ARGUMENTS FOR CABINET FORM OF GOVERNMENT

1. THE CABINET PLAN IS THE RESULT OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH. For a quarter of a century now, political scientists and statesmen have been working on the problem of a consolidated form of state government. Scores of investigating commissions have studied the problem and hundreds of individual investigators have analyzed existing state administrations. Practically with one accord they have recommended a simpler organization for conducting state affairs. Such a form is provided in the state cabinet form of government constitutional amendment.

2. THE NEED FOR THE CABINET SYSTEM IS APPARENT from the charts accompanying this statement. In Oregon we have 74 different officers, boards and commissions, 17 large state institutions and 16 private institutions receiving state aid—a total of 107 agencies doing our state work. The payroll carries over 6,000 names with almost $650,000 outlay per month in wages and salaries or over $7,500,000 a year. There is no general supervision, no adequate system of reports and accounts and not even a common fiscal year. Since 1909 Oregon has been studying the problem of simplifying its government and the demand for a change has been growing stronger.

3. THE CABINET PLAN IS A DEMONSTRATED SUCCESS. The cabinet principle has been thoroughly tried out in European countries for centuries, in our own federal government for over 140 years, in over 400 American cities under the council-manager plan, in urban school districts under the board-superintendent plan, in practically all higher educational institutions, in nearly all American business corporations, and in 15 different states: New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Virginia, Massachusetts, Ohio, California, Washington, Minnesota, Tennessee, Idaho, Nebraska, Maryland, Vermont and South Dakota.

Compare the appointment of Herman Oliver with the dismissals and appointments of other officials under Governor Norblat and we have the contrast between our present system and the proposed cabinet form of government. The cabinet system makes responsible, carefully considered action a necessity for every governor. This is vouched for by the foremost political scientists from their knowledge of the operation of the cabinet system in other states.

Walter F. Dodd, head of the department of political science in Yale University, says: "A departmental organization fixes responsibility, whereas without it there is no opportunity to hold anyone responsible for misconduct."

In reply to a questionnaire dealing with this subject, Professor Dodd says: "My own feeling is that a poor governor is brought into a position where there is a better opportunity of checking him up and that a good governor has a much greater opportunity to develop an efficient administration."

Prof. John A. Fairlie of Illinois, says: "State administration in Illinois under the new code in my opinion has been distinctly better under a poor governor than it would have been under the former disinterested system."

Prof. John M. Matthews of Illinois says that the cabinet plan "promotes publicity and acts as a deterring influence against the commission of the more heinous forms of betrayal of the public trust."

Scores of other quotations could be given, all proving that the cabinet system is the most effective restraining influence upon a weak or vicious governor. HECTOR MacPHERSON, Chairman, Joint Commission on Administrative Reorganization.

Forced to Conceal Charms

One dalai-lama of Tibet was always searching the bazars for a pretty face, and in consequence the high lamas made an order that every woman when out of doors, should disguise herself by smearing her face with soot and thus make herself unattractive.

SAYS WILL ROGERS

BEVERLY HILLS—Well all I know is just what I read in the papers, or what I see while prowling. Well Sir a week or so ago had a great trip.

We were starting to go to the famous Lake Tahoe in California to film the old Frank Bacon play "Lightnin'" right on the ground that it was laid on. You know it was a hotel on the Nevada and California line, and the divorcees would stop there and it had a California address but in reality you would be living in Nevada.

Well Fred Stone and his family were out at our little ranch at Santa Monica spending a little vacation with us, so we all decided to go up. We first hit out for Yosemite. I hate to admit it but I had never been there. My family had but not me, and Fred and his folks hadn't been. If you never have been there, don't miss it.

First place they have one of the most unique Hotels you ever saw. In fact lots of dandy places to stay. Everybody was apologizing for the falls, as on account of the Republicans giving us no more rains than they have why there hasn't been in years as little water coming over. But there was some, and it would give you an idea of where they were and what would happen to some water if it did happen along that way, what a drop it would get.

We took drives and we took walks, and then we had a barbecue down on the river bank on the gravel bar. They sure do know how to cook up steaks, and they sent their old cowboy band player and singer down and he was sure good. He had lots of old ones I hadn't heard in years and some I had never heard. Then they had an awful good Cowboy Rope spinner and Fred and I got a kick out of him, for we had wrestled with one of those things long enough to know how hard it really was.

