Graduation Address

Earl A. Moser, professor of finance at the University of Oregon, has been chosen to give the commencement address to the Ione High School graduating class, May 17.

"Blazing Trails" will be the subject of Mr. Moser's talk, in which he points out that the trails blazed by the pioneers with their caravans of covered wagons are not all finished. There is yet much building awaiting the brain and energy of youth.

Mr. Moser is an excellent speaker and has had wide experience.

For three years he taught in the University of Cairo, Egypt and held positions in New York and Kansas City, previous to his coming to Oregon.

Poet's Pleasant Companion
Merrill Green, an English poet who was born in 1600 and died in 1737, proved himself a witty and pleasant companion for his friends and his employers while working in the customer's home and wishing to supply with milk the cats which were kept there. Green wrote a successful petition in that name.

At another time when a water man busied himself as he was bathing by calling out, "Quaker" and a friend asked how the sect could be detected when he was wearing no clothes, Green replied, "By my swimming up-stream."

In many of his writings his humor is especially in "Spleen," a poem published posthumously.

Eubanks, athletics manager. Altho' the officers elect were warmly welcomed, the high school regrets to lose such efficient and successful officers as those of the past year have been, but hopes that the new officers will do their best to follow in the Seniors' footsteps and advance the standard of "I. H. S."

Not Always Twins

Little twin sisters were invited in to see a newly arrived baby brother and stood looking at him very much interested, when one asked: "Where's the other one, mother?"

Extremes Meet
The sublime and the ridiculous are often so nearly related that it is difficult to class them separately. One step above the sublime makes the ridiculous, and one step above the ridiculous makes the sublime again.—Palme.

Origin of Knitting
Who was the first one to knit is unknown. That it is an ancient art is proved by a pair of socks, loosely knitted in fine goats' wool, being found on an Egyptian mummy of the date 7000 B. C.

We Have Living Evidence
Scientists have traced man back to a fish. It looks as though they're on the right track at last.—Adrian Daily Telegram.

No Time to Squabble
In the old days, thinks a philosopher in the American Magazine, families took up so much time making both ends meet that they didn't have time to squabble about anything.

Statistical Note
The only thing more numerous than the sands of the sea are the cures for flu.—Cincinnati Enquirer.
