or sneeze with your handkerchief. There is a still better way to guard against catching diphtheria, typhoid fever or smallpox. Be immunized against them by your family physician.

MOONSHINE EXPLODES.

Sheriff McDuffee reports that an explosion of several bottles of moonshine stored in the big safe in his office occurred one day last week. When the stuff struck the safe it took off all the varnish. The sheriff thinks this nice kind of stuff to take into the human stomach, but it is done. A recent case at Pilot Rock, where a young man died from drinking moonshine, shows what the stuff will do, yet there are people who will drink it.

LEAVING FOR TEXAS.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Buffington are leaving soon for Texas to make their home, states the Pendleton East Oregonian. Mr. Buffington, who has been employed as a deputy sheriff in Umatilla county, will go into the oil business at Pecos, Texas. He has relatives in that state. Mr. and Mrs. Buffington will be accompanied by their sons, Gall and Glenn Buffington. The trip will be made by auto, two cars being used.

The Buffingtons were formerly residents of this county, making their home at Lone for a number of years before removing to Pendleton.

"There is many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip." So goes the old saw, and verily we believe this to be true in a print shop. In our writup of the visitors to the Elks ball and banquet at Pendleton last week we tried our best to get a full list of those going over from Heppner, wrote it in our account of the event, and lo and behold, when the paper came off the press it was too late to fix things up. We found that those going over the O. E. S. were omitted. These were Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Sweek and Mrs. J. O. Rasmus and D. T. Goodman. Mr. Sweek is exalted ruler and Mr. Rasmus secretary of the local lodge.

C. W. McNamer went to Portland this week with a shipment of a car load of hogs.

Roy Campbell, Social Ridge farmer, was doing business here on Saturday.

COW TESTING ASSOCIATION.

Last Fall an article was published in this paper stating that active organization of a cow testing association had been started in Umatilla county and the organization would be extended into the north end of Morrow county. Not enough cows were obtained in Umatilla county to justify the testing organization so no further work was done in Morrow county.

By using land plaster on potatoes cut for planting several growers on Weston mountain got one-eighth more yield. The treatment is particularly effective in rather damp, cold soils where sprouting is slow, as it seems to preserve the seed pieces, the experiment station finds.

This Week

Waking Up. Again Woman Changes. The Movies Today. Bobbed Hair Headaches.

The War Department, rubbing its eyes and waking up a little, orders eighty-five flying machines, made in the United States. For ten machines by the Curtiss company $250,000 will be paid, and for seventy-five from the Douglas company $387,000, about that. That's a start and, multiplied by a hundred, it would give the country a good beginning for an air fleet.

Fortunately Henry Ford and his son Edsel B. Ford are in the aircraft flying. They will let us know what a flying machine ought to cost, and something about the theory that the "flying life" of an airplane engine is only about 100 hours. The Provs will give you an engine that, without expensive renewal of parts, will fly around the world ten times. They don't believe in an engine as short lived as an ice cream cone.

Just as the virtuous complain that women leave nothing to the imagination, they suddenly decide to cover up again. "Dress is to be more substantial" this season than in other seasons.

That isn't saying much, for there is nothing sabbier about a lady bare-backed to her waist in the evening, with a skirt above her knees in the day time.

But fashion really means to reform for the moment. Arms that have been naked from the top of the shoulder down, looking in some motled cases like a butcher shop exhibit, are now to be covered with "soft mysterious veiling." Thanks for that, with or without the mystery. And shawls of brilliant colors, worn "to reveal personality," will cover up almost everything.

Thus again we learn that it is always darkest before dawn. The women go only so far in one direction, then turn around and go the other way; that's their charm.

Clothes gathered in solemn conclusion that the "real gentleman must have a different necktie for every shirt, thus "demonstrating his artistic taste and his exclusiveness." Exclusiveness, doubtless, is desirable. But if each young American, for each fancy shirt and necktie that he would like to have, would develop real working idea, the country would be better off than with every necktie factory working full blast. A man known only by his clothes belongs in the parrot house.

Twenty-one years ago about 250,000 people went once a week to the moving pictures. The price of admission was actually five cents. Now there are twenty-two million people going to the movies regularly, and the price has run up to three dollars a seat. Enterprises grow rapidly in the United States when people become really interested.

If your friend has a bad cold, be polite, smile, bow, say "I never saw you looking better," but don't shake hands. That is the advice of Dr. Sundwall, of Michigan University. Influenza is spread by handshaking. You get the germs from your friend's hand, transfer them to your handkerchief and then to your nose.

Handshaking is foolish and archaic, anyhow, as foolish as Indian rubbing noses. Primitive man stretched out his right hand to show there was no knife in it, and to reassure the stranger. That's hardly necessary now.

"The shingle headache," or "bobbed hair neuralgia," has arrived, and was inevitable. Silly women, not content to cut their hair short, actually allow the barber to shave the back of the neck, uncovering that part of the body most sensitive to cold, the little hollow at the base of the skull. Cut your hair that way, then motor with your back to the driver, and you have found the short cut to acute neuralgia and pneumonia.

At Council Bluffs, Jasper McDonald, negro, twenty-seven years old, pleads guilty to criminal assault, and within an hour is sentenced to life imprisonment. That is better than a lynching because of the effect on public opinion and respect for law. There is, unfortunately, the possibility of escape.

Lamb Feeders Day.

(Morrow County Extension Service News.) A number of Morrow County farmers attended the Feeders' Day Meeting at the Umatilla Experiment Station, March 25. Lambs which they have had on feed for the past few months were inspected and the different methods of feeding and gains on the different lots explained. This year work was supervised and explained by H. S. Deas, superintendent of the Umatilla Station. Roy Bean, superintendent of the Experiment Station at Prosser, Washington, discussed the results at the Prosser Station with lamb feeding, and within an hour the management of farm flocks and Professor E. L. Potter, Head of Animal Husbandry Department at Corvallis, discussed the relative economic phases of lamb feeding, old ewe feeding, and farm flocks.

Miss Bea Haddenston of Lone Rock was a visitor in this city the first of the week.
