WHERE BOAT WAS GOING

and also to be hated by every one!" "I won't give you anything. I'm an income tax collector myself!"—Der Lustige Sachse, Leipzig.

He Could Prove It

In the course of a conversation in a factory yard, it was mentioned that a man who was passing had at one time been in a mental home. "But he looks quite sane to me," said one. "Sane? Oh, yes, he's sane enough. And he's the only chap in the district that's got papers to say he is sane."—London Tit-Bits.

A Fit for Furs

Dorothy—When will you get your new fur coat, mamma? Mother—Your dad says it can't be done. Dorothy—Say, Mommie, have you ever tried throwing yourself on the floor and kicking your feet the way I do?—The Richmond Christian Advocate.

The Expert

"Been to the food show?" "No, what's the news from there?" "Our soda fountain waitress took a prize for the thinnest ham sandwich!"

OF MUCH DEPTH

No! Go Around 'Em

Bobby—Ma, I don't like this bread with all those holes in it. Mother—Don't be so fussy. You needn't eat the holes.

It Isn't Being Done

"For the love of Pete, daughter, can't you learn to use a little common sense?" demanded father. "Dad, you simply burn me up with your croaking!" retorted daughter. "Do you suppose I am gonna go round being pointed out as kinda queer and have the boys quit dating with me?"

SPLIT EVEN

Clash in Art Circles

"Didn't I tell you to smile when you delivered that speech?" asked the director. "I told you it was an absurd speech." "I remember. But why didn't you smile as directed?" "I was afraid of overdoing it. I could hardly keep from laughing out loud."

His Kind

"What kind of a fellow is he?" "Well, I never saw a man who was any easier to hate."

Mud Now Lacking

"Some of Old Mitch's friends thought they would do him a kindness and they washed and polished his car for him. It made him terribly mad." "Why so?" "He can't boast any more that he has the mud of 48 states on his machine."—Pathfinder.

FOR A BRIDE'S LUNCHEON

For the occasion either before or after the nuptials, there is nothing which the hostess can afford which will be too much trouble. For the beginning the following cocktail will be most dainty.

Cupid's Cocktail.
—Boil together one-third of a cupful of sugar with one cupful of water, or better—canned fruit juice—for two minutes, then add four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice and cool. Chill one cupful each of seeded white grapes, red cherries, dried pears, and pineapple. Mix all the chilled ingredients together and serve in glass cups placed on pink hearts on serving plates.

Chicken Croquettes.—Make one cupful of thick white sauce, using chicken stock with milk or cream. Take two cupfuls of minced chicken, one-half teaspoonful each of salt, celery salt and onion salt and one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika. Mix all the ingredients, cool, then form into small croquettes, cone or cylinder shaped. Roll in beaten egg to which two tablespoonfuls of water have been added, then in crumbs and set away to chill. Fry in hot fat and serve with mushroom sauce.

Heart Cakes.—Make a cake batter, baking it in a shallow pan. Take one-half cupful of shortening, one cupful of sugar well creamed, flavoring to taste, two-thirds of a cupful of milk and two cupfuls of pastry flour sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Mix well and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of three eggs. Bake in a moderate oven. Cut when cool into heart shapes and cover the entire cake with pink frosting.

To make the frosting use four tablespoonfuls of hot cream, two tablespoonfuls of butter and one and two-thirds cupfuls of confectioner's sugar. Mix the cream, butter, salt and flavoring, add a little red coloring and the sugar a little at a time, beating well. Arrange each cake on a paper dolly and insert darts of gold paper.

Custom of Challenge

Tossing gauntlets to the ground in challenge was not nearly so common in the old days as some novelists would have us think. In the first days of chain armor, there were no gauntlets at all. The hand was protected by a mitten attached to the sleeve. When gauntlets did begin to appear, in the days of the Fourth and Fifth crusades, they were cumbersome things which were strapped to the wrist so firmly that issuing a challenge by means of them would be more of a job than a hot-headed knight would care to undertake.

It was not until plate armor had reached its full glory that the gauntlet became symbolic of challenge. And it has rarely been anything else but a symbol. Even today, there is a personage in England—the king champion—whose duty it is to cast a glove in Westminster abbey during the coronation of a king, and to cry loudly his willingness to fight any man who denies the new king's title.—Popular Biography.

Unfortunate Sea Lions

The sea lion could hold his own against his natural enemies, but his real troubles began when man discovered that he was insulated with several inches of oil-bearing blubber and that his hide made good leather. Nearly 200 years ago the slaughter began on the west coast, says Nature Magazine.

Thousands of sea lions died for the enrichment of the oil hunters, until by the beginning of this century only a remnant of the vast herds which once roamed and fought on their offshore rookeries is left to carry on the species.

