Suspends Deer Killing

Governor Pierce of Oregon has issued a proclamation suspending the open season for killing deer and other large game, beginning with August 20.

Forest fires have been numerous and widespread, owing to prolonged drouth. The danger of more conflagrations from thousands of hunters penetrating the forests and setting fires from shooting and camping is tremendous.

Many of the deer are driven from their usual habitat and crowded into small areas. The Governor's action is fully justified by humanity.

The killing of game is absolutely prohibited until there has been sufficient rain to avert all possible danger of forest fires.

His splendid example will be followed by many other states that have suffered from drouth and forest fires.—The Manufacturer.
