Splendid Oval Rug

Woven for Theater
What is considered the world's largest oval rug was recently completed by an American company for a popular New York theater. It was a chenille rug 1 inch in thickness, 41 by 58 feet, oval in size, with one seam lengthwise in the fabric. Thirty-three hundred pounds of surface yarn were dyed and 1,200 pounds of backing spun for the rug, which, when sheared and completed, weighed over two tons. As a central ornament the rug design has the letter R, symbolizing the name of the theater manager. This letter is surrounded by motifs framed from the microphone. The central ornament is supported by four shields displaying musical instruments and motifs derived from light, the spectrum and movie reels. These are embodied in a large oval panel through which are dispersed various animal forms. The outer field is surrounded by a heavy border. The main field is woven in tones of crimson and gold, the panels in blues, taupe and complementary shades.

THE FEATHERHEADS They Compromise

Old Coliseum Turned Into Trysting Place

The coliseum by the light of a full moon. Perhaps there are few more beautiful sights in the world. Moreover, it is a loveliness which serves more than an esthetic purpose, for this monument of all that was glorious in one of the greatest civilizations the world has known is now above all things a trysting place on moonlight nights.

Any one who walks down the Corso in Rome on a moonlight night and turns to the left past the enormous white mass of the Victor Emmanuel monument is sure to meet on his way many a couple strolling arm in arm, all in the same direction. They stop, usually, in the Roman forum to look for a moment or two at its fantastic ruins—like so many desolate ghosts of a vanished past—and then go on, under the high arches of the coliseum and across the arena, losing themselves finally in the friendly shadows of its protecting walls.

Here they may look across, if they care, to where the moon has lighted for them a vision of unforgettable beauty, softening the harsh outlines that centuries of time have heaped out of its once perfect symmetry.

Parties of Americans come by, with this guide, who points up to where the tiers of seats rose high in the air; where vestal virgins sat to enjoy the slaughter of gladiators and the martyrdom of hundreds of Christians; where the emperors marched proudly to their box amid the wild acclamation of the multitude, only to pass on, leaving some dim memory.

As the tourists go the guide can still be heard for a moment or two; "Here were the dungeons in which Christian martyrs were kept. Here the colla where wild beasts were starved three days that they might be famished when let loose." And here now where the gentle breeze seems freighted with the sighs of unhappy phantoms come back to haunt again the scene of their martyrdom or triumph, 2,000 years later, Jack and Jill sit together in the light of the moon.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

After Long Suffering by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

In a little town of the middle West, was a discouraged woman. For four months she had been in such poor health that she could not stoop to put on her own shoes. Unable to do her work, unable to go out of doors or enjoy a friendly chat with her neighbors, life seemed dark indeed to Mrs. Daugherty.

Then one day, a booklet was left at her front door. Idly she turned the pages. Soon she was reading with quickened interest. The little booklet was filled with letters from women in conditions similar to hers who had found better health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"I began taking the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Daugherty writes, "and after I took the third bottle, I found relief. I am on my eleventh bottle and I don't have that trouble any more, and feel like a different woman. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to everyone I see who has trouble like mine, and you can use these facts as a testimonial. I am willing to answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. DAUGHERTY, 1308 Orchard Ave., Muscatine, Iowa.

Sugar Be Praised
Dr. Woods Hutchinson finds health in the sugar bowl habit. Pitying our forefathers, he says they obtained their carbohydrates, not in gannulated sweetness, but in cannon-ball dumplings, loaded with chunks of fat, spices and sour prunes, which they called plum pudding. Small wonder, he says, those dumpling-eating pioneers awoke with a head like a concertina, and a mouth like a lime kiln.

Russia's "Sunday College"
Russia's first "Sunday university" for peasants has just opened in the town of Gorky, in White Russia, writes the Moscow correspondent of the Christian Science Monitor. The Sunday university is an established institution in the Russian cities and might be compared with university extension courses in America. Its purpose is to give broader education to wage earners who are unable to carry on their studies on week days. The peasant university will offer a two-year course of instruction and will specialize in agricultural subjects.
