Baked Chronometers

Every chronometer issued to the British navy has to be "baked" at the Greenwich observatory. Those required for extended cruises in varying climates are kept for two months in an oven heated to 90 degrees to "acclimate" them.

The BULL'S EYE

You Can't Smoke History

A fellow from Carolina wants to know where I get the idea that "Bull" Durham and George Washington come from the same state. He says, "Why don't you write and give the people the real History of 'Bull' Durham in his native State, South Carolina, that people would appreciate that more than these Bull Legends of yours."

Now thanks, Sir, for your good-natured suggestion. If I knew History I wouldn't be able to write "Bull" Durham Ads. I would be a College Professor, get everything right, and get nothing for it. Everything you suggested me telling the public about when and where "Bull" Durham originated, has been told for 66 years by typical Advertising writers. That's the only thing the Company asked of me was "please don't tell again where it came from, or how." You see you didn't read their Ads, but you did read mine and remembered it, because it was wrong.

Writing Ads that will be remembered is a queer game. This is an Ad, not a History. I selected Ads over History on account of the pay. (American Tobacco Company's pay is as good as its tobacco.) Where "Bull" Durham comes from or where it goes to is left for the starving Historian.

Will Rogers

P.S. You notice I named in this article the WRONG Carolina. That's so North Carolina will get sore because I named South Carolina, and South Carolina will get sore because I didn't name North Carolina. A true Southerner never forgets.

P.P.S. There will be another piece in this paper soon. Watch for it.

OUR GOVERNOR AT CHEYENNE

Western Reaction to Federal Usurpation.

There have been many conflicts with federal authority in Oregon. One of my predecessors, Silvester Penoyer, grand, sturdy, old patriot, informed the president of the United States, when he was on a western tour, that the governor would be glad to greet him in the executive offices at the Capitol of Oregon, but refused to leave his office to greet the Nation's chief executive at the state boundary. Proud old Penoyer has been severely criticised for his lack of courtesy to the visiting president, but many of those who carried within their veins pioneer blood admire his independence, his honesty, and his attempt to retain the respect for the sovereign powers of the State which have been so sadly obliterated in recent years. At the time of the Coxe's army excitement, Governor Penoyer received a telegram from President Cleveland, warning him of the danger of internal disorders in his state. Penoyer promptly wired the president: "Attend to your own business and I will attend to mine." Penoyer was eastern born, a graduate of Harvard, but his western life had given him the independent spirit that caused him to send the telegram which may have seemed crude and discourteous to those who are seeking to wipe out practically every state and govern the land from ocean to ocean by bureaus on the Atlantic Coast.

I often what my grand old predecessor of 40 years ago would do today if he could come back and behold federal officials riding rough shod from one end of the state to the other, telling us how to raise our babies, what trees we can cut, what water power we can develop, what power lines we may establish, what gopher we can kill, and in what spot we may shoot the coyote.

It is probably true that our governors are from states where you do not so keenly feel federal encroachments. How would you feel from Illinois, Pennsylvania or Missouri, to have more than half of your territory, as we have in Oregon, entirely beyond state control, nontaxable and under the jurisdiction of an absentee landlord. It makes us feel as if we were trespassers in the land of our birth.
