NUMBER 45

SCHOOL NOTES

Friday evening, March 25, Ione school held a declamatory contest for the purpose of choosing two pupils from the lower four grades, two from the upper four grades and three from the high school to represent the school at Heppner, in the County Contest, April 22.

There were 29 pupils who participated in the contest. The judges were Mr. and Mrs. Walker of Heppner and Miss Lindberg of Willamette University.

Those chosen were:
Division I; Non-humorous, Junior Mason; Humorous, Winnie Brown
Division II; Minnie Normile, Louise Minor.
Division III; Humorous, Thelma Morgan; Oratorical, Everette Everette Hummel; Dramatic, Kathryn Feldman.

Last Friday afternoon the 7th and 8th Grades had charge of the assembly and entertained the students and visitors with the following program:

A Reading — "Jennie Entertains Sister's Beau", Ellen Ritchie.
A Piano Solo, Hazel Padberg.
A Reading "When Jimmie Goes to Bed", Raymond Fletcher.

The last number was especially interesting as the Seventh Grade quartette was unable to sing. The difficulty was found that the song they were to sing was apparently not on the page it should have been. Instead, the page proved to be an April Fool Announcement.

JUNIOR-SENIOR BANQUET

On Friday evening, April first, the annual Junior-Senior Banquet was given.

The Juniors invited their guests to a costume party in the Odd Fellows' Hall, where all enjoyed games and music during the first part of the evening.

At nine o'clock the entire party adjourned to the hotel dining room, where a banquet was served. The room was attractively decorated in blue and gold, the Senior Class colors. Boquets of yellow Daffodils, in blue vases adorned the table. Covers were laid for twenty-six. The most entertaining feature of the evening was the delivered of telegrams by small messenger boy to each one present. The telegrams which were read aloud revealed some startling disclosures. After the banquet, all returned to the Odd Fellows' hall to spend the remainder of a very enjoyable evening.

Taken at His Word

One day while riding on a crowded street car I noticed a woman standing in the throng struggling with many bundles and a baby. Thinking of being of some assistance, I inquired, "Can't I relieve you of some of your bundles?" To my surprise, she handed me the baby.

My bachelor dignity was already at the zero point, but when I noticed a group of giggling girls who were students in my class at the city high school my mortification was complete. I assure you my embarrassment did not end with the incident.—E. N. A. B., in Chicago Tribune.

Not the Curate's Fault

A clergyman, called away suddenly and unable to officiate at the services in his church, entrusted his new curate with the duty. On his return home he asked his wife what she thought of the curate's sermon.

"The poorest I ever heard," she declared; "nothing in it at all."

Later in the day the clergyman, meeting his curate, asked him how he had got on.

"Splendidly, sir," replied the curate. "I didn't have time to prepare anything myself, so I preached one of your sermons."—London Answers.

"The Crucifixion" is the title of a lecture to be given at the American Legion Hall of this city next April 13th, by the Reverend Enoch Sandeen, Field Secretary of the Columbia Conference of the Lutheran Church. The lecture will be accompanied by some 125 stereopticon slides, illustrating each event in the last week of the life of Jesus Christ. Some of these pictures are especially interesting as they are actual photographs of the places visited by the Master during his days of sorrow. Others are reproductions of the best in religious art while some are taken from the Passion Play at Oberammergau. The story of Christ's suffering will be unfolded in three acts, the first taking up the events leading up to the arrest in Gethsemane, the second to the condemnation, and the third to the death on the cross. In the first act the celebration of the passover is given special consideration, in the second the trial, and in the third the crucifixion. In the latter both the biblical and the traditional aspect of the crucifixion will be considered. Several songs accompany the story. Solos like "In the Garden," "Calvary," "The Green Hill," "He was crucified for me," will be sung by Mrs. Sandeen and others. Illustrated hymns will be sung by the audience.

The lecture will be given under the auspices of the Lutheran Church and will be free to all who wish to attend. An offering will be taken, however, in favor of The Lutheran Hospital, Astoria, Oregon.

Hard to Stop Legend

Once Started on Way

It is rather interesting to watch a legend in the course of growth, remarks the Manchester Guardian and cites the case of the ancient chalice which was recently found and which after a hectic newspaper career is now so far advanced that it is honored by some as the cup that served the Lord at the Last Supper. It was a similar jumping at conclusions which involved medieval legend makers in some hopeless tangles, Pierre Van Passen comments, in the Atlanta Constitution. The classical case is that of the Eleven Thousand Virgins of Cologne. Diggings in the Twelfth century brought to light a big collection of human bones. An ecstatic woman proclaimed them at once to be the remains of the Eleven Thousand martyrs. Further search showed the bones of men were among the piles. The ecstatic lady was not put out. She declared at once that certain ecclesiastical had been put to death with the virgins. Worse followed. The bones of children were found. Were the seers defeated? By no means. Entire families had been put to death with the 11,000, they said. Modern research made an end to the whole farce by establishing the fact that the bones were those of the first Roman colonists in Cologne and that they had been buried in a catacomb cemetery.
