STAFIELD WINS OUT WITH GRAZING BILL

Cabinet Officials Approve His Grazing Draft as Equally Fair to Large and Small Stockmen—Aids Livestock Industry and yields Revenue to the State.

United States Senator Robert N. Stanfield, as chairman of the committee on publiclands, has scored a big victory for Oregon and the West by obtaining governmental approval of the revised draft of his bill to put the livestock industry on a sound and permanent basis. This bill provides for unsalaried grazing boards, composed of three members of each grazing district and elected by the livestock raisers using the lands.

Of monies received 10 per cent is set aside for range improvements and 25 per cent for the benefit of public schools and public roads.

Secretary Work, of the Interior Department, has written Senator Stanfield: "The new draft of your grazing bill is a constructive measure which will result in definite and positive benefit to the livestock industry. It will permit the use of the public lands, under proper regulations, by both large and small livestock raisers."

Senator Stanfield's committee has unanimously recommended the passage of the bill.

A new senator would be barred by the senate's ironclad seniority rule from holding such a powerful chairmanship and, therefore, would be unable to advance such important legislation through the committee and pass it in the senate.

Old Myth Exploded

According to recent reports there is no scientific basis for the popular belief that the eldest child has the best chance of obtaining prominence. Examples of brilliant men contradicting this belief are James F. Cooper, who was the eleventh of twelve children, and General Sherman, who came in the middle of a large family.
