HEAD OF GRAIN CORP. MAKES STATEMENT

No Dumping of '29 Wheat

The following statement was issued in Chicago to day by Mr. George S. Milnor, President and General Manager of The Grain Stabilization Corporation: "The Grain Stabilization Corporation discontinued the sale of wheat when the new crop began moving with the exception of a few small lots to millers who are unable to take care of their immediate need from any other source.

"While the visible supply of wheat in this country is somewhat in excess of that of a year ago -- a fact grain traders are emphasizing -- the amount of 1929 wheat withdrawn from the market by The Grain Stabilization Corporation is approximately three times the amount of that increase leaving the amount of wheat on the market substantially below last year's figure.

"The grain trade need have no apprehension of competition from the wheat held by The Grain Stabilization Corporation during the coming months when farmers will be moving the 1930 crop to market unless in the meantime prices rise to the level at which purchases were made. In no event will this 1929 stabilization wheat be thrown on the market in a way to depress prices."

IONE COACH AT SUMMER SCHOOL

George S. Tucker, high school coach at Ione, Oregon, is one of the sixty five coaches taking the annual course in coaching in the University of Oregon summer school this year. Tucker is taking a course in foot ball under Dr. C. W. Spears and one in basket ball under Bill Reinhart.

The coaching school is one of the features of the University of Oregon summer session on the campus. The instructors are Dr. C. W. Spears, assisted by Prink Callison, Jack O'Brien and Gene Shields in football; Bill Hayward in track and Bill Reinhart in base ball and basket ball. Virgil D. Earl, director of athletics is in charge of the school.

The Last Scrivener

"I am the last public scrivener in Paris. . . . A serious little man was speaking to a representative of the Paris Soir. "Things have changed," he continued, "and when the buildings about here are torn down I shall have to move. There are not so many letters to write now, for even the little maids have learned to pencil their own love missives. I still have, however, enough clients to earn my living." Over his modest office is the sign: "Public Scrivener." The profession was legalized in France by Charles V during the latter part of the Fourteenth century.—Exchange.

Ceylon Great Trading Port

Spices, plumbago, pearls and rare woods, the export commodities which brought fame to Ceylon, have been superseded by tea, rubber and coconut products as the island's leading exports. More than one-fourth of the world's commercial crop of tea is produced there. In the two chief coconut products, copra and coconut oil, Ceylon's contribution forms a tenth of the aggregate world exports. One-tenth of the total rubber supply is produced there.

Must Have Lost Some

There are several ways of acquiring books, but the common practice is either to buy or borrow them, both methods conferring permanent possession.—Brand Whitlock.

To Stick

"The ideal human relationship," says Joseph Auslander, "can exist only between a man and a woman. It must be one that doesn't ask questions and never expects an answer. It must be based on rich, warm, strappy silence."

Ancient English Bridge Credited to Evil One

Tradition credits the devil with the construction of Tarr steps, a prehistoric "clapper" bridge which crosses the River Barle in a remote part of Exmoor, and said to be the largest and probably the oldest of its kind in Britain.

The legend says that it was built in a single night, and the devil, reserving the right of way exclusively to himself, proclaimed that he would destroy the first living thing that attempted to cross.

A holy man, who dared to flout the evil one, cunningly sent a cat first across the bridge, whereupon the unfortunate animal was torn to pieces. The spell was broken and the holy man took possession.

Whatever the origin, the bridge is of wonderful construction, considering it was built in an age when mechanical power was unknown. It measures 120 feet across, and has 17 spans, resting on piers of unhewn stones piled one on another. Not an atom of cement was used in the whole structure! —London Tit-Bits.

Labor First

An Episcopal missionary in Minnesota visited one of the outlying districts in his territory for the purpose of conducting prayer. He inquired of the lady of the largest house there if he might hold the services in her home. Not being noted for her great piety, she murmured something about: "Going out to see about it."

Going out to see what detained her after a long wait, the missionary found the men busy. He went up and said: "Aren't you coming in? Don't you care anything about your souls?"

"Souls?" asked the head of the family, slowly. "We bane na got time for heem, when the bees they swarm." —Pathfinder Magazine.

Declaration of Independence

We hold these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that when any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it
