

Local Happenings

T. W. Cutsforth, extensive farmer of Lexington and Morgan, was a visitor in the city on Saturday. He had just finished the plowing of six hundred acres on the Chas. Pointer place near Lexington, which he runs in connection with a farm of about the same size near Morgan. The grain is coming on well, Mr. Cutsforth states, and he never had the ground plow better than it has this season. With seasonable rains, Mr. Cutsforth looks for a good yield of grain.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Craber of Walla Walla were here on Wednesday on their way out to Harlan for a visit with relatives. They accompanied Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Pottgither, the parents of Mrs. Craber, who are on their way to San Francisco. Mr. Pottgither is a printer and pressman by trade and has resided in Walla Walla for many years, being lately engaged in the printing business there. He expects to locate in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Phill Cohn and daughter, Miss Eleanor, and Miss Mae Groshen drove up from Portland Thursday last. Mr. Cohn remained over for the week to look after business affairs here, and the ladies returned to Portland on Monday, Emil Groshen driving them down. The young ladies had to be in the city to enter school, following the Easter vacation.

Roland Humphreys will finish his work at the University of Oregon in June, when he graduates from that institution. Mr. Humphreys expects to enter the teaching profession, for a while at least, and has accepted a position with the high school at Hillsboro for the coming year, where he will instruct in mathematics and some other branches.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hendrix, of White Salmon, Wash., were guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Barr in this city for a few days of the past week coming over from the Washington city on Friday last. Mr. Hendrix was formerly connected with the Heppner Herald as foreman. They returned home the first of this week.

Rev. Wood of Ontario was in Heppner over Sunday and held services both morning and evening at the Episcopal church. Easter day was properly observed at this church and there were good audiences at all services. Mr. Wood departed on Monday for The Dalles.

Miss Lois Reid, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Reid, spent a few days at home the past week, being absent from her school during the Easter vacation. She returned to her studies the first of the week, being a student at Mt. Angel, Oregon.

C. W. McNamér shipped out a car of fat cattle from the local yards on Tuesday. They went to the Portland market.

Our Washington Letter

N. P. S.

THE people of the country can score one victory. They have impressed on congress, in no uncertain way, that they are with the President in his battle for tax reduction and determined to secure it. It is to the credit of congress that Chairman Green of Iowa and his associates have already agreed to devote the summer recess to developing a new measure for the lessening of taxes. Investigations will be made locally and surveys will be made of foreign methods, and it is further hinted that the tax reduction measure will be given precedence in congressional action.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 15.—President Coolidge, speaking before the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association, in session at Washington, laid down a new "Golden Rule." The President said that he did not believe there could be any permanent prosperity which does not rest on the ever-lasting foundation of justice.

The President, in outlining his attitude toward business in general, said, "It is that of sympathy and cooperation for every lawful effort to promote our commercial prosperity and our economic well-being."

In the matter of industry regulating itself the President made the following statement: "But on the part of the management there should likewise be the same vigilance to insure the observance of the law. We shall

This Week's Cross Word Puzzle

By EVA FOSS SMITH

HOW TO SOLVE A CROSS-WORD PUZZLE

The first letter of each word is indicated by a number placed in the black white spaces, and by referring to the list of words given below, you will find the definition. For instance, number one horizontal gives the definition of a word which will fill in all the white spaces to the first black space at the right. Number one vertical gives the definition for a word which will fill in all the white spaces to the first black space below. The black spaces indicate the end of a word, and no letter is placed in them. When completed, the puzzle must read both horizontally and vertically across and down.

THIS cross-word puzzle, which was arranged by Miss Eva Foss Smith, should give every cross-word puzzle fan an opportunity to say that he solved a puzzle in twenty minutes—the maximum length of time it should take for this one. The definitions are clear and concise, are accurate, and some of the words are difficult. In addition to this, the puzzle is a small one. Now, let's see what you can do with it. We are warning you that you will not soon find another one so easy.

never reach an ideal condition in our industrial life until the laws are voluntarily observed by our citizens without the constant and wasteful interposition of Government and court action.

