Situation Summed Up in One Short Sentence

Robert was in for a trying ordeal and he knew it. As he stood on the doorstep of old Mr. Green's house he assured himself that there were far easier things in the world than coming to "ask father." A maid opened the door and he was shown into the drawing-room while the servant approached her master. Some few moments later he found himself alone in the library with the old gentleman, who was looking very stern, due to an attack of indigestion. "Ah, here you are," was Mr. Green's not too gracious greeting. "And why do you want to marry my daughter?" This took Robert by surprise, and before he could think of a fitting reply the query was repeated: "Now, sir, come. Why do you want to marry my daughter? That's what I want to know." "Because—er—er—" stammered the young man. "I—er—I have no reason." "Exactly, my dear sir," broke in the older man. "Exactly. You can't have, or you wouldn't be so anxious to marry her."

Her Favorite

Druggist—Yes, miss; you'll find that most ladies like this lipstick.
Young Girl—You couldn't—ah—tell me the kind the men like, could you?
—Good Hardware.

When it comes to a choice between home folks and outsiders home folks come first. Isn't that the way you feel about it?

This is a home institution. We are working for the good of our community, for the prosperity and development of this section, and for the individual welfare of our friends and neighbors. That has always been our policy and always will be our policy.

For that reason we like to see the money that is earned here, spent here and circulated here for the benefit of local interests.

The resources of this bank represent the deposits of those who transact business with us. And the more use they make of our facilities and the more they cooperate with us the greater service we are enabled to render them in return.
