Wealin to go to press early Thursday morning, and cannot be slayed by ads. and correspondence which car just as well be field carller in the week bease remember this. A charge of five cents a line will be made f publishing "Resolutions of Contobare."

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

The tub hat is one of the season's tract for granite for the pedestal of broidery, the openwork English designs being preferred.

For cool summer evenings there are pretty knitted shawls, shaped to the shoulders, and they are seen in all light and pastel shades.

The corset skirt has come to supplement the corset coat. It has no less for a present?" than seventeen gores, is fitted snugly over the hips and ripples at the bottom. Tartar plaid linens resembling Irish Smith, in Pontiac: poplin are the latest addition to the wash goods counters. They are very beautiful, but not particularly cool looking. When thin gowns are mounted over foundations of lawn a chiffon interlining adds greatly to the airy and graceful effect of the outer gown.

The most fashionable material for clusively for light coats, wears remarkably well. It comes in a variety of tones and in several weights.

Any sleeve is correct just so it fits at the shoulder and is pouched at the elbow or a little below. The full flowchiffon materials, and many of these show exquisitely dainty undersleeves .-New York Post.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Maud Adams is camping out in Egypt.

Ezra Kendall will be starred in a new play by Herbert Hall Winslow. Grace George has acquired the lease of a cottage near Paris, where she will spend her summers hereafter.

Two churches in Boston have sent invitations to Dorothy Rae of "Peggy From Paris" to sing in choirs.

During the summer interval Mrs. Fiske will devote much time to the study of Lady Macbeth, in which character she will be seen a year from next autumn.

E. F. Boddington and Harriet Ford are at work on a dramatization of Mary Johnston's novel "Audrey." The play will not be presented until the holidays.

"Are You a Mason?" "Lady Hunt-worth's Experience," "The Second In Command." "When We Were Twentyone." "The Llars" and "The Magistrate" were recently acted in Shanghal.

William Herbert, a member of Miss Henrietta Crosman's company in the New York run of "As You Like It." has been re-engaged for the part of Adam for her revival of the Shakesperean comedy next fall.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

Secretary Shaw's Story of & Lawysh Who Was Obstinate

Fifteen years ago Representative Hank Smith was wedded. As he is a lawyer and delights in the triumphs of his profession, the wedding day this year had more than the usual significance for him, for on that day he also won a law case. Mr. Smith secured a favorable verdict in the Washington courts for his fellow townsman, Mr. W. H. Harrison, in a suit involving a con-novelties. It is made of all over em the Sherman monument. He immediately telegraphed to Mrs. Smith, who is something of a wit as well as her liege lord in congress:

CONDENSED STORIES.

Mrs. Smith Wanted a "Rain Check" to Show Something Was Due.

"Have just won a good verdict in lawsuit on the anniversary of our wedding. What shall I bring you

A half hour later the messenger boy brought this reply from Mrs.

"I will take a rain check for that present till you get home."-Washington Post.

Faith and Works.

One's faith is often wonderfully strengthened when some one unites it with works. We are told that one tailored suits is undoubtedly covert hard winter, when sickness came to cloth. This fabric, until now used ex the poorly paid pastor of a certain New England church, his flock determined to meet at his house and offer prayers for the speedy 'recovery of the sick ones and for the material blessings upon the pastor's ing sleeve is a favorite for lace and family. While one of the deacons was offering a fervent prayer for blessings upon the pastor's household there was a loud knock at the door. When the door was opened, a stout farmer boy was seen. "What do you want, boy?" asked one of the elders. "I've brought pa's prayers," replied the boy. "Brought your pa's prayers! What do you mean ?" "Yep, brought his prayers, Robelins. Not more than 2,500 persons in Paris help me, an' we'll get 'em in." Inhave a capital of as much as $200,000, vestigation disclosed the fact that "pa's prayers" consisted of potatoes, flour, bacon, cornmeal, tur-The French town of Fecamp provides nips, apples, warm clothing and a lot of jellies for the sick ones. The prayer meeting adjourned in short order .- Rural New Yorker.

COM MANAGEMENT REPORTED AND A COMPANY AND A

Secretary Shaw of the United States treasury recently had occasion to reiterate his refusal to appoint the friend of a prominent senator to office. "I will not do it," said the secretary, with emphasis. Then, remembering that "a soft answer turneth away wrath," he added: "I'm afraid you will think I am as obstinate as a judge out in my state. The judge had a little temper which he gave up to sometimes. One day he had irritated the trial judge during the argument of a case. The judge on the bench commanded him to take his seat, but the arguer refused. He simply stood where he was. 'Sit down,' repeated the judge, pointing his finger at the offending lawyer. There was no movement on the part of the old judge. 'Sit down, I tell you!' thundered the trial judge, getting white with rage. No movement on the part of the judge. 'I fine you $50 for contempt of court,' was the sentence. The fine was paid immediately. But that afternoon as the lawyers were leaving the court room a friend of the judge remonstrated with him. 'You did very wrong to anger the trial judge,' he was told. 'Your client is in litigation before him nearly all the time, and you have prejudiced your case.' Turning to his adviser, the judge declared warmly, 'If my legs were made of candles and I had been standing in hades I would not have sat down until the candles had melted."

People Who Make Depew Tired. Chauncey M. Depew was talking somewhat bitterly about the class of men who never see the point of a joke.

"John B. Gough," he said, "used to tell about one of these men, a millionaire whom he knew in Boston.

"Gough was lecturing in Boston, and in the course of his remarks he said there were two poets, one old and the other young, who spent an evening together. The younger poet suggested that they two collaborate upon a volume of verse, but the other answered haughtily:

"'Would you hitch a horse and an ass together ?'

"'My dear friend,' the younger poet retorted, 'why should you call yourself an ass?"

"After his lecture was over Gough went home with his Boston friend. The latter asked him gravely if he wouldn't explain the point of the story about the two poets that he had told

"'Well,' said Gough, a little con-fusedly, 'I suppose the point of that story lies in the deftness with which the young man made the old man . call himself an ass.'

"'But,' said Gough's friend, 'the old poet didn't mean he was the ass. He meant that he was the horse.'

"Gough at this could say no more.
