

Additional Local

Mrs R. E. Harbison of Morgan is receiving treatment in the Portland Medical hospital.

Wayne Sperry of Portland, but who is a former Ione boy, was calling on friends here Saturday.

Nicholi Thompson, who has been working in Portland for a few weeks, returned Wednesday of last week to his ranch home.

Walter Eubanks shipped two tons of dressed turkeys Jan. 16.

Mrs Frank Engelman returned the middle of last week from a pleasant visit in Portland.

On Thursday of last week we had no mail until noon. Because of trouble on the main line of the O. W. R. & N. our engine had to make a trip to Umatilla.

Mr. and Mrs. John Louy were out going passengers on Saturday night's train. Mrs. Louy went to Seattle to visit her sister and Mr. Louy went to Los Angeles to visit his daughter and family.

Larry Londergan returned Saturday from a visit in Portland.

The Henry Cohn sheep that have been feeding at the McMurray ranch above town, were moved last week to the Sloan Thompson ranch on Butter Creek for lambing.

On Monday Harlan McCurdy arrived at the creek ranch below town with his band of sheep, bringing them from the Rock Creek ranch. It was necessary to break trail much of the way, but he made the trip in less than four days. Lambing will begin Feb. 5.

Many of our town's people have found it necessary to remove the snow from the roofs of their business houses and dwellings.

Last Friday the thermometer began to show an upward trend. Since that time it has remained above the zero mark.

Wate Crawford had considerable difficulty breaking a road in to town on Thursday of last week in order to get his children back into school. He remained in town over night, returning home Friday.

Lee Beckner broke road from his place to town on Wednesday of last week and on Thursday broke road in the opposite direction. Carlsons broke road from their place to connect with Beckner.

Many of the rural pupils are boarding in town during the time that the roads are impassable.

Mr. Sam Ledbedder was calling on friends near Ione recently driving over from Boardman where he was spending a couple of days at home of his father in law, Mike Rowell. Mr. Ledbedder is now working on a boat that makes a daily run between Oregon city and Portland.

The Man From Georgia

By RUBY DOUGLAS

WHEN Charlie's father proposed that he take both his wife and daughter to the big political convention, the daughter, at least, was far from thrilled at the idea.

"But, father," she began, trying to seem appreciative and yet unable to hide her real lack of interest, "won't we be a great nuisance to you in the city? Mother, of course, might not be, but what can you possibly do with me?"

Her father laughed. He was a delegate from his district as much because of the quality of that laugh as because of his political strength.

"Never you mind what I'll do with you, son," he said. He had always called her "son" because he had expected her to be a son.

So Charlie had waited and now she was "seeing." There was no delegate, spectator, guard or newspaper reporter more ubiquitous in the daily sessions of the national convention than was this "son-in-law."

"If you and your mother would like to go on home," her father had begun one morning while things were apparently hopeless as to progress in nominating.

"Home?" cried Charlie. "Why, father—nothing would drag me away from my man here. I never was so excited in my life. I wouldn't have missed it for worlds. Dear old daddy, you do know what I'd like better than I know myself."

"I know one thing that perhaps you think I don't know, son," he said, pointedly.

Charlie blushed. "Yes?"

Her father nodded. "I know that the young man delegate from Georgia has not lost much time in trying to affiliate with certain members attached to the Iowa delegation."

"Oh, Mr. Macdonald? We have seen a good deal of him, haven't we?" Charlie asked naively.

Charlie became so excited at the thought that night in the great convention hall when the deadlock finally broke and it looked as if perhaps a nomination might be made, that she was wonderfully beautiful. Her cheeks were burning with enthusiasm; her eyes sparkled; her very being was radiant with joy at the prospective success of their favored candidate.

Her seat was next to the seats allotted to the Georgia delegation and George Macdonald always made it a point to get the chair next to hers. Tonight he watched her with so much wonder in his eyes that he almost forgot that they were at a very important moment in the convention. For the young Southerner had fallen completely in love with Charlie Cummings of Iowa. He was sure that no one more beautiful ever lived, and he chafed under the restraint of convention that had kept him from telling her so.

Suddenly, in the midst of cheering and deafening noises, music, shouting and waving of banners for the candidate who had at last won nomination, Charlie sank back in her chair.

Macdonald of Georgia was soon to notice this.

"What is it, Miss Cummings?" he asked anxiously.

Charlie tried to regain her normal attitude. "Oh—I—It just occurred to me what—that it all means," she said ambiguously.

"You mean—" No one could hear them.

"I mean—we must go home—now," said Charlie.

The man looked at her. What could she mean? Could it be possible that—that it mattered to her that she would have to be separated from him?

It was her father, speaking to them, that really roused Charlie. "Come over to the hotel when you can get out. Won't you join us?" to the young Georgian.

"I should think I would," said Macdonald quickly.

And while all the others were having supper and talking of candidates and conventions, Charlie and the member from Georgia had sought the iron balcony at the hotel.

