EVENTS OF THE YEAR.

1903 LEAVES DARK RECORD IN MANY RESPECTS.

Deaths of Rapine and Violence and Far-Reaching Natural Disasters Overshadow Its Showing of the Fruits of Industry and Peace.

The year 1903 has been marked by massacre, murder, disaster and violence that are in sharp contrast with the underlying spirit of progress that is steadily making for friendliness and better mutual understanding between individuals and nations. Religious intolerance, political intrigue, class hatred and convulsions of nature are the causes upon which the dread responsibility rests.

In May occurred the great massacre of Jews in Kishinev, Russia. A month later King Alexander and Queen Draga of Serbia were murdered in their palace in Belgrade by their own soldiers and officers. Strikes and other labor disputes have been responsible for a good deal of violence and several deaths in the United States; and natural phenomena, under which classification are numbered the disastrous floods and storms of last spring and early summer in Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri and other parts of the nation, hurricanes in the South Sea Islands and an earthquake in Asiatic Turkey, have caused the loss of thousands of lives and much valuable property.

The unflinching course of commercial achievement has been evidenced by the opening of two new cables beneath the Pacific ocean, successful practical tests of wireless telegraphy, and the establishment of a Department of Commerce in connection with the government in Washington.

The year's roll of deaths includes ecclesiastic authorities like Pope Leo and Canon F. M. Farrar, statesmen like Lord Salisbury of England and ex-Premier Sagasta of Spain, thinkers like Herbert Spencer and Prof. Theodor Mommsen, public men like former Postmaster General W. S. # CASEY FOUND HIS MATCH.

Only When He Spoke "As Man to Man" Did the Truth Come Out.

Judge Marcus Kavanagh, of the Superior Court, used to be colonel of the Seventh Regiment, the famous Irish regiment of the Illinois National Guard. So strict was the rule of admission to the regiment that before a man was placed on the muster roll he was obliged to prove his nationality. This proof was secured by sending the candidate, in charge of a corporal's guard, to the windswept corner of the Masonic Temple. He was also given a pipe of tobacco and a single match. If, standing at the corner, he was able to light his pipe with the one match he was adjudged worthy of admission to the regiment. During the Spanish-American war Col. Kavanagh took his regiment into camp, yearning for active service. There was a private in the regiment named Casey. Casey was, in a way, the butt of the regiment. He was always getting into trouble and his native Irish wit was always getting him out again.

The regiment wanted to do some fighting, and its members chafed against the confinement and strict discipline of camp life. All sorts of excuses were presented by members who wanted to slip back to Chicago for a few days. Col. Kavanagh got to be sadly cynical.

One day Private Casey managed to slip by the sentinel in front of Col. Kavanagh's tent and presented himself before his commanding officer, with his right hand at salute.

"Colonel," said Casey.
"Casey," said the colonel.
"My wife is lyin' at th' point ay death in Chicago," said Casey, rubbing his eyes with his coat sleeve. "I'm after askin' you to leave me four days' leave of absence."

Col. Kavanagh looked at Casey and Casey looked at the colonel. There was that in Casey's eyes which seemed to belie his tears. The colonel put his right hand into the inside pocket of his coat. He pulled out a sheaf of letters. "Your wife's illness must have been sudden, Casey," said the colonel. "I got a letter from her only this morning saying that the only peace and quiet she had since she married you was since you've been down here in camp."

"Colonel," burst out Casey, the tears vanishing from his eyes, "may I speak to ye as man to man?"
"You may, Casey."
"Not as a private speakin' to his commandin' officer?"
"As Mike Casey speakin' to Marcus Kavanagh."

"No guardhouse, no matter what I say?"
"Say what you please, Casey."
"Will, thin, Colonel, there's the two biggest liars in th' camp under your that roof this minute. I'm not married at all, be jabber."—Chicago Tribune.

AHEAD OF "UNCLE RUSSELL."

So Pleased with Tucker's Ready Wit That He Gave Him Employment.

One of the few men who have ever managed to get ahead of Uncle Russell Sage in a business transaction is a young curb broker named Tucker, and he did so more by accident than design. It happened this way:

Tucker had ten shares of gas stock that he was trying hard to dispose of, with no result. Finally, one of his acquaintances, in a spirit of fun, said to him: "Say, old man, I understand that Sage wants that stock bad, and is willing to pay 95 for it."

At that time the stock was selling for 91, when it sold at all, so naturally Tucker, who was a newcomer on the curb, started off post haste for Mr. Sage's office, and half an hour later offered his shares in person at 95.

"Don't want it, young man," was the financier's reply. "I can go out and buy all I want at 91."
Then, as he realized he had been "taken in" an idea struck Tucker. "Mr. Sage," he said, "since you don't want to buy my stock, maybe you'd like to sell me any of the same stock you may own at 95."
"Eh, what?" queried Mr. Sage. "Ninety-three?" He pondered for a moment. Then, "I'll take your ten shares at 95," he said. And the sale was made.

A little later on when Mr. Sage found that he really could have bought all the stock he wanted at 91 his feelings were anything but friendly toward Mr. Tucker. The next day, however, he was in a different frame of mind. "Any man," he said, "who can take care of himself like that is useful, and I want Mr. Tucker to watch out for any business I may have on the curb."
And that is what Mr. Tucker is doing to-day.

Taught by Experience.
The man on the outside of the box office window, who had bought two seats next to the aisle for a course of illustrated lectures, then asked:
"Have you sold those two seats at the farthest end of the row, against the wall?"
"No, sir," said the man inside the box office.
"Well, I'll take them, too."
"I can let you have the two next to the ones you have bought, if you would rather have them."
"But I wouldn't; I want just those two and I'm willing to pay for them to keep them vacant, to circumvent the two women who would be sure to buy them and come in half an hour after the lecture had begun."—Chicago Tribune.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na For Colds in His Family and Grip.

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.

A Letter From the Governor of Oregon.

Peruna is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Peruna as a catarrh remedy are pouring in from every state in the union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest.

The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Peruna is the catarrh remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catarrh as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony.

Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Peruna is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Peruna not only cures catarrh, but prevents it. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth.

The Governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Peruna. He keeps it constantly in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman, he says:

State of Oregon, Executive Department,
The Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, O.:
Dear Sirs—I have had occasion to use your Peruna medicine in my family for colds, and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for very ailments.

Yours very truly,
W. M. Lord.

It will be noticed that the governor says he has not had occasion to use Peruna for other ailments. The reason for this is, most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Peruna to promptly cure colds, he protects his family from other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Peruna in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippe, and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's free book, entitled, "Winter Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.
