Art Treasures Found Under Italian Cities

Almost any Italian public improvement or building construction which involves excavation is likely to turn up archaeological curiosities, if not treasures. This is particularly true of ancient centers, like Rome or Naples, where one community lives on top of what was the site of an earlier community. Beautiful vases were turned up by workmen when Rome's stately Via Veneto was repaved recently.

A teamster engaged in carting away earth for a port improvement at Ancona found a collection of valuable gold coins. Heavy ruins in recent months brought to light a magnificent Roman mosaic at Gergenti, near Naples. The mosaic was originally discovered in 1806, but was covered up "to avoid spoiling the street."

It was forgotten until the rain revealed it as a rare and beautiful work of art. It has now been lifted and transported to the archeological museum at Naples. The mosaic consists of a central square 7 feet 7 inches by 55 feet 10 inches, decorated with geometrical designs, rosettes, stars and vividly tinted yellows, reds and blues. The mosaic weighs four tons and measures 200 square feet.

Don't forget that Cole Smith writes both hail and fire insurance on grain. Better get covered now and protect yourself.

Mule Long Imprisoned

When his mule disappeared, Dan Darling, pioneer farmer of Nixon, Texas, started a fardling search for him, without avail, even putting out postcards with a reward for his return. Two weeks later, he happened to cross a dry creek in the middle of his pasture, and found the mule wedged in between two banks in such a way that he could not get out. Darling procured help, and released the mule, which had not suffered much in spite of his long stay without food or water.—Indianapolis News.
