

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them.

They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt rheum on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." Mrs. I. O. Brown, Rumford Falls, Me.

Hood's Sarsaparilla promises to cure and keeps the promise.

Taking Him at His Word.

"I didn't do it, your honor."

"But two witnesses here say they saw you pick his pocket."

"I'll tell you how it was, judge. We were on the car coming home from the races. I remarked that I wondered where I was going to get the price of a night's lodging and this gentleman replied: 'You can search me.' Well, I searched him. Nothing wrong in taking a man at his word, is there?"—Kansas City Journal.

Sure Cure at Last.

Monticello, Miss., Oct. 3 (Special)—Lawrence county is in almost daily receipt of fresh evidence that a sure cure for all Kidney Troubles has at last been found, and that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Among those who have reason to bless the Great American Kidney Remedy is Mrs. L. E. Baggett of this place. Mrs. Baggett had Dropsy. Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

"I was troubled with my kidneys," Mrs. Baggett says in recommending Dodd's Kidney Pills to her friends, "my urine would hardly pass. The doctors said I had Dropsy. I have taken Dodd's Kidney Pills as directed and am now a well woman."

Dodd's Kidney Pills cure the kidneys. Cured Kidneys strain all the impurities out of the blood. This means pure blood and a sound energetic body. Dodd's Kidney Pills are the greatest tonic the world has ever known.

The Proper Time.

"Say, pa," queried little Johnny Bumpernickie, "when do ghosts walk?"

"Probably in the dead of night, my son," replied the old man.

TORMENTING RHEUMATISM

Columbus, Ohio, May 20, 1903.

Six years ago I had a severe attack of Inflammatory Rheumatism. I was laid up in bed for six months, and the doctors I had did me no good. They changed medicines every week and nothing they prescribed seemed to help me. Finally I began the use of S. S. S. My knee and elbow joints were swollen terribly, and at one time my joints were so swollen and painful that I could not close them when opened. I was so bad that I could not move knee or foot. I was getting discouraged, you may be sure, when I began S. S. S., but as I saw it was helping me I continued it, and to-day I am a sound well man and have never had a return of the disease. S. S. S. purified my blood and cured me of this severe case of Rheumatism after everything else had failed. I have recommended it to others with good results.

R. H. CHAPMAN.

1355 Mt. Vernon Ave.

The poisonous acids that produce the inflammation and pain are absorbed into the blood and Rheumatism can never be conquered till these are neutralized and filtered out of the blood and system. S. S. S. goes directly into the circulation and attacks the disease itself. It purifies and restores the blood to a healthy, vigorous condition. It contains no potash, alkali or other strong minerals, but is guaranteed entirely vegetable. Write us and our physicians will advise without any charge whatever. Our book on Rheumatism sent free.

SANG THE HOLY CITY.

PECULIAR INCIDENT IN LIFE OF MRS. MAYBRICK.

Stephen Adams, Composer of the Song, Is Her Brother-in-Law, Michael Maybrick—Fortune in the Semi-Sacred Song and Its History.

Jerusalem! Jerusalem! Hear the angels sing; Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna to the King.

It is not difficult to imagine Mrs. Florence Maybrick, once sentenced to death for the murder of her husband and now released, after spending many years in an English prison, singing the refrain of Stephen Adams' popular sacred song, "The Holy City." But it is not generally known that here was the voice which first gave utterance to the strains which were destined to become as world famous as those of Sir Arthur Sullivan's "The Lost Chord" or "The Palms," by Faure.

The song was the work of the younger brother of the man Mrs. Maybrick was convicted of poisoning. Its composer was her most relentless enemy and was mainly instrumental in securing her conviction.

Few English composers have more successful songs to their credit than Stephen Adams. Few have made such a fortune-out of royalties as he. It has been stated that "Nancy Lee" alone netted him a quarter of a million dollars. His "Warrior Bold," "Midshipmite," and "Blue Alaskan Mountains" were scarcely less successful.

He is now extremely wealthy, a justice of the peace, and a member of the Victoria Yacht Club, and he has served two terms as Mayor of Kyde, Isle of Wight, in which capacity he has frequently entertained the King of England.

"Stephen Adams" is merely the name under which Michael Maybrick publishes his songs. Mr. Maybrick began his musical career as a barytone singer at local concerts around Liverpool. He is the son of a well-to-do shipping agent of Liverpool.