Emphasizing the fact that it was the desire of the government to have employees treated with fairness and justice, the President declared, "It has come to be recognized almost universally that only upon justice to the wage-earners of the nation can there be reared any lasting prosperity. I confess that I desire to see our country prosperous. I am aware there can be no prosperity in which the textile industry does not have a generous share. I do not believe there can be any permanent prosperity which does not rest on the everlasting foundation of justice.

"In the effort of the Government to promote justice, no industry should have anything to fear. In the effort of the Government to provide constructive economy in public expenditures, all industry should concur.

"In the effort of the government to encourage harmony in all our domestic relations, every industry should co-operate. In the effort of the Government to secure a firmer faith of the people of the earth in each other, which will establish an indwelling peace in the heart of mankind, all industry should rejoice.

Touching upon the present tariff policy Mr. Coolidge said, "There has been at some times and in some quarters a disposition to criticize the American policy of conserving first opportunity in our home markets for our own producers. We can hardly expect that such a program would be popular with those in foreign lands who find themselves at a disadvantage in the greatest market of the world, which is the American market.

But those who would charge us with selfishness in thus giving first thought to home interests would do well to consider whether their own policies in this regard are more liberal than ours."

Replying to the criticism made by European manufacturers who, in the main, say the very lowest possible wage, the President said, "At times, when I have heard criticism of our industrial policies, I have been tempted to wonder how many other peoples, endowed with the same natural wealth, the same possibilities of maintaining something like monopoly would have been as generous with the rest of mankind as the Americans have been."

ALTHOUGH Washington is not broadcasting its message from the houseposts, it can be said now, once and for all, that the American Government is out to collect its foreign debts, and it will not be deterred from that program. The republicans party, in its national platform, laid down the law and the gospel, and it is an open secret that that plank for the collection of the debts was virtually dictated by the President. A new meeting of the National Debt Funding Commission has been called to take action. There will be a considerable amount of palaver. There will be delays, and social and courteous conversation with the representatives of the foreign nations which still stand aloof on their debt responsibilities. It is wholly possible they may gain time, but it can also be said that the most they can hope for is delay. They can never escape the payments. It is also well understood how that the American people will demand full reimbursement for the use of their money and that the foreign nations in cash will pay for each delay which they secure.

A REPORT just made public by the Geological Survey discloses the fact that the United States in 1923 led the world in the amount of developed water power with 10,000,000 horse power. This means that more than one-third of the power produced by the use of water was generated in the United States. The total horse power produced by water in 1923 in the entire world was 29,000,000 horse power.

From an estimate prepared by the Geological survey it is said that the installed capacity of water power in this country would approximate 70,000,000 horse power.

THE right of the small radio user to filter the air for the program he desires has been happily recognized by Secretary Hoover. In a recent brief interview he announced that the energies of the radio division of his department would be largely devoted to seeing that the small fellow, both receiver and broadcaster, received a fair show. For that reason it is likely from now on that promoters who plan the erection of enormous blanketing broadcasting stations in various parts of the country will be obliged to prove to the department that the new service which they offer will not discommode or dismantle the smaller local broadcasting stations which serve a daily increasing group of interested listeners.

ONE of the curious twists of fate is that at the very time the government is seeking to obtain from interference in private undertakings situations develop which drag the officials into the interfering stage. Just at a time when Secretary Hoover and congress had decided that they would evince the minimum of regulative features for the radio business, two gentlemen in Washington went on the air to broadcast speeches—perhaps they might be called briefs—in two very important governmental lawsuits. Always, from the beginning, it has been understood that newspapers were forbidden to comment directly on cases before grand juries or under trial in the courts. It is agreed, in these two recent instances mentioned, however, that through the radio the speakers, who communicated directly on important cases, must have reached prospective members of juries who will have these matters
