TO MORROW COUNTY FARMERS

Your Squirrel Poison Is Now Ready.

Now is the time to get your squirrels. Squirrels can be poison ed easier and cheaper in the Spring than later. Many farms in Morrow County are entirely free of this rodent. All of them should be.
It is the only county in the State where squirrel poison is furnished for the cost of the oats. Poison is available in thirty-cent and sixty cent bags at the following named places:

Mason's Store, Ione; Morgan Store, Morgan; Beach's Store, Lexington; Cash Store, Hardman; Eightmile Store, Eightmile; and County Agent's Office, Heppner.

Directions for the control of pocket gopher will be sent to any farmer being bothered by this pest.

It is also possible to control rats by the use of calcium cyanide. If there is sufficient call for it a ousting gun can be secured by this County to loan to farmers for cleaning up the rats around the farmstead.

The County Agent has arranged for a small shipment of certified Netted Gem potato seed into the County for demonstration purposes. Farmers who wish to try out some of this seed should get in touch with the County Agent at once.

Very truly yours,
R. W. Morse,
County Agent.

The Dorcas Society will hold its annual Easter Sale, Saturday, April 9, at the McMurray building.
Besides the usual Food and Fancy Work on sale at this time the ladies will have a complete line of stamped goods.

SUPERINTENDENT OF BANKS

U. P. APPOINTS NEW ADVERTISING AGENT

New Appointee A Bear

Mr. A. S. Edmonds, Assistant Traffic Manager of the Union Pacific at Portland, has announced the appointment of Mr. Walter S. Bear to the position of Advertising Agent if the System in the Northwest made vacant by the recent retirement of Mr. A. C.
Jackson, whose tenure of thirty five years closed on March 1.

Mr. Bear comes into this new responsibility more than ordinarily well qualified, having been Mr. Jackson's Assistant for upwards of seventeen years. He is a native of Illinois, and following his school studies, turned his attention to newspaper work, gaining his first experience in the "hell box" of the composing room. Later he graduated into an all-round handy man for both the editorial and mechanical departments of the country newspaper, and regards that training as having been the foundation of his business activities in later life.

Following a few years in the commercial atmosphere of St. Louis, Mo., he yielded to the lure of the West, and landed in Portland in 1910, finding immediate employment in the advertising work of the Union Pacific.

U. S. VETERANS' BUREAU

Application forms for Adjusted Service Certificate loans are now available to World War Veterans at any postoffice of Oregon and this Regional District, according to information received by Kenneth L. Cooper, Regional manager of the U. S. Veterans' Bureau from headquarters in Washington, D. C. Loans can be secured upon the execution of the war veteran's note and proper identification after April 1, 1927.

American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, D. A. V. of W. W. and Red Cross officials as well as postmasters have been authorized and instructed to assist in preparing these loan requests.

Prospective borrowers are urged that loan requests be examined and mailed to the regional office of the Veterans Bureau, together with the Adjusted Service Certificate, rather than to secure personal contact with the Bureau Office. Such action will bring more prompt and satisfactory result than a visit to the government office. There is no advantage in personal contact with a Bureau representative, postmasters and service organizations being qualified to assist war veterans in this matter.

Mr. Cooper states too that there should be a definite need for the loan before the request is made.
If a local bank is willing to make the loan, the Bureau should not be requested to do so.

You will need a Gold Digger whether you go to Nevada or not.

OREGON EXPORTS

The export movement of manufactured doors from Portland during the first three months of the current year is more than double the movement during the same period in 1926, according to a weekly letter issued by the Traffic Department of the Port of Portland Commission.

RECEPTION

A reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Linn at the Christian church on Thursday evening of this week. The occasion was the approaching departure of the Linn's for Vernonia, Oregon.
They expect to leave lone some time this coming week. Mrs. Linn will tarry awhile on the way visiting with friends in Portland.

