

WHAT IS A DISEASE CARRIER?

When a person is ill with diphtheria, typhoid fever, smallpox, pneumonia or any other infectious illness, instinctively we want to stay away from him so as not to catch the disease. Furthermore, it is the duty of the health authorities of the community in which you live to see that no one does go near such a case except the person taking care of the patient. But when the one who has had the infectious disease gets over his fever, feels like himself again and is able to be about, he naturally resents being prevented from taking up his usual daily routine and mingling with other people. Oftentimes, however, the germ causing certain diseases persists long after the illness itself is over. This is especially true of diphtheria and typhoid fever. When this occurs such a person is called a carrier of the disease.

Before the one who has had diphtheria may be released from quarantine, the rules and regulations of the Oregon State Board of Health require definite laboratory tests of the secretions from the nose and the throat. This rule oftentimes makes the person impatient, but it is necessary for the protection of other people.

Following typhoid fever, the germs of this disease may stay in the gall bladder, multiply in numbers, and be discharged from time to time into the intestines. When this occurs the person is a great danger to others, especially if he is engaged in any occupation where milk or other raw food is handled. This typhoid carrier condition may persist for many years—even for life—although sometimes an operation on the gall bladder will cure it.—Oregon State Board of Health.

It Can Be Done

Somebody said that it couldn't be done.

But he, with a chuckle, replied that 'maybe it couldn't but he would be one

Who wouldn't say so till he tried. So he bucked right in, with the trace of a grin

On his face. If he worried, he hid it. He started to sing as he tackled the thing

That couldn't be done—and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done;

There are thousands to prophesy failure;

There are thousands to point out to you, one by one,

The dangers that will wait to assail you.

But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,

Then take off your coat and go to it;

Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing

That cannot be done—and you'll do it.

"The notice is too general," says Henry F. Long, Commissioner of Corporations and Taxation of Massachusetts, "that the tax burden is the result of expenditures over which the citizens has no control. The incorrectness of this is made clear to us when we realize that of the sum of $260,000,000, representing the approximate cost of government in Massachusetts in the year just past, approximately $210,000,000 was expended by cities and towns for purely local needs."—The Manufacturing.

601,317 Miles —and Not One Cent for Repairs

The real value of the 1925 Star is proven by the service it gives its owners in every day use.

Here's a case in point: Twenty-four Star owners report that they drove an aggregate of 601,317 miles without one cent cost for repairs.

Sounds unusual—yet, based on the reports of 40,000 Star owners on the Pacific Coast, the average cost of replacement parts averages 63c per car. That's what Star gives you in low upkeep cost.

And it does prove the truth of our statement that no car in the low cost field equals the 1925 Star for day in and day out mechanical performance.

And with all that, you drive the best looking light car designed.

Your dealer has the late models, all with the Million Dollar Motor, with its quick and abundant power—quick acceleration (5 to 25 miles per hour in 4 1/2 seconds)—20% power increase. See the 1925 Star!

Cut Machinery Cost In Half

The man who leaves his machines in the fields is paying, by depreciation, for an implement shed, but not getting the shed.

You can cut your machinery cost in half by prolonging its life and usefulness. You can double the life of an implement by putting it under cover as soon as you are through using it.

The cost of an implement shed to protect $2,000.00 worth of machinery is only a fraction of that sum.

We have many excellent implement shed plans to show you, and we have the right material to build just the kind and size building you require. Do not make the mistake of building before you examine our up-to-date implement shed plans. We will be glad to have you call and examine them, whether you are building now or later.
