NUMBER 47

MORROW-GILLIAM COUNTY GAMES

The Ione base ball club lost their second straight game of the Morrow-Gilliam County League to Heppner last Sunday by a 2 to one score. Despite the miserable wind and dust storm the boys were compelled to play in it was a good game.

Ione chalked up the first score of the game in the 5th inning on an error by Allen, Heppner right fielder, and a two base by Frank Lundell. Heppner tied the score in the 6th on an error, a stolen base and a two base hit. Nothing more happened until in the 9th when a hit batsman, a stolen base and an error gave Heppner the winning run. Ione succeeded in getting two men on in the 9th but the next two were easy outs.

Davis, local pitcher has been pitching wonderful ball. He has allowed only 12 hits and has struck out 43 men in the last three games.

With such pitching as that Ione should break into the winning column soon.

Ione plays at Condon, Sunday and Heppner takes on Arlington at Heppner.

SCHOOL NOTES

Are you sure that you know where that quarter is that you put away for the high school program next Friday evening, April 29th?

The evening will afford plenty of opportunities to smile, and so come prepared.

Two one act plays—"Peggy's Predicament" and "The Little Red Mare" will be given along with many other interesting features. In the first play the cook becomes unmanageable just as a bride's mother-in-law is expected to come for luncheon. Peggy's friends help to solve her "predicament."

The second comedy is a general mix-up, full of plenty of fun caused by the fact that the little red mare and the deaf farmer's daughter are both named Nellie.

We promise you an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

Don't miss it! Admission 15 and twenty five cents.

The Primary room had charge of the assembly program last Friday. The audience was taken for a trip through Holland.

Feminine Philosophy

It is Mamma, de Stuel who loves to quote that inimitable definition of Schelling, "architecture is frozen music." It is she, the most famous woman of her century, who finds that "for women glory is only a brilliant mourning worn for happiness," and that "everything which does not touch one's heart leaves one's life free."

On a profounder subject she says, "The mystery of existence is the connection between our sins and our sorrows. I have never done a wrong which has not been the cause of a misfortune;" and, "One must take care, if one can, that the decline of this life be the youth of the next. To forget self without ceasing to be interested in others gives the soul something of the divine."—From "The Women of the Salons," by S. G. Tallentyre.

Her Version

A child, who is in the first grade at school, returned home one evening and, at the dinner table, repeated a riddle that she had heard at school that day.

"If a man were locked up in a house for two weeks, and there was no food in the house, what would he eat?" After a few minutes of unsuccessful attempts to guess the answer, the members of the family "gave up" and requested the solution.

"Why, he would eat the raisins on the calendar and drink the milk from the bed," replied the child. The answer had been: "The dates on the calendar and water from the springs in the bed."
