World's Pipe Smokers

In the Far East pipe decoration constitutes an honored branch of art and the most eminent of designers, engravers, of etchers, of lacquerers, enamellers and metal workers may contribute their quota to the embellishment not alone of pipes, but also of the tinder boxes, tobacco boxes and pipe cases that are associated with them. The predilection of these races for delicate shape and size has had its influence on the pipe-forms of other nations with whom they have been brought into contact, as, for example, on those of the Eskimos and Red Indians. In northern Siberia, where the Tungus race has made a home, the native pipe shows marked Chinese characteristics, including the small bore, which contributes to the slow consumption of the scarce weed.

Avoid Foolish Vows

All unnecessary vows are folly, because they suppose a promise of the future which has not been given us.—Johnson.

Conclude Colony Life

Above of the Damned Mother Mary's Island, the largest of three small islands about 200 miles off the coast of Mexico, appears to the voyager like an ideal spot, a tropic paradise blessed by nature with unbounded fruitfulness, where life should be easy, untroubled and luxurious. But instead it is the Devil's island of Mexico, a penal colony, and all of its 2,000 inhabitants except the governor and his 80 guards and soldiers, are convicted criminals, desperate men, lost souls, chafing against captivity from which there is no escape. Most of the men have criminal records which, in other lands, would have sent them to the gallows or electric chair, and these are without hope of release save that of death, for none has managed to get away, though many have tried, says the Los Angeles Times.

A life sentence on the island is dreaded even more than the death sentence. This is because escape is impossible, for man-eating sharks abound in the surrounding waters and make the work of the guards comparatively easy. Those who have attempted to get away by swimming to freedom have served only to whet the appetites of the lurking monsters.

LEXINGTON NEWS

Mr. Myles Gilman has purchased the Essie F. inter house and has moved his family into it. Mrs. Susan Gherkins, mother of Mrs. Emma Cox, visited her daughter for a few days. On Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Cox, accompanied by Mrs. Gherkins, went to Arlington where they attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Montague.

There were a couple of ladies in town soliciting for the Near East Relief. From these ladies we learn that the people of Lexington were most generous and that the subject would be brought before the lodge at its next meeting and also be presented to the people at both of the churches during their Sunday services.

We are sorry to report that there is a lot of sickness in our town at present. Trying colds seem to be the general ailment. Among those who are on the sick list are Dona Baroett, Case Fuqua and Mrs. Gailley Johnson.

The prospective graduates are wearing a pleased look, warranted by the class rings which recently came. The students are exceptionally well pleased with their rings.

There will be a mass meeting in Leathers' Hall Friday, October 15 for the purpose of nominating officers for our town of Lexington.

Mrs. Sadie Lewis who has been sick for some time is improving and we are glad to see her about town again.

Mrs. Helen Walker, the County School Superintendent, paid our school a very pleasant call last Friday.

Freedom's Ideals

Only free peoples can hold their purpose and their honor steady to a common end, and prefer the interests of mankind to any narrow interest of their own.—Woodrow Wilson.

"Lexington Hi News"

The first football game of the season was scheduled with Boardman for October 2 but was called off by Boardman because they lacked enough players.

The first game played was with Condon on the Lexington field last Saturday. The teams were evenly matched and neither side gained a score.

A pep rally was held Friday afternoon for the purpose of rousing pep for the game with Condon. The entire school took part which showed that the boys were backed by the school one hundred per cent. An added feature was a pep song given by the sixth, seventh and eighth grades.

Buster Gentry returned from Corvallis Sunday, and entered high school as a senior on Monday. The Senior Class met and elected the following list of officers: Harold Sherer, president; Edward Keller, vice president; Mable Wright secretary, Charles Wilcox, treasurer and Eva Podberg, sergeant-at-arms.

A week ago Friday night the Freshman reception was given in the gymnasium. After the eleven "green ones" had been taken through the various degrees of initiation, the upper classmen had a change of heart and served appetizing refreshments.

A mixed program is being planned by the high school to be given sometime in November.

The Philadelphia of Our Ancestors

Here is shown a section of "High Street," a reproduction of Philadelphia's famous Market street in the days of 1776. It is one of the outstanding features of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition now being held in Philadelphia to commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Every building has been built to actual size and in actual architectural detail. The furnishings of each building are exact reproductions of those used in the Revolutionary days. Many of the pieces on display are the originals and today are worth thousands of dollars because of their historic value. The Exposition continues until December 1.

Add One Thing More to Wonders of Radio

R. M. sends us the story of a young bride who asked her husband to copy off a radio recipe she wanted, says the Boston Transcript. He did his best but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. This is what he took down: "Hands on hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knees and depress toes and mix thoroughly in one-half cupful of milk. Repeat six times. Inhale quickly one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, lower the legs and mash two hard-boiled eggs in a sieve. Exhale, breathe naturally and sit into a bowl. Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a ball. In ten minutes remove from the fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm dannels and serve with fish soup."

Accidents of Nature

Great voices are rare and undoubtedly owe their wonderful parity of tone to an accidental combination of these physical characteristics which lead to the production of song. The human musical instrument, though built of living tissues, resembles in structure the reed organ pipe fitted with a vox humana stop. In both cases the note depends on the vibrations of a column of air produced in the organ by a reed and in the voice by the vocal cords. The human air chamber corresponding to the organ pipe is composed of the larynx and the bronchial system beneath it. The throat, mouth and nasal cavities form the resonators which, by alternation in shape and size, are able to pick out and emphasize component parts of the fundamental tones produced in the larynx. The lungs form the bellows which produce the upward blast of air, and upon their quality depends the loudness of the voice.

Loss From Rust Enormous

The astounding amount of $200,000,000 of metal is consumed each year by rust, it is estimated. Paint and other means merely retard it. The only hope of stopping it is the development of rust-proof metals.
