Grover Bergdoll, the noted draft evader, is coming back from old Germany to serve his five years sentence in the pen in order to get back his property from the government.

Oregon's state income tax has driven another concern out of the state, this time it's the Alaska-Pacific Fisheries Co., a $1,500,000 concern with headquarters at Portland. And still they go.

Dr. Linville, federal prohi director for Oregon, delivers an address in Heppner next Monday. If Dock would utilize his time to hunting out bootleggers and the numerous stills, instead of running around over the state making speeches, the cause would be far more advanced and the government receive some benefit for its expenditure of money.

The Portland W. C. T. U. and others of their like, are going to circulate petitions to have the sale of cigarette barred from Oregon. This organization is composed of well meaning women, but are they not a little selfish in their latest move to Christianize Oregon? Their latest move will meet with disfavor by the majority of people as making an attack on personal privileges. If they wish to cinch prohibition, they had better curb their radicalism, for surely a revision of feeling toward prohibition will follow.

Morrow county citizens will vote on the school unit system at the May primaries, and Umadilla county votes upon the same issue. The Echo News writing upon the question remarks:

"Another feature of the election that is a departure from established principles is the matter of qualifications of voters. Heretofore no one could vote at a school election on the question of approving a budget or authorizing indebtedness, unless he was a property owner or head of a family. In the county unit election the bars are taken down and any voter in the county, regardless of property or family qualifications can vote on the adoption of the county unit, a measure that effects the title to all real and personal property owned by every second and third class district in the county.

A car load of valvoline in drums for auto motors, was received Monday, of which one-half of the shipment went to E. R. Lundell and the rest to Karl Beach at Lexington.

All doubt about the Ku Klux Klan being a self-hating outfit, is removed by the modest claim of a Grand Something-or-Other, that he is "a special emissary of Providence, for the salvation of America." This ties and beats the royal boast of the ex-Kaiser, that he was a partner of God. If Providence had been implicated in the formation of the aggregation, they would be open-faced and unshirked and not chasing around the countryside on moonless nights, engaged in devilry. As it panned out, "the salvation of America," resulted in the more or less successful skinning of America. The K trio did gloss hellish politics with sweet religion, but there are no divinely inspired candidates for constable this year. —Medford Tribune.

Utilities Have Spent $136 For Each Person in the United States

The dollars that have been expended by the utilities of the nation for the construction of their plants, lines and the purchase of supplies, are fifteen times the number of minutes since the birth of Christ. Fifteen billion dollars have been invested by the telephone, electric light power, street transportation and gas companies, to provide the service the people today are enjoying. And, roughly speaking, this means that $136 has been spent for every man, woman and child in the U. S. This is three times the amount of actual money outstanding in the country.

Join The Crow Shooting Contest

An International Crow Shooting Contest, open to every citizen of the United States and Canada and staged for the purpose of helping to lessen the number of these predator enemies of game and useful birds and animals, will be started on March 15. It is planned to have the contest run three months. Prizes have been arranged for amounting to $2500.

Sportsmen, dealers in sporting supplies and clubs in all parts of the country are back of the contest and it is hoped that through its agency millions of game birds and animals may escape the depredations of the crow. Nearly every community in the North American continent has during recent years found itself the victim of the damage wrought by this bird. Game wardens, naturalists and sportsmen have made an intensive study of its habits and have checked its depredations. The crow does some good at times by the number of grubs he eats but his destruction of the eggs and young of other birds decreases the number of these useful species which, if allowed to escape him would be potential consumers of millions of insects and of immense help to farmers.

Recently a canvass was taken in Pennsylvania of the damage actually done by the crow. Eyewitnesses reported that he was guilty of practically every crime in animal life from picking the eyes out of young lambs to robbing nests and destroying the eggs and young, killing rabbits, and destroying fruit and crops.

The contest will be divided into two classes, one devoted to individual shooters and the other to team scores. The prizes will be in the form of merchandise to be obtained from local dealers. There will be 79 awards to individuals and 210 team trophies.

ROOSTER TRIES TO KILL 18-MONTHS-OLD BABY

Child Is Found in Yard Unconscious With Large Spur Broken Off in Skull.

Frederick, Mo.—Attacked by a game rooster when she picked up a chicken while toddling around in the yard, Mary Ellen Hubbard, eighteen-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hubbard, near Creagerstown, is at the City hospital recovering from an operation for the removal of a two-inch spur from the skull at the "suture line."

The operation is one of the most unusual to be performed at the local hospital. The child was taken to the institution unconscious.

The mother had found the infant lying in the yard, with chickens swarming around her. An X-ray examination revealed the spur of the rooster, which had broken off in the skull.

Dr. E. P. Thomas, the operating surgeon, said the spur had penetrated the brain substance and had entered through what is known as the "soft part of the skull." The right side of the head and face of the child is badly lacerated, indicating that the enraged rooster had continued his attacks after the child had become unconscious. The mother heard no screams, and it is thought the child lay in the yard for some time before being found.

When the child recovered consciousness physicians said she probably would recover.

New York Policeman Gets Joke's Ten Dollar Bill

New York.—Patrolman Davis of traffic squad A got the laugh out of a $10 joke and also the $10.

Max Greenberg, twenty-five years old, 127 Orchard street, had nothing to do, at Orchard and Livingston streets, so he dropped a folded $10 bill on the sidewalk to see what would happen.

Benjamin Wasserman, twenty-two years old, 509 Woodward avenue, Brooklyn, came along and picked it up. Greenberg stopped him, explained that the laugh was on Wasserman and asked for the $10 back. There was an argument. Wasserman couldn't see the joke. They clinched.

Patrolman Davis separated the contestants and took them before Magistrate Swadlow in Essex Market court.

"It was a joke. I take back that assault charge," Wasserman said.

"Stout fellow," said Greenberg, or words to that effect.

"What happens to the $10?" asked Assistant District Attorney Henry Alexander.

"Give it to the patrolman," said the magistrate.

River Moved to Recover Body of Drowned Youth

Chico, Cal.—A river's course has been changed so that a mother might see once more the body of her son. A few days ago the body, that of twelve-year-old Clyde Farnow, was buried here.

Clyde fell into the Yuba river and was swept over the falls. His body never came up, but engineers of the Pacific Gas and Electric corporation offered to get it. The company authorized their task and all work of harnessing the falls, on which the men had been engaged, was stopped.

It cost them days and nights of ceaseless toil and cost the company $20,000 before, with dynamite and steam shovel, the thousands of tons of earth could be removed and the Yuba's course diverted. Then, wedged between jagged rocks at the foot of the falls, the engineers found the boy's crushed body.

Refuses to Aid Children.

Stillwater, Minn.—Because a canoeist refused to give them aid, Emil Bretzell, eleven years old, and his eight-year-old sister, Helen, were drowned in the river here. A man in the canoe shouted that his craft would upset if he tried to save the children, and paddled out of sight. His name is not known.

Stuck in Fence.

Philadelphia.—Dennis O'Connell, ten years old, struck his head through a picket fence here and was unable to get free. Policemen and the boy's playmates were unable to free him, so an expert from the fire department was called and cut out one of the iron bars.

No Calfs for Horace.

New York.—Yrigoyen, one of the most famous race horses in Argentina, is dead. He was the victim of a gland operation. The racer did not swell well this season, so his owners ordered a gland transferred from a younger animal. The operation proved fatal.
