Notes of interest to All
Local Denominations

Sunday morning, Rev. Sacreson, of Colton, Oregon, conducted services in the Swedish language in the Lutheran church in the Gooseberry district. In the afternoon, all gathered at the E. R. Lundell home in Ione, where an especially interesting missionary meeting was held. At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served to 61. In the evening Rev. Sacreson held a preaching service in the Congregational church.

Mrs. George Franks, Mr. and Robert Helms and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rowell drove to Boardman Saturday, to attend Adventist services conducted by Elder Watson of McMinville.

Thumb Index to Mentality

The thumb is said to be an excellent indicator of character. Those who are in full possession of all their faculties make good use of their thumbs. Whenever there is a tendency to insanity this generally useful and active member falls out of work. A physician in charge of a lunatic asylum states positively that if you see a person whose thumb remains inactive—standing at right angles and taking no part in the act of writing, salutation, or manual exercise generally—you may be sure that he has a diseased mind. He may talk intelligently and appear sane in every respect, but undoubtedly a tinge of madness is lurking within his brain.

Breaking the News

Wife—Anne certainly was lucky to-day at bridge.
Husband—Did she win?
Wife—She won $50.
Husband—My goodness! I'll say she was lucky.
Wife—And, honey—
Husband—Yes?
Wife—I was the only one who lost.

Troubles in Flocks

Troubles are exceedingly gregarious in their nature, and flying in flocks are apt to perch capriciously.—Dickens

What's the Use?

Why strive for heaven, asks a reader in Farm and Fireside, when after reaching it we don't know it?

Figures Are Valuable

Only When Accurate

Statistics are like knives; they can be used for good or evil, observes Dr. Thurman B. Rice in Hygeia. The commonest sentence heard in debates usually begins: "Statistics prove that—" But Doctor Rice warns that statistics prove nothing except when they have been accurately collected, compiled, interpreted and applied.

In the hands of some devotee of a faddish project a given set of figures may prove or disprove anything. When one hears a speaker quote figures from memory or without giving the source of his information it is time to go home, says Doctor Rice. It is easy to forget whether a certain death rate was 14 per thousand or 14 per hundred thousand.

The unscientific man uses figures to prove what he started out to prove, while the scientist uses them to lead him to the truth.

The Rapacious Pike

The pike's reputation for ferocity and voraciousness is such that it has been popularly dubbed the "water wolf." It is probable, however, that many species of sea fish are equally, if not a great deal more, rapacious.

Large dogfish, congers, pollack, cod and bass are especially ferocious, while halibut will very often seize and kill other large fish. An English angler was "playing" a large conger when a huge halibut swam up to and savagely bit at it—a proceeding that cost the halibut its life, for on it making to the foreshore conger a second time the boatman contrived to gaff and haul it aboard.

There have been many examples of pike being found dead, choked by their own species, and these fish not infrequently attack another pike that has been hooked by a fisherman.

Big Bertha

"Big Bertha" had a firing distance of 75 miles. The principle on which this long-distance gun was operated is that if a shell is fired upward at an angle of 55 degrees to the horizontal, and at a high velocity, so that the shell will rise above the dense atmosphere close to the earth's surface and rapidly reach the thin air which exists at a height of ten miles above the earth, then its flight will be practically unimpeded and it will travel a great distance before it falls again. During its flight from the "Big Bertha" the German shell rose to a height of 24 miles, and traveled more than 50 miles of its course in a very thin atmosphere.
