"Let us develop the resources of our land, call forth its powers, build up its institutions, promote all its great interests, and see whether we also in our day and generation may not perform something worthy to be remembered."
 Daniel Webster.

SEARCH AND SEIZURE

When an American citizen returns to his native heath from wandering on a foreign strand his goods and his person are subjected to examination without the formality of a warrant. There may be no special reason for suspecting him of attempting to avoid the payment of duty but the revenue officers go to the bottom of his trunk just the same. They may even make an intensive examination of his person and whether innocent or guilty he is not supposed to be damaged except in case he may sustain actual loss of his goods or injury to his person. But what the revenue officers of the federal govt, may do, the peace officers of nation, state or municipality may not do. However much reason the sheriff or policeman may have to suspect that certain premises are devoted to practices that are prejudicial to the public interest and forbidden by the statutes of the state he may take no step in the public interest but on the authority of a warrant which can only issue on impossible conditions that are and which too often serve as a warning to the violators of the law to prepare for the coming of the officers. If the officers of the Federal government in the interest of revenue may search and seize without a warrant why should not the same authority be exercised by the proper officers of town or county in the interest of the public peace and safety. No legal fiction or judicial quibble should be allowed to stand between an officer and the discharge of his duty. The barrier anciently erected against the tyranny of despotic kings should not be converted into a parapet for the protection of criminals.

Memorial to Our Soldier Dead

The O. A. C. Memorial Union is planning the erection of a building on the O. A. C. Campus, which shall be a memorial to the college and state heroes, who fell in the Spanish American and World wars. The student body has raised $263,000. Faculty members have raised nearly $31,000, and friends of the college are out after the balance of cash needed to cover the total estimated cost of $500,000.—Memorial Union.

WILLOW CREEK'S REAL PIONEER

John Jordan located his cow camp two miles east of the present town of Ione and began opening up a ranch. His several years soldiering after Indians gave him an idea of the value of their friendship and making it a point to gain their good will, he never had occasion to fear molestation of his home or stock. The discovery of gold in Boise Basin and Canyon City called for a shorter route than the Old Oregon Trail and a cut off was made from near the present sight of Pendleton across Birch creek to the forks of Butter creek and then to Jordans and on west to Rock creek. Besides having the ideal cow he was now on the main traveled road to the mine and opened up a road house and supplied the travelers with meals and drinks as well as feed for the teams sold the Willow creek portion of his ranch and built a home one-half mile up Rhea creek. He was married in 1872 to Missouria Haney, daughter of John Haney, who settled at The Pines in 1870, and continued in the cattle business until cattle went down to $10.00 per head when he sold out. In 1882 they went to Alkali, now Arlington, where they built a large hotel which they operated for ten years. Then the desire for better schools took them to Monmouth where they again operated a boarding house and prepared to educate their children. The death of their son John which occurred soon after reaching Monmouth caused them to change their plans and they returned to the ranch in 1895. Mr. Jordan was of the progressive pioneer spirit and was the first man to introduce a McCormick cutting machine on the creek and when he returned to the farm he set out the only hop yard that was ever planted in these parts. Hops went down to 7 cents per pound and after harvesting two crops the yard was plowed up and sown to alfalfa. He engaged in raising hay and stock until his death in 1901 when he was placed beside his three children in Lexington Cemetery. Mrs. Jordan operated the farm for several years and then came to Ione, where she has conducted a hospital and is one of the few survivors of Pioneer Days. Mrs. V. M. Ray of Junction City and Lute Jordan of Los Angeles are the living children. John Jordans popularity is shown by the places which bear his name. Few present residents can tell you where Jordans water is located, but Jordan Fork is a well known section and Jordan Elevator will keep his name on the ranch, while Jordan Butte ever stand as a monument to our Grand Old Pioneer.

help. Send word to the undersigned by phone, or mail or call. I will give you the benefit of my personal knowledge and experience, or I will appoint you the most helpful person to be had. I know every route, every train, every kind of equipment and the exact cost. I will advise your sleeping car accommodations, provide you with an outline of your trip, and deliver your tickets. You need not leave your inn or your office to attend to bothersome details. I have the best care in mind and it shall be yours the moment I know you desire it.

TOMORROW

Tis weary watching wave on wave
 But yet the tide heaves onward
 We build, like corals, grave on grave
 Yet pave a pathway sunward
 We're beaten back in many a fray
 But never strength we borrow
 And where the vanguard rests today
 The rear shall camp tomorrow
 The few shall not forever stay
 The many toll in sorrow
 The bars of Hell are strong today
 But Christ shall reign tomorrow.
 Gerald Massey.

Ione has very fittingly been called the "Egg City." At one time we had two doctors, one named "Henegg" and the other "Chick" and now our town seems to be giving up the poultry industry and running more to B's. Note this—Biz, Billy, Bristow, Bullard, Balsiger, and Bert. Trade with these merchants you will not get "stung."

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run-down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Combined Treatment, both local and internal, and has been successful in the treatment of Catarrh for over forty years. Sold by all druggists.
