HAPPENINGS HERE IN OREGON

Californians in Oregon Coast.

Prospects for a Line From Oregon to California have grown brighter in recent weeks, owing to the development of plans for the construction of the line. The railroad would run from the mouth of the Columbia River to the Oregon coast, and would be built by a company formed for the purpose. The line is expected to be completed within the next ten years.

Snow in Blue Mountains.

Prospect of Plenty of Water for 1909.

The Columbia River is expected to flow at a higher level this year than in any previous year, owing to the fact that the snows of the previous winter were unusually heavy. The water will be released from the reservoirs at a rate sufficient to meet the requirements of the irrigation districts.

HEPPNER, OREGON

EVENTS OF THE DAY

THE Heatwave

The heatwave continues unbroken. The temperature in Heppner has reached 95 degrees, and it is expected to continue for several more days. The heat is causing discomfort, and people are seeking shelter in the coolness of the buildings.

The News

There has been no news of any importance in Heppner. The local farmers are busy with their crops, and the town is holding its usual summer activities.

The Weather

The weather is hot and sultry, with little prospect of relief in the near future. The thermometer reached an all-time high of 100 degrees yesterday, and it is expected to remain at a high level for several more days.