

AUTUMN

SEASON hales of the year!
How the zestful atmosphere
Nettes blood and brain
and smites
Into life the old delights
We have tasted in our youth,
And our graver years, forsooth!
How again the boyish heart
Leaps to see the chipmunk start
From the brush and sleek the sun's
Very beauty as he runs!
How again a subtle hint
Of crushed pennyroyal or mint,
Sends us to our knees, as when
We were truant boys of ten—
Brown marauders of the wood,
Merrier than Robin Hood!

TO HEAR HER SING

JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY

To hear her sing—to hear her sing—
It is to hear the birds of Spring
In dewy groves on blooming sprays
Pour out their blithest roundelays.

It is to hear the robin trill
At morning, or the whippoorwill
At dusk, when stars are blossoming
To hear her sing—to hear her sing!

To hear her sing—it is to hear
The laugh of childhood ringing clear
In woody path or grassy lane
Our feet may never fare again.

Such joy it is to hear her sing,
We fall in love with everything—
The simple things of every day
Grow lovelier than words can say.

To hear the bulbul's voice that shook
The throat that thrilled for
Lalla Rookh:
What wonder we in homage bring
Our hearts to her—to hear her sing.
