CECIL NEWS ITEMS

"Butterby Flats" was the scene of a very charming wedding on Monday, June 15. The bride and groom were Miss Violet May Lynd, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hynd' and Mr. Cecil Leon Lieuallan, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lieuallan of Hood River.

The Bishop of Eastern Oregon, Bishop Remingt. n of Pendleton performed the impressive marriage ceremony in the presence of about fifty guests, on the beautiful shady lawn where the songs of the birds, the rippling of the waters, flowing by the lawn and the sun shining its brightest on the bride and the bridegroom will not be forgotten by those present.

Miss A. C. Lowe, cousin of the bride, presided at the piano. The hymn sung was "The Voice that breathed o'er Eden" followed by the wedding march.

The bride was altogether lovely in white chiffon trimmed with beautiful lace. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms and carried a beautiful shower bouquet of pink sweet peas and carnations.

The bridesmaid, Miss Lois Lieuallan, a sister of the bridegroom was prettily dressed in white voile and carried a spray of pink roses.

The bridegroom was attended by Jack Hynd Jr. brother of the bride.

After the guests had extended their congratulations to the happy couple, all adjourned to the dining room where splendid wedding breakfast was served.

The decorations were carried out in pink and blue. A large three tier wedding cake, a gift of the bride's aunt, Mrs. T. H. Lowe, graced the center of the table. The table linen which was used for the occasion was the same which was used at the wedding of the bride's great grandmother at Pittington, Durham, England one hundred and twenty years ago, and kindly lent for the wedding by the bride's aunt Mrs. T. H. Lowe of Cecil, Oregon.

The bridal pair were the recipients of many beautiful presents and in the course of the afternoon took their departure, amid a shower of rice, old shoes and fervent good wishes, for the Coast and other points.

Spirituality of Music

Music is dual in its nature: It is material as well as spiritual. Its material side we apprehend through the sense of hearing and comprehend through the intellect; its spiritual side reaches us through the fancy (or imagination, so be it music of the highest class) and the emotional part of us.—Krehbiel.

Not Ideal for Fires

Some kinds of woods, such as chestnut, butternut, tamarack and spruce, are not good woods for fireplaces because they throw off so many sparks.

Science vs. Politics

Scientists are busy ascertaining the exact weight of the earth, having left to the politicians the job of finding out what is the matter with it.—Morning Oregonian.

Vast Army of Industry

Factory workers and dealers who gain a livelihood in the building and marketing of one of the leading makes of automobiles constitute an army larger by several thousands than the infantry, cavalry and artillery commanded by the duke of Wellington when he defeated the great Napoleon at Waterloo.

Cecil Lieuallan our popular traffic cop, met with a mishap on the highway, near Morgan, last Sunday evening which was rather costly to him but fortunately no personal injury resulted. His best girl, to whom he was to be married the next morning at day break, was at his side which perhaps caused him to be somewhat oblivious to obstacles on the right of way. Someone's horse which stood in the middle of the road took the full impact of his borrowed Essex sedan, resulted in a badly jammed radiator, hood and fender, besides a broken lamp and other minor damages. The horse disappeared in the darkness and at this writing had not been heard from.

London and Paris

At the beginning of the Eighteenth century Paris equaled London in population and no doubt surpassed it at some earlier periods. The footing which England gained in India gave London a fresh source of wealth through its rich commerce with the Orient; it was then that London forged permanently ahead of Paris in the number of inhabitants.

A Critic Criticized

James Agate in London Chronicle—"Nine-tenths of our screen idols are as an English poet has said, 'faultily faultless, fetid regular, splendidly dull.'" Said of them, James? Certainly not! Tennyson wrote that line in 1855, long before screen idols were dreamt of. And, apart from that, James, your statement isn't true—no, sir, it isn't so!

You can cut your machinery cost in half by prolonging its life and usefulness. You can double the life of an implement by putting it under cover as soon as you are through using it.

The cost of an implement shed to protect $2,000.00 worth of machinery is only a fraction of that sum.

We have many excellent implement shed plans to show you, and we have the right material to build just the kind and size building you require. Do not make the mistake of building before you examine our up-to-date implement shed plans, we will be glad to have you call and examine them, whether you are building now or later.