He and his brother were widely dissimilar in tastes, character and physique. The elder was a weakling, feeble of mind and body, a hypochondriac, addicted to the use of drugs, and with a mind fixed upon commercial enterprises.

The younger, Michael, was a magnificent specimen of humanity, tall, broad, and athletic. Of artistic temperament, he quit the counting-house and studied music in Milan and Leipzig. The elder remained at home, always ailing, always scheming to secure more wealth.

The brothers had only one trait in common. They were both enthusiastic yachtsmen.

Mrs. Maybrick was a good musician, had a great liking for music, an excellent voice, and a love of conviviality. Thus she drew together to some extent the brothers who had drifted apart.

Her husband owned a fine yacht, a feature of which was a music saloon. There many well-known singers and musicians were entertained. Michael Maybrick, who had just leaped into fame as the composer of "Nancy Lee," but as yet had not gathered in enough of the profits to indulge his passion for owning a yacht, was a frequent guest.

It was one of these musical evenings, while the yacht was anchored in the Mersey, that Michael Maybrick produced from his pocket a manuscript song which he said he had written that afternoon while dreaming the time away in his cabin, and listening to the splash of the waters. He had caught the inspiration of Weatherly's words, but the voice part only had been jotted down. The accompaniment had still to be filled in.

Sitting at the piano, he vamped an introduction and asked his sister-in-law, Mrs. Florence Maybrick, to sing "The Holy City" from the voice part. She was an excellent reader, and readily did this, he filling in an extemporized accompaniment.

Thus it was her voice which, for the first time, stirred the air with strains destined to become almost classic.

It was some years after the trial of Mrs. Maybrick, and while she was shut off from the world, buried within prison walls, that "The Holy City" was published and became popular. Publishers to whom it was submitted shook their heads, and declared it too sombre in character and tone.

"Bring us another 'Nancy Lee,'" they said, "and name your own price. Another waltz song with the swing of 'The Blue Alaskan Mountains' would be a sure winner. This is very fine, but it isn't in the Stephen Adams' style, and the public would not stand for it."

How erroneous was the judgment of those gentlemen has been proved by the popularity of the song. Before a year had passed they were clamoring for more of similar character. "The Star of Bethlehem," "The Valley of the Sea," and "Children of the City" followed; but none of them equaled the success attained by the song which was first sung by Mrs. Maybrick, whose tragic history has at length been brought to a peaceful conclusion, and who may with special meaning hereafter sing:

Hosanna in the highest, Hosanna to the King.

CHANGES IN OCCUPATION.

Women Taking a More Prominent Part in the World's Work.

In less than a generation there have been some phenomenal shifts and changes in the activities of this country and we presume in the civilized world generally, though nowhere else are they so marked as here, says the Boston Transcript. The old basic occupations have shown a shrinkage, at least with respect to the number of persons engaged in them. This is true to a larger extent of agriculture than of almost anything else, though the increased use of machinery probably more than offsets in the results the reduced personality. A comparison of the figures for 1880 and 1900 show very interesting and significant changes for the double decade. Domestic and personal service has fallen off, indicating a tendency toward contraction of the home life. The professions have increased normally, although the proportion of lawyers is considerably larger than that of doctors, which may account for the fact that the average of individual rewards in the latter profession are larger than in the former.

Women have taken a more prominent place in the ranks of the world's workers than ever before. The number engaged in various occupations has increased from 2,647,157 in 1880 to 5,319,597 in 1900, or over 100 per cent. The demand for entertainment and amusement is reflected in the fact that the number of actors and showmen has increased in twenty years 367.39 per cent, and literary pursuits 507.87 per cent, though in the dramatic profession and in the literary world there are no such shining lights as studied the more contracted armament of a previous generation.

Artists have swollen their ranks by 173.21 per cent and architects, designers and drafters by 300.43. The dentists show a growth in numbers of 140.90 per cent and journalists of 144.05. But the profession that leads them all is that of electrical and civil engineering, which has attained the phenomenal growth of 1,087.34 per cent. Of course, in some of its now prominent branches its showing was comparatively small at the beginning of that period and twenty years of its history likewise covered the rapid development of applied electricity for the various purposes in which it is now employed. There is nothing surprising in these figures when we consider them in connection with a service which in its almost infinite ramifications is hardly more than a quarter of a century old.

