

THE DOOM TRAIL

by ARTHUR D. HOWDEN SMITH

AUTHOR OF PORTO BELLO GOLD ETC.

W.N.U. SERVICE COPYRIGHT BY BRENTANO'S

LIKE living in the present and watching a vivid reconstruction of the past, is this stirring tale of the early settlement of northern New York and the Great Lakes region. A romance of the fur trade and its effects upon England, France and the American colonies. Presents such picturesque and powerful personalities as Governor Burnet, Cadwalader Colden and the great chiefs of the Senecas, Mohawks, Onondagas and other tribes, and fictionally, the sinister Andrew Murray in the days before the author made him a pirate and celebrated him in that other thrilling story, "Porto Bello Gold."

This Splendid Historical Romance will be carried as a Serial in

GRANGE TO ASK AID OF ALL FARM BODIES

Portland, Me.—Farm organizations throughout the country will be asked to support the farm relief program and other agricultural projects which the national grange adopted at its 60th annual meeting here. This was announced by Louis J. Taber of Ohio, national master of the grange, after a meeting of the executive committee. The National Grange adopted a resolution recommending the leasing of Muscle Shoals to a responsible company making the best offer and complying with conditions designed to benefit agriculture. A resolution was also adopted that "no more federal appropriations for new reclamation projects shall be made until existing conditions or more farm products than can be profitably marketed are ended." It also opposed "any legislation looking to further centralized control of the federal farm loan system," and any change in the ineligible alien clause of the Johnson Immigration bill. Other resolutions urged that the parcel post system be put on a business basis and that it accept for shipment agricultural necessities now barred. Liberal state and federal appropriations for the extermination of the corn borer were advocated.

"A FULL HOUSE"

The play entitled "A Full House" was given by the lone High School last Friday evening, Nov. 19, in the school auditorium.

The play was interesting and very humorous from start to finish. Mildred Smith, taking the part of the dumb maid, Susie, blossomed into a real comedian. Gene Engelman represented Nicholas King, a thief, and furnished many a laugh by his sly actions and determined looks. Fern Engelman was excellent as a flapper; in fact each one seemed fitted for the part selected for him and played his part well. Much of the success of the play was due to the coach, Mrs. Patterson.