Beware of Closed Garage

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless and tasteless gas, these properties making it all the more dangerous. A very small percentage of this gas in the air when inhaled is said to be sufficient to cause death within a few minutes, under certain conditions, as when a car is left running in a closed garage.

Roundhouse Solarium

Constructed like a roundhouse so that it catches the sun's rays from all angles, a combined solarium and fresh-air pavilion has been built for a tuberculosis sanitarium in Hungary. The center is glass enclosed for protection from the elements. The building is two stories high with porches for patients on each floor.

Hope for "Hasbeens" in Work of Rehabilitation

Once old shoes functioned better than any other articles to cast after weddingers to bring them good luck. Those days for disabled shoes are gone. Now they are turned into perfume by a byproducts company of Los Angeles.

Four and a half million worn-out shoes of the Angelenos are converted into chemicals annually. And 350,000,000 more are imported from other parts of the country.

We have met some old shoes yet in service that would seem to baffle any perfume maker. It must take considerable reformation and de-bunking for them to qualify.

New Orleans has been the port of old rags from Europe for a long time and we can grasp the process that makes them into paper. It is within our understanding to conceive how an old wreck of a car may be smashed by trip hammers into bales of old iron for the furnace. It does stretch the imagination to hear that superannuated flyswatters, passe alarm clocks, umbrella frames and old bed springs may be transmuted into something worth while. However, it is not without the range of thought.

But the possibilities in old shoes makes us ready to believe almost anything. We are now beginning to dream that some one will find a place in the economy of things for Jaywalkers, politicians and neckers. Hope for every frazzled old bum is born.—Los Angeles Times.

Blood of Many Races on Island of Corsica

A corkless perfume bottle where the sweet scent of the maquis shrub permeates the atmosphere; where men are lazy and women's heads vie with donkey carts as transports; where modern customs have only trickled a short distance beyond the quays of the larger ports and left the panache hats, and the stone and mud huts of the natives as they were centuries ago.

Such is Corsica, France's largest Mediterranean island possession, which the French government is fortifying, says a bulletin of the National Geographic society.

Corsica is about one-half the size of Massachusetts—an area of rugged mountains and verdant valleys peopled by slightly more than 300,000 inhabitants—human remnants of Phoenician, Etruscan, Carthaginian, Roman, Vandal, Goth, Pisan, Genoese and Moorish invaders.

Triumph of Engineering

A triumph of engineering and construction has just been completed in the Federated Malay states for the Perak River Hydroelectric Co. The work, which was started in 1928, required the expenditure of $725,000 and many and great difficulties had to be overcome, such as the clearing of the jungle before erecting the transmission towers. The project includes the installation of more than 700 miles of copper wire, a complete telephone system and 600 steel towers.

Slightly Sardonic

"Your audience cheered you for nearly half an hour," remarked the admiring friend. "Yes," replied Senator Sorghum. "Audiences are getting pretty wise. They'd rather listen to themselves cheer than to the average speech."

Diplomacy

Baffled Golfer—Does anyone ever get out of this bunker? Caddie—Yes, sir. They usually just send the caddie somewhere for something.—London Opinion.

Mothers... Watch Children's COLDS

COMMON head colds often "settle" in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take a chance—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole once every hour for five hours.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, you have known so long, in milder form.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain.

Keep full strength Musterole on hand, for adults and the milder—Children's Musterole for little tots. All druggists.

Lover's Fatal Error in Forgetting Leap Year

Clifford Parleman, the aviator who was married to Gladys Walton in an airplane above Roosevelt field, said to a reporter:

"I believe in love, old-fashioned love. I can even sympathize with a love like Pete Hoskin's." "I like you, Mr. Hoskin," a pretty girl said to Pete, "but I like Mr. Merriweather, too. Mr. Merriweather," she added, "says he thinks about me 365 days in the year."

"So he wants one day off every four years, does he?" snorted Pete Hoskin. "Surely, Miss Featherston—Ethel—surely you don't compare a lukewarm feeling like that to a burning passion such as mine?"

KILLS 103 RATS ON NEBRASKA FARM

A Nebraska farmer killed 103 rats in 12 hours with K-R-O (Kills Rats Only), the product made by a special process of squill, an ingredient highly recommended by the U. S. Government. It is sure death to rats and mice but harmless to dogs, cats, poultry or even baby chicks. K-R-O is today America's most widely used rat and mouse exterminator. Sold by druggists on money back guarantee.

LIFE AND DEATH

No human being can afford to be without these new facts of life that will never know successful contradiction. It describes death from experience, and gives an exact description of the human soul. An ideal Christmas gift. By mail only, $1.50, cloth bound.

Improvement Suggested

Sonny had played his first game of miniature golf, not too well. His mother asked him how he liked it, and he replied: "It would be just fine if they would only make the holes a little larger!"