These figures are enlightening. They show numerous departures and indicate that the present generation must adjust itself to different conditions from those which furnished the goals of endeavor for a previous one. The greatest increase in any one class of employees is in the street railway service, amounting to 20.90 per cent, and that can also be accounted for on similar grounds. As the years go by other new occupations, vital to our expanding civilization, will be added and the largest successes await those who can most clearly and practically anticipate them. But while we admire the versatility and the mental force that have covered such a great expanse in that comparatively brief period, it is the "exceptional man" whom we still await in these several phases of newly developed activity. There is a splendid mediocrity expanding everywhere, but the fixed stars that shall hold their places for all times are not yet visible to the naked eye.

JAPAN'S USEFUL PAPERS.

House Walls, Rain Coats, Grain Sacks and Tobacco Pouches.

From the bark of trees and spruces the Japanese make scores of papers, which are far ahead of ours.

The walls of the Japanese houses are wooden frames covered with thin paper, which keeps out the wind but lets in the light, and when one compares these paper-walled "doll houses" with the gloomy bamboo cabins of the inhabitants of the island of Java or the small-windowed huts of our forefathers, one realizes that, without glass and in a rainy climate, these ingenious people have solved in a remarkable way the problem of lighting their dwellings, and, at least in a measure, of keeping out the cold.

As a cover for his load of tea, when a rainstorm overtakes him, the Japanese farmer spreads over it a tough, pliable cover of oiled paper, which is almost as impervious as tarpaulin and as light as gossamer. He has doubtless carried this cover for years neatly packed away somewhere about his cart.

The "rikisha" coolies in the large cities wear rain mantles of this oiled paper, which cost less than 18 cents, and lasts for a year or more with constant use. An oiled tissue paper, which is as tough as writing paper, can be had at the stationers for wrapping up delicate articles.

Grain and meal sacks are almost always made of bark paper in Japan, for it is not easily penetrated by weevils and other insects.

But perhaps the most remarkable of all the papers which find a common use in the Japanese household are the leather papers of which the tobacco pouches and pipe cases are made.

They are almost as tough as French kid, so translucent that one can nearly see through them, and as pliable and soft as calfskin. The material of which they are made is as thick as cardboard, but as flexible as kid.—National Geographic Magazine.

Unt! Then.

"Do you honestly believe, Jonesy, that all men are born free and equal?"

"I certainly do, and that it holds good until a man is married."—Detroit Free Press.

Had Reason to Boast.

She—Why do you boast that you have been so successful in love?

He—Because I am still single.—Philadelphia Telegraph.

It's just like finding money not to get married.

Some women don't have to bleach to have red-headed tempers.

A widow can unlearn things faster than any other person in the world.

Even a bathing suit can't look a peek-a-boo shirt waist in the face.

Some men are born troubled, some hunt for trouble, and some marry into it.

When a girl does very much walking it is either to lose weight or find a man.

It costs as much to give one's children a college education as they can earn afterward.

It is time enough to get married when a man has got tired of spending money on himself.

When a man can tighten a screw in his wife's sewing machine she thinks he could build a suspension bridge.

It's funny how absolutely convinced the reformer is that the only virtue on earth is buttoned under his own waistcoat.

When a man has no notion that he is entitled to any of the money he earns he is called a fairly good husband.

When a woman doesn't worry over whether her husband is safely here, it is time for him to worry over whether she is safely his.

It's a mighty sweet tempered woman that doesn't lose faith in her religion when her nose gets sunburnt and wants to peel.

When a woman is putting on evening dress there's a stage when for a long time you can't guess whether she is dressing or undressing.

Taught Judge a Lesson.

Not long ago, while a case was being heard before the Supreme Court of Germany at Breslau, one of the witnesses made a remark which displeased the presiding judge and he exclaimed angrily:

"You are an impertinent fellow and I've a great mind to punish you."

"You have no right to use such language to me," replied the witness, "for I'm just as good as you are, and if you weren't on the bench I'd teach you a lesson for insulting me in this manner."

Enraged at being publicly affronted, the judge stopped the proceedings at once and sentenced the offensive witness to three days' imprisonment for contempt of court.

"Pardon me," said the incorrigible witness, "but, if you know anything of law, you must know that you cannot sentence me unless you obtain the consent of the other judges."

This was true, and the judge hurried off to get his colleagues' consent. In half an hour, however, he returned and coldly informed the smiling witness that his colleagues did not agree with him and that consequently he need not consider himself under arrest.
