MEMORIAL SERVICES

Contributions of Flowers Solicited

HANBY CASE IS SETTLED

The Insurance Money Goes to the Estate of the Father, Harry Hanby.

A considerable number of citizens met at the council chambers Monday evening to arrange for a memorial service to be held June 14. After a short discussion it was decided to put the arrangement of program into the hands of a committee to be appointed by Mayor Gilliam. He named the following:

It was decided, however, that the more appropriate service would be to hold a prayer and song service to be followed by grave decorations. The Heppner papers were requested to publish in this connection a call for floral contributions from outside towns for grave decorations. So all Times exchanges are requested to publish a short notice asking their readers to contribute flowers for the purpose of decorating the graves of those who lost their lives in the flood of June 14, 1903. It is also requested that contributions be shipped so as to reach Heppner on the evening of the 13, of June.

A program will be arranged by the committee and will be published in these columns later.

Hanby Insurance Money.

The question whether Emma Hanby or her husband, Harry Hanby, who were both drowned on June 14, 1903, in the Heppner flood, died first has been disposed of from a legal standpoint, and $3000 insurance left by Hanby will go to his heirs, instead of her heirs.

Hanby was insured in the Modern Woodmen of America, and Oglesby Young, attorney for the heirs of Mrs. Hanby, thought he could prove by evidence that she died last, thereby becoming entitled to the insurance before her death, and after her death, there being no children, the money should go to her heirs. The claim of the heirs of Harry Hanby also had to be considered, and to determine the controversy as to who was entitled to receive the $3000, a suit was filed in the State Circuit Court, and the society, which had no interest in the case one way or the other, paid the money into court, subject to its decree.

In the Multnomah County Court last week, Oglesby Young filed a petition in the interest of Earnest Voose, administrator of the estate of Mrs. Hanby, stating that no proof could be secured to overcome the presumption that Hanby survived his wife, and that the other side had offered $125 in settlement, which the administrator was satisfied to accept. The suit in the State Circuit Court will be dismissed, and the heirs of Harry Hanby will get the remainder of the money.

Splendid Musical.

Beatrice Barlow Dierke's playing was an important feature of the entertainment. There were four solos: (a) Variations, "Nel Cor Pieu," Beethoven, the characteristics of whose music are the tranquil and the peaceful; (b) the dainty "Kuss Waltzes," Strauss-Rosenthal; (c) Chopin scherzo in B flat minor; (d) "Isolde's Death," Wagner-Liszt, from the opera "Tristan and Isolde."

The solos were well chosen, differing as widely in character as could be. Mrs. Dierke added to the laurels she has already won in Portland. She was most winsome in a simple gown of white, and made a very attractive picture. In all her work the young artist creates unusual interest, for in her shines the light of genius. Her style was all that could be desired, in interpretation and execution, her selections being sufficiently contrasted to display every detail of her marvelous technique and her wonderful power of expression.

She captivated every one by the distinction of her legato, and the flexibility and equality of her finger work, the fascinating quality that sings through all her playing being especially pleasing in the Chopin scherzo.

Mrs. Dierke was recalled many times, and not until two extra solos, Moszkowski's "Spanish Caprice" and "Etude," op 9 No. 5, Chopin, were given, was the audience content to let her merely bow her acknowledgement. She was the recipient of numerous bouquets and baskets of lovely blossoms.—Evening Telegram.

Rev. H. S. Shangle preached at the Methodist church Sunday evening.

E. D. Leach is moving his house back from the street and remodeling it. Everybody is much gratified to see Uncle John McMillan on the streets again.

Cunningham Fined $5000.

Charles Cunningham and four of his six associates in the land fraud cases plead guilty in the federal court at Portland last week.

Cunningham got off by pleading guilty and agreeing to pay a fine, the sum imposed by the court being $5000; Asa Rayburn, plead guilty, got a fine of $100; Glen H. Saling, plead guilty, was fined $100.

Shelly Jones plead guilty, but the fine was suspended because he has lived on the land and intends to make it his home.

Dallas O'Hara pleaded guilty, but his fine was suspended because he is holding the land.

