IONE, OREGON, FRIDAY, Jan. 28, 1927

NUMBER 35

SCHOOL NOTES

Last Friday night the Ione High School boys basket ball teams encountered local teams.

The first game was between the grammar school and second high school teams, although the latter won, the Grammar school team showed better team work but had hard luck at shooting baskets. The final score was 5-2.

The second game was the town team and the High School first team. It was fast and interesting the final score being 22-24 in the high school's favor.

The lineup for the games was as follows:

G. S.	H. S.
N. Swanson	L. F. E. Hummel
H. Medlock	R. G. K. Akers
M. Morgan	R. F. I. Ritchie
E. McCabe	F. G. W. Akers
B. Cool	C. C. McCabe
R. Fletcher	Sub.
T. T.	H. S.
Linn	L. F. Ritchie
Lundell	R. F. Lundell
Brashears	L. G. Mason
Swanson	R. G. Balsiger
Engelman	C. Clark

The Freshman class felt rather "puffed up" when it fell to them to judge the best "Senior" theme to be printed this week. The following theme by Dave Head received first place.

IT SHALL BE DONE.

Billy Logan laid aside his magazine and sighed, "If every boy had as much pep as the hero in this story we would all be winners. He had been reading a stirring story called 'The Go Getter', by Peter B. Kyne, in which the hero had for a motto, 'It Shall Be Done'. Billy had a big fight coming just three weeks away that he was none too sure about, but he had a strong will and immediately set about training for the battle. The night for the smoker arrived, and of course Billy was there in his war paint. After some fast preliminaries and good wrestling, the fatal bout was announced. Billy heard the announcer say, 'In this corner you see Billy Logan, 140 lbs." Billy rose, bowed, and quietly took his seat again.

Presently he was summoned to the center of the ring by the referee and, after being formally introduced to his opponent, he returned to his corner. The bell rang and the fight was on. During the first round it was nip in favor of either so evenly were they matched. In the second round, the former give and take battle changed to a more scientific game. Billy's enemy was clever without a doubt. About the time Billy began to realize this, he received a stunning blow over the eye which sent him to the mat. The referee counted . . . 1, 2, 3. Billy tried to rise but was unable. The referee continued counting 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and had started to say 9 when, luckily for Billy, the bell rang. He was safe for that round. Somehow he got back to his corner. His seconds worked frantically over him. After his rest, he felt much relieved and on hearing the bell advanced toward his opponent. Still unsteady from the unlucky blow, he went into it and again his enemy laid him down but not to sleep. The story flashed through his mind and also the famous motto: "It Shall Be Done".

Billy rose and with much determination, advanced toward his opponent. When about three feet from him he made a flying leap bringing the upper cut that had made him famous, catching his opponent a trim blow on the chin. This time his enemy took the count and the bell didn't save him. As the crowd came crowding into the ring to congratulate Billy on his success, he could not help chuckling. "It Shall Be Done".
