THE FEATHERHEADS

Staving Off the Contract-Seekers

Just a Little Smile

PREPARED FOR STORM

A lawyer who had been married many years joined three friends in a stag party one night, and arrived home long after midnight. His wife, waiting up for him, had fallen asleep in her chair, but she awakened as he stepped into the house carrying a raised umbrella.

"What are you doing with that umbrella over your head in this room?" she demanded.

"I expect a storm to break any minute, now," he answered.

WHOLESALE

"See that man. He's one of the famous motion picture stars and one of our best customers."

"You don't say?"

"Yes, he has a standing order for one dozen engagement rings per month."

Auditorial Charm

My radio! My radio!
I listen and rejoice.
Your thought may be a trifle slow,
But still I love your voice.

Not Quite the Biggest

"I despise hypocrites. Take Smithson, for example; he's the biggest hypocrite on earth."

"But you appear to be his best friend."

"Oh, yes; I try to appear friendly toward him. It pays better in the end."

A LIGHT BLOW

Judge—You say you struck your husband only a light blow. Where did you hit him and with what?

Accused Lady—On the head with a lamp, your honor.

It All Depends

I must be a double boy.
And not like other laddies;
When I'm good I'm mummy's child,
But when I'm bad I'm daddy's.

That's What It Was

Miss Jazzbo—I've wanted to know you ever since you moved into the building. I wanted to ask who it is that plays the saxophone so lovely in your flat.

Miss Littleflat—We've got no saxophone there, but pa snores something awful.

Both in Search

Former Maid—You told my new mistress I was a thief. I can't find words to express my indignation.

Former Mistress—And we can't find six pair of stockings, two tablecloths and eight towels.—Pathfinder.

Single and Rich

Featherstone—I had great luck this morning. Found a $10 bill in my last summer's suit.

Rockyford—No! Why, I thought you were married.

Then She Roasted Him

"What's to be done about dinner?" demanded his wife, looking around the disorder of the camp.

"Everything, I hope," growled her husband, "for I hate half-cooked stuff!"

Close Connections

Appleby—That lawyer would sure make a good tailor.

Bumberly—In what respect?

Appleby—Well, he has so many suits on his hands.

Hope of Golden Future

Not Much Consolation

Saul Bron, a leading member of the Russian committee that has come to America to spend $40,000,000 for automobile trucks and tractors, said in an interview in New York.

"Russia will get on her feet. If capital will only give her a fair deal. In Russia we are hoping, and there's nothing like hope—to disappoint you, is there?"

Mr. Bron laughed grimly and went on:

"A friend of mine was complaining about the deal Russia gets from capital. Another friend patted his shoulder and said: 'Cheer up, brother. Somewhere behind the clouds the sun is shining.'"

"Yes," said my friend, "and somewhere below the sea there's solid bottom, but what good does that do to the shipwrecked sailor who can't swim?"—Detroit Free Press.

Case of Heredity

Algernon McClintock, the noted hotel man, said at a banquet in Baltimore:

"Tonight is the anniversary of the birth of Brillat-Savarin, the immortal gourmet. Brillat-Savarin inherited his love of good food. An aunt of his died at the age of ninety-seven as she was finishing a rich eight-course dinner in bed.

"I feel that I am going," said the old lady. "Quick, my dessert!"

Good St. Nicholas

St. Nicholas was the patron saint of Russia. He was the bishop of Myra in Lycia in the Fourth century. He is regarded as the patron saint of merchants and travelers by sea and land, but also especially of the young and of scholars. Hence his festival, December 6, was formerly celebrated in the English schools, and still survives in the Santa Claus of Christian rejoicings.

Young Tyrants

There seem to be as many spoiled children as ever. It is remarkable how parents will permit their children to manage them to the detriment of all concerned.—Woman's Home Companion.

Millions now use Russ Ball Blue. Makes clothes snowy white. Get the genuine.—Adv.

Quite Impossible

"Lamb takes there Mary! What's all that noise in the kitchen?"

"You don't expect me to break three platters and two cups without makin' a noise, do yuh?"

Public Fairly Warned

A warning to the public to keep off the streets while a young woman was taking her driver's test appeared recently in a paper of Vetsernaas, Sweden. The advertisement read: "The public is requested to leave the streets today between 11:30 and 12:30. Margit is getting her driver's license." The notice was signed with the name and address of Margit's proud parents.

The Caustic Critic

The late Mrs. John W. Mackey was none too fond of modern fashions. At a luncheon in New York one day she nodded towards a beautiful girl with bare arms, bare knees and so forth, then said grimly:

"What walls would go up to heaven if it were poverty that made girls wear so few clothes."