Well Was He Called

"Wise Ben Franklin"

"I made it a rule to forbear all direct contradiction to the sentiments of others, and all positive assertions of my own," wrote Benjamin Franklin in his autobiography. "I even forbid myself the use of every word or expression in the language that imported a fixed opinion, such as certainly, undoubtedly, ly, etc., and I adopted, instead of them, I conceive, I apprehend, or I imagine a thing to be so or so; or it so appears to me at the present. When another asserted something that I thought an error, I denied myself the pleasure of contradicting him abruptly, and of showing immediately some absurdity in his proposition; and in answering I began by observing that in certain cases or circumstances his opinion would be right, but in the present case there appear'd or seem'd to me some difference, etc. I soon found the advantage of this change in my manner; the conversation I en-gag'd in went on more pleasantly. The modest way in which I propos'd my opinions procur'd them a readier reception and less contradiction; I had less mortification when I was found to be in the wrong, and I more easily prevail'd with others to give up their mistakes and join with me when I happened to be in the right."

Mother-in-Law Gives

Voice to Reflections

"I thought for a while that Harold was going to get out to the golf course stone, but just as he was leaving Min-nie's new trousers were delivered.
"Lamech and I lived happily together many years, but he never played a game of any kind after we were married except once. We went to the volunteer fireman's picnic and he played baseball for two or more minutes. He was laid up four days.
"Minnie's husband works harder at his play than he does his job. Lamech used to watch the weather signs to keep from losing his crops. Many's the time his rheumatic knee has given him warning to get the hay in off the south forty. In the spring and summer Harold reads the forecasts to see if the weather is likely to be bad enough to make him go to the office.
"Of course, Minnie makes him take his recreations seriously. I've noticed a woman who can wear sport clothes usually advocates golf for her husband. But if Minnie isn't any better swinging a club than she is a broom it is a waste of good all-wool cloth to put her on the links."—Exchange.

Strictly Business

A celebrated Welsh basso profundo, after years of fame, returned to his native village in the wilds of Cardig-anshire. A charity concert was arranged, and the world-famous virtuoso was billed to sing "The Village Blacksmith." Just before the concert a local supporter came around to the artist's dressing room.

The visitor approached the artist and said: "I understand that you are going to sing a song, 'The Village Blacksmith.' Well, I'm telling you now that I am the village blacksmith and I want to say that if by any chance you get an encore, will you shove in an extra verse to say that I also let out bikes on 'fire at sixpence an hour'?"—"Taffy Tales From Welsh Wales."

Good Reading

Good literature has a charm incomparable, but it has also a power immeasurable in the forming or transforming of a nation as of an individual character. The people that have the clearest, healthiest literature will become the cleanest and healthiest people. A good thought wisely expressed and thoughtfully applied is priceless for its endurance. Throw it on the winds and it will find its bourn; sink it in the deepest water and it will reach its haven, for the noblest thoughts are the breath of Almightiness, and remain imperishable to the end of time and beyond.—Exchange.

Feminine Philosophy

It is Minnie, de Steel who loves to quote that inimitable definition of Schelling, "architecture is frozen music." It is she, the most famous woman of her century, who finds that "for women glory is only a brilliant mourning worn for happiness," and that "everything which does not touch one's heart leaves one's life free."

On a profounder subject she says:
"The mystery of existence is the connection between our sins and our sorrows. I have never done a wrong which has not been the cause of a misfortune," and, "One must take care.
If one can, that the decline of this life be the youth of the next. To forget self without ceasing to be interested in others gives the soul something of the divinity."—From "The Women of the Salons," by S. G. Tal-lantyre.

Her Version

A child, who is in the first grade at school, returned home one evening, and, at the dinner table, repeated a riddle that she had heard at school that day.

"If a man were locked up in a house for two weeks, and there was no food in the house, what would he eat?" After a few minutes of unsuccessful attempts to guess the answer, the members of the family "gave up" and requested the solution.

"Why, he would eat the raisins on the calendar and drink the milk from the bed," replied the child. The answer had been: "The dates on the calendar and water from the springs in the bed."
