SCHOOL NOTES

IONE MEETS DEFEAT

Condon Basketeers Win
By a Narrow Margin.

Last Friday night the Ione high school teams met defeat on the lone floor, at the hands of the Condon teams.

The girls were defeated by a score of 24 to 5.

The game between the boy teams was exciting and well played, both teams played hard. It was Ione's game with thirty seconds to play, then Condon made a lucky shot, the whistle blew and the game was over.

The final score was 16-17. The line up for the games was as follows:

Girls.		Boys
Ione	Condon	Ione	Condon
Fletcher	Thornel	Ritchie	Walker
Engelman	Erwin	Lundell	Willemont
Gunzel		Clark	Morgan
Swanson	Hardie	Balsiger	Coodwin
Grabill	Gross	Mason	Fox
Farrens	Wiholi
Ritchie	Grider

On the night of Feb. 11, the local high school teams will visit Lexington in a return game of basket ball, there will be three games, the boy's game, the girl's game and the scrub game. All are expected to be lively and interesting.

Come out and help us win.

IT CAN BE DONE

There was a very sullen look on Eddie's face as he stalked into the assembly. He slammed his books in his desk, flung himself into his seat, and grumbled to himself. At this time the teacher said, Edward, after this, please come into the assembly more quietly and learn to conduct yourself as a gentleman.

This infuriated Eddie to such an extent that he almost choked with rage. Then he said to himself, "Why do they all pick on me? I try my best and then they say, 'I believe your work would improve if you would look at your lesson before you come to class. I think I'll just quit trying.' for he refused to blame himself, even though he knew that he did not study.

"But gee," he thought, "you can't have any fun studying and a feller has to have a good time once in a while, but I'll fix that blame sarcastic English teacher for bawling me out. I won't even study tomorrow; then I'll see if she won't give me some credit for studying before."

The bell rang loudly and school was dismissed. Aubrey Allen Andrews, who deserved his name because he obtained all A's, looked at the downhearted Eddie. He liked him, for he was a good, clean sport, but he didn't see why Eddie would not study.

Then Aubrey slapped Eddie on the shoulders and said, "What's the matter, old man? You look like you've been sent for and couldn't come."

"Oh hang it all Audrey, you know what's the matter," was Eddie's retort.

Probably English again. Why you buck up, old scout, and tackle that English with vim? We need you, Eddy. We must have you for this team; then there's the senior play and I know darn well you want to graduate."

"I know its all easy for you," Eddie said bitterly, "but then you don't understand. I haven't had the back ground; then she's always picken' on me. I don't see how anyone can get that sentence structure. I try to write a theme and its only criticism, criticism, criticism!"

"Well, said Aubrey, "why don't you go to the teacher and tell her? She'll help you."

"Do you think for a moment that I would go whining to her? Why, sh'd only laugh at me," was the angry retort.

"Well, you have to do it. Remember - 'It can be done,' said Aubrey.

At these last words an odd expression came over Eddie's face. Then he grinned broadly and said "Say, old boy, that's quite the thing. 'It can be done you know.' "Then he added, but how can it? I just must have some kind of a foundation."

Aubrey offered to teach him all he knew about sentence structure.

The next Monday the teacher called upon Eddie to read his which she criticised severely. He knew it was not very well written, but somehow he felt as if he were improving.

Four weeks had passed. Eddie had studied industriously. His work had improved greatly, too. He spoke with, for he knew that his English was better than the average student's. Aubrey who had helped him much, was indeed surprised to see that Eddie learned the English so easily.

Then an exciting day came. The report for the first six weeks were being given out to the pupils. Eddie received his, looked at it, grinned, nudged Aubrey, then said, "I say, old man, it can be done you know."

Katheryn Feldman

The primary grade notes were written by a little second grader, Margaret Lindkein.

Junior Mason, Charlot McCabe, Katheryn Griffith, Betty Bergevin, Stuart Rankin, Howard Crowell, Grace Rowell, Inez Merritt, Robert Warfield, and Harry Norwoyle, have been absent from our room on account of colds and bad weather.

We have an "ain't box" in our room. The boys and girls are having a hard time keeping their names out of the "ain't box". We want to speak good English in our room.

Our room is racing to see how many can be Healthy O. Brownies. We don't want any Grimy Joes in our room.

We want whoever can to come and visit our room and watch us work and play.

Perfect record for four weeks "Health Campaign" in the third and fourth grades: Mildred Lundell, Miriam Hale, Leo Young, Valdis Wood, Margerite Troge, Elsworth Bullard, Helen Grabill, Mable Cool, Ernest Heliker.

Ina Morgan, Baulah Pettyjohn Mary Grabill, and Ralph Mason were absent from School were absent from school.

The Grades and High school have started to work for the Declamatory Contest. We hope to represent our school as well as we did last year.

Our High School basket ball teams entertained Condon teams after the evening games by serving chocolate, fruit salads and sandwiches.
