Picture Writing Goes Far Back in History

"It is an interesting reflection, points out David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, "that after thousands of years of communication experience mankind will probably go back, not in the too far future, to picture transmission-pictures of words as well as of photographic reproductions of images -for the basis of its written communication system. We are just entering upon the era of communication by the square inch."

Thousands of years ago picture writing was the only known method of communication. Subsequently, as a means of saving time, conventions of one sort or another were adopted. symbols which stood for the picture writing describing an object. Later came the alphabet, a still faster method of compounding pictures or words to express thought. Communication was carried on with the alphabet un til the telegraph was invented. It brought with it dots and dashes, used to represent the letters of the alphabet. Dots and dashes were the fastest means of communication until the telephone was developed.

Now, however, science has discovered a method whereby an entire message can be frunsmitted with one operation, and apparently the speed of communication again has been in-creased. With it, instead of starting with the address and following word for word through the signature, an exnet duplicate of the matter to be transmitted can be registered in the receiving office. The process still is slow, but progress is being made daily, and it seems certain that before long practically instantaneous visual transmission of messages of any sort will be possible