The cases against Mrs. Kate James and Mark Shackelford were quashed on motion of District Attorney John Hall, "for lack of evidence."

Sheriff Shutt's Good Record.

Sheriff E. M. Shutt is closing his first term as sheriff and is the nominee of the republicans for re-election.

As sheriff Mr. Shutt has made a fine record. Morrow county since its organization never had her taxes collected so promptly, so closely and so efficiently as Mr. Shutt has done the work.

His record for arresting criminals also bespeaks a man who does his duty regardless of friend or foe. A warrant placed in his hands is executed, no matter who it calls for, and the person named therein is brought in.

In fact he has made a good officer and the people will no doubt continue him in office.—Irrigator.

Modern Building.

Solomon's temple was about seven years in building, but it stood for centuries. No one can estimate accurately the life of a modern steel structure, which comes into being in remarkably quick time. In a recent instance in New York an apartment hotel was completed, leased and sold in less than fourteen months after the purchase of the site. The actual work of construction was done in less than ten months, although this was a twelve and a half story building, which covered a lot 71 by 100 feet, and contained more than 200 rooms. These marvels do not come by chance. Every bolt and rivet is planned and provided for before the foundation is laid, and a perfect system controls the gangs of workmen, who carry on the most diverse operations without getting in one another's way.—Youth's Companion.

THEY DEFY THE LAW

Lake County the Scene of Band of Outlaws.

SUSPICIONS OF MURDER

More than $25,000 Worth of Property Has Been Destroyed in Northern Lake County

A special from Lakeview to the Oregonian says:

A reign of terror exists in Lake county. In the face of a daring defiance of law that approaches civil war, the peace officers are powerless. Thus far about $25,000 worth of property has been destroyed and one life has been sacrificed. On February 2 a band of 3000 sheep was killed. On March 4, a prominent merchant of Silver Lake, Ore., J. C. Conn, died from two bullet wounds, which the verdict of the Coroner's jury held to be self-inflicted. Certain circumstances connected with his death lead to the strong suspicion that he was murdered. On April 28 another band of 2700 sheep was annihilated. The perpetrators have issued notice that they will kill anyone who offers a reward or who attempts to make an arrest. They have warned other sheepowners to move their bands from the cattle range of northern Lake county or suffer the consequences.

The circumstantial evidence leading up to the belief that the death of Creed Conn was a murder and that it was committed to conceal the identity of the outlaws is shown in the following narrative.

The particular prejudice against the first sheep killed, the McKune band, was that it came from California into Oregon pastures. It had been on the road since last October for the winter grazing grounds of the desert. There were 9000 sheep at that time, but a bare 3000 returned to California. Upon the receipt of the news of the killing of the first band of sheep, a great wave of indignation swept over the county. The Lakeview, Paisley and Silver Lake papers were loud in their demands that the men be found and punished.

District Attorney L. F. Conn announced that he would take steps to bring the parties to justice. The belief was general that he would seek the co-operation of his brother, Creed Conn, who lived among the outlaws and knew each one of them personally. The killing took place only 10 or 12 miles from his store, among the buttes of the desert, near Christmas Lake. He had sold the ammunition and the guns that killed the sheep. To the outlaws Creed Conn's attitude and subsequent movements would be a constant source of wonderment and fear.

Shortly after the killing of the sheep, Creed Conn made a trip to Lakeview, 120 miles, and in consultation with his brother L. F. What took place between the two brothers is not known.

But the outlaws probably argued like this: "It is unusual to make a trip to Lakeview in this winter weather. He has gone to give us away. He simply wants to make a record for his brother as Prosecuting Attorney. What do you think of a man that would do that after he has fed off of us all these years? He should be given an object lesson."

Best Cough Medicine for Children.

When you buy a cough medicine for small children you want one in which you can place implicit confidence. You want one that not only relieves but cures. You want one that is unquestionably harmless. You want one that is pleasant to take. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy meets all of these conditions. There is nothing so good for the coughs and colds incident to childhood. It is also a certain preventive and cure for croup, and there is no danger whatever from whooping cough when it is given. It has been used in many epidemics of that disease with perfect success.
