

Senator Stanfield Renders Great Service to Oregon

In an address sent to and read before the Portland Advertiser Club, Wednesday, April 21st, 1926, United States Senator, Robert N. Stanfield said:

When I entered the U. S. Senate, March 4, 1921, agriculture was in the straits, prices were down, producers were hard up and the banks and loan companies in making commitments were unable to realize on the notes they held. Quick action was necessary to relieve the agricultural distress.

Works Hard, With Gooding For Emergency Tariff

"After repeated efforts I succeeded, assisted by Senator Gooding of Idaho in overcoming the objections of Senator Penrose, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, to an emergency tariff on farm products, and on May 27, 1921, the Emergency Tariff Bill became law. This Act placed protective duties on 28 of the principal farm products, including wheat, corn, potatoes, onions, cattle, meat, wool, butter, cheese, milk, apples, cherries and nuts.

Stanfield Com's the Result with an Amendment

On May 29, 1921, the Stanfield Bill was introduced to preserve the live stock industry of the United States, to release for commercial, agricultural and industrial purposes certain funds of banks, livestock loaning and trust companies, to amend the war finance corporation act, and for other purposes.

The Stanfield Bill, or its principal provisions, became a law on August 24, 1921, the Senate Committee on Agriculture submitting similar features through Senator McNary as an amendment substitute for the Norris Bill, along with other provisions. Under its terms the War Finance Corporation made advances for agricultural relief amounting to $28,000,000, of which the banks, loan and trust companies of Oregon at once received $2,000,000.

Drafted into relief Service by Treasury Department

As soon as the War Finance Corporation was prepared to refund this law, and at the request of the Treasury Department, I went West, where I spent months advising and assisting with the bankers, thereby enabling them to procure the needed funds and before it was too late to save them. Fortunately, very few failed in Oregon in comparison with other states.

Forced to Keep Silent to Protect the Banks

Much has been said about my absence from the Senate during this time, but I was forced to keep silent and go about my work without doing any sense or mission, because if the people had known why I was in the West and what I was doing, suspicion would have been directed to every bank I passed, and to every banker with whom I talked. Until the banks could turn their frozen paper into liquid assets, my silence was imperative to avoid embarrassment to them and the defeat of the relief needed and sought.

Blotting Paper

Housekeepers who have learned the value of white blotting paper keep a supply on hand. It is so useful in taking up water spilled on a polished table, or when grease is dropped on table linen during the meal. It acts much quicker than a cloth or napkin and does the work less obtrusively. It is excellent for absorbing grease from fritters, croquettes and other cookery before serving.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT

Manager (to female applicant for position on the stage)—Have you had any experience?

"No."

"I suppose you were the talk of your town?"

"Oh, no."

"You expect to be a star some day?"

"Oh, no, of course not."

"Can you sing?"

"Very little."

"All right, you're hired. I'll use you as a curiosity."

Drawing the Distinction

"Are you a politician or a statesman?"

"I don't know yet," answered Senator Sorghum. "If I get re-elected and stay in the game, they'll call me a politician. If I get defeated and write essays, the publishers will advertise me as a statesman."—Washington Star.

A Surprise

Suitor—I hope my proposal for the hand of your daughter hasn't taken you by surprise, sir.

Father—Well, to tell the truth, it has. You've been so jolly slow in getting around to it that I thought it wasn't coming at all.

Question of the Moment

"And what," asked the prospective father-in-law, "do you expect to do for my daughter in the future?"

"I hadn't thought much about it," answered the equally prospective son-in-law. "You see, tomorrow's her birthday and I'm worrying now about her present."

Even

Girl (slipping on new engagement ring)—You've hit on my favorite stone, old thing, which is more than the others did.

Man—It's the same kind I usually buy.

VOTE FOR HIM

Read a few of many unsolicited press comments:

THE PORTLAND DAILY NEWS, speaking of the Senatorial candidates, said:

"If we were entirely business like in the conduct of our public affairs, intently upon getting the best man available for the money, there is no doubt whom we should employ.

"We would employ a man of proved achievement, proved honesty, proved fearlessness and trustworthiness. We would employ a big man.

"And that man is Alfred Clark of Portland."

THE TOLEDO LEADER:

"Mr. Clark is a man who has had a world of experience, has the age, the dignity and the ability to represent the people of this great state in the national law making body as they should be represented."

EASTERN CLACKAMAS NEWS: "There are few men in the state who are as well qualified for Senator as Mr. Clark."

THE CONDON TIMES

"His Mr. Clark's knowledge of public affairs, his prominence as a lawyer and his reputation as a speaker will prove valuable assets should the people desire to send him to Washington.
