Real Hard Luck Story in That Stock Slump

Irving Bullard, the banker alumnus, told at a dinner in Boston a story about the Wall Street slump.

"A forger," he said, "was drinking very hard in a night club. The hostess, an old friend, unselfishly took him to task about it.

"Don't you know it will give you shaky nerves," she said, "so that you won't be able to forge any more?"

"I can't help that," said the forger. "I've had terrible hard luck, and I got to forget it somehow."

"What hard luck?" said the hostess.

"I spent four months," said the forger, "learning to forge Gibson Gortrox's signature—the millionaire, you know—and the very day I got the check ready the slump cleaned the old rooster out!"—Detroit Free Press.

Methodical Chicagoan

Thirty years ago W. B. Cunningham, of Chicago, was late for work, so late he vowed he wouldn't be late again in ten years. In 1911 his vow was fulfilled, but the habit of punctuality was so strong that he kept right being on time each morning. When he punched the clock just the other day, on time, as usual, his thirtieth unblemished year passed into history. Housewives set their clocks by the time he passes their houses on his way to work.

HAVE YOU BACKACHE, PAIN?

Seattle, Wash.—"In my girlhood, I suffered with severe backaches and pain and had a catarrhal condition. These disagreeable sensations were completely eradicated and I developed into a strong and healthy womanhood because my mother gave me Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. As my own daughters were developing I gave it to them and in that way prevented their having any form of inward weakness."—Mrs. Sadie E. Holtzner, 5909 25th Ave., S.

Wakeful restless CHILD needs Castoria

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Other times it's constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked promptly. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow very promptly; if it doesn't you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother continues it in more liberal doses as a child grows up.

Readily obtained at any drug-store, the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature and the name Castoria on the wrapper like this:

Legends That Live in Hearts of Irish People

Ireland is a storehouse of quaint legends and superstition. Most of the Irish lakes have a legend to their name.

Lough Foyle, according to tradition, is in the wrong place.

This is its story:

In olden times there were two weird sisters, skilled in black magic, one of whom dwelt a distance from the lake. One day this sister said to the other, "Let me have the loan of your silver lake until next Monday."

So the other, being young and trusting, obligingly rolled up her lake, and sent it over the hills and valleys to her sister.

Monday came and passed by; the lake was not returned, so the disconsolate witch sent for it. But her sister was in high glee because she had fooled her trusting relative. She replied that she intended to keep the lake until the Day of Judgment.

It is said that the vast hollow from whence the lake was taken can still be seen in Connanght, waiting, naked and barren, for the waters that will never return.

Deep in the water at the head of Lough Corrib stands an ancient castle. Legend says that this castle was built in one night by a cock and a hen; but actually it was erected by Roderick O'Connor, the last king of Ireland.

Peasants say that at times strange lights flicker through the ornate windows of the submerged castle, and a fleet of boats—filled with quaintly dressed men—patrols the lake.

They row about until the cock heralds dawn, then they instantly vanish.

FOR COLDS— ALKALINIZE YOUR SYSTEM

Doctors everywhere are prescribing this new treatment for colds:

Begin when you feel a cold coming. Take a tablespoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, morning, noon and night, the first day. Do the same second day. Then only at night.

Colds reduce the alkalinity of your system. That's what makes you feel achy, feverish, weak, half-sick. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is alkali in harmless, palatable form. It checks the symptoms of colds by restoring the alkalinity of your system.

Relieves sour stomach, indigestion, gas, over-acidity. All drugstores.

Imitation Stradivari

Since it was reported several weeks ago that a Tazewell county (Virginia) man had a genuine Stradivarius violin for which a Roanoke musician had offered $40,000, more than two dozen "genuine Stradivarius" have been discovered in southwest Virginia. Until a few years ago it was not against the law in Germany for violin makers to put labels with the name of Stradivarius on them in the inside of every instrument they turned out. Traveling agents evidently sold a great many of these cheap violins in the mountain district.

Politeness Preferred

George Creel, the eminent writer, while on a trip between New York and San Francisco, found himself seated in the dining car at the same table with a very large and most imposing lady. The meal went forward in perfect silence until the coffee came on, when Mr. Creel's table mate, after lighting a cigarette, leaned forward apologetically.

"Pardon me," she asked, "but is my smoking offensive to you?"

"Not at all," Mr. Creel assured her. "But," he added, "there was something that did shock me quite a little. When I entered the dining car, not a single woman got up out of her chair."—Collier's Weekly.

Esquimos Use Airplanes

Esquimos are now bringing their furs by airplane as far south as Edmonton, Alberta, directly from the vast trapping regions of the Arctic. Formerly they had to store their catch through the long winters and take their furs out in the spring to local trading points to be sold for a fraction of what they are now getting in markets closer to civilization. The average cost for resting an airplane for the round trip is about $375, but often one good pelt will pay for that.
