FACTS--- NOT DREAMS.

FIVE years ago the possibility of extending electrical service to any considerable number of farms was problematical. Yet within three years the number of electrified farms in 27 states has nearly doubled. Two hundred ways in which electricity can make farming pay greater dividends in greater dividends in living comfort and dollar producing efficiency have been developed.

Ruled by the hard-won facts of engineering science, not by theories or dreams, the electric light and power industry is to-day making one of the few real contributions to the solution of the farmer's problem.

A national rural electric project near Washington is now undertaking the study of new electric labor saving devices and the electrical treatment of the soil and of crops to increase the productivity of farms.

FACTS are the foundation on which the light and power companies of America have built the structure of a public service unequalled in all the rest of the world.

There are today about 400,000 farms in America using electrical service. In four states alone, electricity was extended to 21,217 additional farms during 1927.

KNOW YOUR DRUGGIST BETTER - He's your doctor's right-hand man

"I Understand How Serious It Is"

THERE is serious sickness at home, and you hurry with the prescription the doctor has given you to your local prescription pharmacy. The pharmacist immediately senses the seriousness of the case from the medicine the doctor has ordered. Every minute that treatment is delayed counts against the patient.

Perhaps the prescription calls for a rare drug or a new remedy. Yes, the pharmacist assures himself he has every ingredient—he had prepared for emergencies. Coolly, deftly, accurately, he compounds the prescription, and carefully checks his work.

Such emergencies should help to impress on you that your prescription pharmacy is entitled to support. There isn't enough prescription business in most communities to support an exclusively prescription drug-store. Therefore the druggist must sell many sundries—he must be a merchant, too. Only by doing this can he make a living, and maintain his pharmacy, in equipment and efficiency, so that it may best serve the needs of the community and its physicians when serious sickness comes.

The Druggist who displays this sign emphasizes the professional side of his calling—that which calls for all his skill and care and knowledge—the filling of prescriptions. He uses Merck's prescription chemicals because he knows that for generations the products of Merck's Laboratories have had the confidence of both Physicians and Pharmacists.