It is too soon for me to tell you that you are the most beautiful girl I have ever looked at and that I love you?"

Charlie did not answer. "I realize that I should wait—that I should write to you and come to see you and woo you as you deserve to be wooed, but—I must tell you first that I love you. Do you—care?"

Charlie nodded. "Yes—I care a whole lot. That is why I—I hated to think of going home."

And after that they talked until Charlie was called in.

"Father, the delegate from Georgia would like to have the floor for a moment," said Charlie as they stood by the door to say good-night.

"He is out of order tonight. The meeting has adjourned," said her father laughing.

But he blushed, none the less, and if he regretted that he had brought his only daughter to the convention with him, he was sport enough not to tell her so. Her happiness was his.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON CO-OPERATIVE ORGANIZATION

North Pacific Grain Growers Inc., Now A Going Concern

The Farmers' National Grain Corporation, organized under the laws of Delaware, was the first of the national commodity marketing organizations to be recommended and sponsored by the Federal Farm Board. The plan of organization was worked out by representatives of the Farm Board and of cooperative grain marketing associations. The plan provides, among other things that there shall be five regional associations and that the membership in the regional association shall be composed of cooperative elevator or warehouse companies, grain pools and sales agencies within the area designated as a region or district.

The North Pacific Grain Growers Inc. was the first of the regional associations to become locally organized. The organization committee prepared articles of association and by laws modeled after those of The Farmers National Grain Corporation. These documents together with a brief description of the proposed plan of organization and operation has been submitted to the Farm Board for approval. Not only was approval given immediately but the Farm Board indicated that the plans proposed for the North Pacific states would probably be used as a model or example for the other regional organizations. Following this official approval the North Pacific Grain Growers Inc., filed its certificate of incorporation in Delaware, adopted the by laws, elected directors and officers, and is now engaged in aiding the wheat growers to form local associations that will compose its membership.

Mr. Albert Shaver arrived in Ione Tuesday night, called here by the death of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Charley Shaver. Mrs. Elvin Ely of Morgan is quite ill with influenza.

tax collector of the County of Morrow, State of Oregon, the same being the amounts then due and delinquent for taxes for said year, upon the real property situated in Morrow County, Oregon, being assessed respectively to you, as is hereinafter set forth in this summons.

Table with columns: Fract No., Assessed and Present Owner, Description, Sec. Twp Rg., Tax, Pen. & Int., Total, Assessed for the year. Includes multiple sections of certificates of delinquency.

IN THE CIRCUIT COURT OF THE STATE OF OREGON FOR MORROW COUNTY.

WEST EXTENSION IRRIGATION DISTRICT. Plaintiff. vs. SUMMONS FOR PUBLICATION. Defendants. E. E. Howard Jr., Receiver; A. S. Anderson; Strong & McNaughton Trust Co.; Ladd Estate Co.; George C. Howard; David E. Lofgren; J. A. Lytle; Northern Pacific Railway Co.; Mary S. McCullough; R. O. Horning; H. J. Hibbard; L. A. Doble; W. J. Locke; George Carbhun; Wm. H. Pierce; Warren J. Pierce; George Sushauer; A. W. Beachler; Walter Blackburn; Thos. A. Cronk; J. F. Fox; W. S. Hunt; Alfred Ives; C. H. Ives; W. R. Walpole; M. E. Doble; Geo. W. Putnam; Ernest A. Olson; W. M. Riggs; W. N. Riggs; D. J. Van Scyoc; J. L. Munroe; Fred C. Tull; L. Alboucq; A. Alboucq; Bank of Ione; Bank of Ione, Trustee; J. Baisley, Administrator of the estate of A. Bennett; Josephine Fitzgerald; B. L. Jenkins; W. O. McCaw; J. A. Yeomans, Trustee; Tierney-Toner Co.; Zelma A. Roe; O. A. Graham; E. H. Bell; T. J. Curtis; Roy Duggan; Amy Duggan; L. A. Sybouts; Max Asmus; Stewart Wilson; E. K. Mulkey; Bessie G. Mulkey; Claud H. Furman; R. M. Staysa; Francis J. Staysa; Mike Mulligan; A. W. Cobb; Annie H. Betts; Ella R. Walpole; A. T. Herlem; Morrow County, Oregon, and also all other persons or parties unknown claiming any right, title, estate, lien or interest in or to the real estate herein described.

YOU AND EACH OF YOU, are further notified as the respective owners of the legal title of the several tracts of property hereinabove described as the same appears of record, that West Extension Irrigation District, the plaintiff above named will apply to the Circuit Court of the aforesaid County and State, for a decree foreclosing all liens against all of the property above described and mentioned in said certificate.

W. J. WARNER, One of Plaintiff's Attorneys, Residing at Hermiston, Oregon. PROEBSTEL & SCHMIDT, Of Plaintiff's Attorneys, Residing at Pendleton, Oregon.