Then we went to see the fire fall, on a high cliff. They build every night a big log fire, and as it burns into small embers, just at nine o'clock they push it over in a steady stream that last several minutes these burning embers, and here you are almost a mile straight down, and see this fall over this great precipice.

Well it was a beautiful sight. Then we went to see em feed the bears. There is lots of bears in there, and they take the garbage from the hotels, and have little pits built like tables, and spot lights up in the trees, and its on the bank of this beautiful little river, and all the crowd are just across on the opposite side. They put all the food in these places, and then they turn the lights on, and all at once right across the river is all these old bears, tossing and eating, and playing.

Then to Carson City, Nevada, one of the most picturesque and historic old State Capitals we have, saw where Corbett and Fitzsimmons fought the famous "Solar Plexus" fight. Fred got a kick out of that for he used to box with Corbett all during his Championship days, and Corbett always said he would have been a Champion middle-weight if he had taken it up as a profession. He was always the best boxer, (and fighter) of any Actor we ever had on the stage. Then to Reno, which is only forty miles from the lake. But Reno I will have to take a whole Chapter to tell you about it, and its "Industry." But if you want to have a good time, I lent care where you live, just load in your kids, and take some congenial friends, and just start out, you would be surprised what there is to see in this great Country within 200 miles of where any of us live. I don't care what State or what town. I tell you Henry Ford has been good to us.

While we were up there at Lake Tahoe a fellow come up and wanted me to help him into some soft job in the movies. I asked him what he was doing and he said he was "being detective in the big hotel in Reno where all the divorcees live."

"I said, 'Buther, you must be hard to please. John Barrymore is not doing as well as you. Why you got a better job than Countee Cullen writing a book a day.' I told him to go back to work and don't even give Hoover. 'E - if you are going to give the job up consult me, I'll change with you.'

Charley Dawes goes to Spain to study "Neolithic" people. That's his hobby, is studying odd creatures. He gave up all business and all governmental interests for four years just for a reserved seat to study ninety-six of America's most prehistoric men, then he went to London to study "odd" women, whose sole ambition in life was to get their daughters presented at court. So Spain will have to go some to show Charley anything.

Horns Will Blow Crime from Earth Says Frank Loesch

Arch-Enemy of Chicago Criminals Says Teaching Children to Blow Horns Will Rid Earth of Crime.

"If every boy and girl in the world were taught to blow a horn, I believe they could blow crime from the face of the earth." This was the striking statement made recently by the Hon. Frank C. Loesch, member of Hoover's National Crime Committee and formerly special prosecutor of Chicago, in a speech before the Conn Music Center, Elkhart, Indiana.

In his speech, Mr. Loesch, who is nationally known for his daring attacks on Chicago racketeers, recommended a musical education, and especially membership in the band, as a powerful deterrent to the wayward impulses in the growing child. To support his recommendation, Mr. Loesch cited the remarkable record of the Union League Boys' Club of Chicago, of which he is one of the sponsors.

"For a number of years the club has had a 50-piece band, composed of boys under the age of 18, and this band has been an important factor in the work of the club. This organization has been instrumental in reducing juvenile delinquency in its district by more than 80 percent. Besides the band, the club has an orchestra of 20 and a drum and bugle corps of 54 boys.

"These musical organizations have been the means of making good citizens out of many of the boys of our city who might otherwise have become community parasites, if not actual criminals.

"Many other men who have made a study of crime agree with me in recommending music, and especially the band, as a character builder and a deterrent to crime. William J. Burns, world renowned detective, said, 'Show me a town with a maximum of music and I will show you a town with a minimum of crime.'

"Osbourne McConathy, former dean of music at Northwestern University, has gone on record with a statement to the effect that 'Music will cure the so-called 'flaming youth' and put strength into the social fabric of America.'

"W. van de Wall, well known criminologist, in speaking of the effect of music on the abnormal and anti-social mind, says, 'It stimulates some of the drowsy patients to vigorous action and many of the anti-social individuals to constructive activities.'

"Asked for a receipt to rid a certain Ohio town of its 'nightly pests,' consisting of 40 to 50 boys from 16 to 20 years old, Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, eminent New York divine, offered the following advice: 'Since the boys are getting beyond the age for Boy Scouts, why not start a band for them? Music hath charms to soothe the savage breast. Try it on these youthful scoundrels in your locality. I predict that 90 percent of them will respond.'

Mr. Loesch in interested conversation with a band boy who is helping to "blow crime from the earth."
