

THE GAZETTE.

HEPPNER, THURSDAY, JAN. 24, 1884.

Local and General.

Now is the accepted time to smoke your logs.

Sturgis Bros' thoroughbred horse, Monte Christo, is dead.

The Heppner skating rink continues to attract large crowds.

Coyotes are getting away with many sheep in the Unquaga Hills.

Wm. Dorris, a brakeman, was killed near Roseburg last Sunday.

Robert Harris has been elected president of the Northern Pacific.

In Texas, cows worth $20 to $23 in good times are selling for $10.

Jay Gould is said to have bought salt water frontage at Park Orford.

Geo. F. Thomas, a veteran stage man, died last week at Walla Walla.

A man may know how to cure hams but not know how to procure them.

Mat Lichtenthal has sold his mountain ranch to Wm. Penland at a fair figure.

When you want to insure your property against fire, call at the GAZETTE office.

Heppner weather the past week has been cloudy and foggy, with the thermometer averaging about the freezing point.

The fog has settled and frozen on bunchgrass, making the latter pretty to look at, but rather icy for stock to eat.

A young child was taken to church in Quebec, Canada, the other day, and baptized, and when the parents and friends returned home the child strongly advised them all to buy their canned goods, groceries, books, papers, etc., at Minor & Dodson's.

With a view to establish more homes in this country, J. J. Creedon makes the following liberal offer: When any man takes unto himself a wife, and goes to the mountains, we will furnish the couple all the furniture they need at fair, living prices.

James Hardman, the young man who had one of his feet frozen while hunting in the Wall creek country last month, is having a serious time. He is stopping with his uncle Dave, at Hardman, and this week surgical aid had to be sent for to amputate the toes and perhaps the foot.

A Woman Suffrage Association has sent to the GAZETTE office a long advertisement, with a request to "kindly insert it." Oh, yes, we'll insert it—at the usual rates. All the publisher has to do is to ask the paper dealer to "kindly" send him a ton of paper, and it never costs him a cent.

The Heppner schoolboys have sprung a new racket on playing perhaps, and no longer allow the dirt on their slide to come in contact with their unprotected pants. They now use short boards for sliding, which shoot down Schoolhouse Hill at a rapid rate, and do not injure the back.

When rivers are much warmer than the air, they give rise to fogs, because the rapid evaporation from the warm water pours more water into the atmosphere than it can hold suspended in an invisible state, and consequently the best place to get barbed wire, nails, tinware, or any kind of hardware, is at W. J. Leezer's.

A pray horse belonging to Will Mallory's buck team died in town last Sunday. Will was in visiting his father's family, when the horse was taken sick, and in spite of all that was done he died in intense agony. Instead of being hauled to the scare spot above town, the carcass was taken to an out-of-the-way place down the creek, where it cannot be seen by passing teams.

Owners of Heppner dogs are respectfully notified that the publisher of the GAZETTE cannot be responsible for the safety of their animals when they come barking around his bucking cayuse. About that time he has all he can do to run the front end of his pony, and can't attempt to control the heel part, which was loaded by Gunn the blacksmith, and is liable to go off at any moment.

Abel Wells' town cow was decidedly sick last Friday, and after she had milked her calf the latter showed symptoms of poisoning, and was almost dead for a few days. Abel's cow is a great forager, and if there was an old bottle of corn medicine lying around in any backyard in town she would be sure to get hold of it and eat it out of curiosity in preference to the good hay she gets at home.

PROSPECTIVE ACQUISITION.

The following is a sample of the many letters received by Pacific coast publishers from parties across the Rocky mountains who seem to think a man out here ought to know all about their business, their climate, the prices ruling in their localities, etc.

A man at Mr. Trask's intelligence would be a valuable acquisition to any community.

GIANT GROVE, Michigan, Jan. 10. ED. GAZETTE: I stumbled across a copy of your paper the other day, which had been left at our hotel by a traveler. I am thinking some of going to Eastern Oregon, but before starting I want you to send me a lot of copies of your paper and to answer me the following questions:

1. Is the climate around Heppner as cold as it is here?

2. Are the trees on your prairies as big as ours are here?

3. Could I buy a team of mules there as cheap as I can here?

4. Could I make as easy a living in Heppner as I do here?

5. Would you advise me to come to Eastern Oregon, or to go east, or do you think I can do better by staying where I am?

A. J. TRASK.

ANSWERS.

1. Don't know. Never was in Michigan. Send us a bottle of your climate so we can compare it with the Heppner article.

2. Don't know. Send us a cord of your trees for comparison.

3. Don't know. Send us quotations of your mule market.

4. Don't know. How many meals a day do you get now? Ever have to do the Tanner Act?

5. We don't advise you to do anything. You can come to Eastern Oregon, stay where you are, or go to the devil, just as you please. If you want a lot of copies of the GAZETTE—say 200 or so, you can have them at the usual price. Write again.

NOTES FROM LONE ROCK.

Remarkably fine winter weather.

Miss Sallie Conklin has been in town for three weeks, visiting.

The Lone Rock court is in session. Three civil cases on the docket.

Lone Rock grammar: "One geese is a goose, and a whole lot of geese is geese."

Born—On Jan. 6, to the wife of Ed. C. Horren, a daughter. All doing well.

J. L. Daman, a prominent citizen of Polk county, is here looking for a location.

Bishop says that the fairest girl in Lone Rock is making her wedding trousseau.

Geo. Crawford, of this place, is attending academy at The Dalles. He will prepare for the ministry.

Deputy Sheriff LeFevre went to Fossil and recovered a valuable horse belonging to Morgan Ward that had been "amugged."

Deceiving "appearances" have caused a falling off in the number of attempts made by our boys to take married ladies to the skating rink.

The Standards and Oregonians of Portland, already two weeks printed, must be trying to reach Lone Rock via Chicago and New Orleans. They have not arrived yet.

Word has just come in to the effect that some of Lone Rock's "wild and woolly" and bad boys from Whoopup creek, were taken in at Alkali and required to put up shekels for their appearance before the grand jury. A step in the right direction. Boys should put on good behavior when away from home.

A SHEEPMAN'S SAY.

HEPPNER, Jan. 21, '84. ED. GAZETTE: Senator Slater's letter denouncing to help raise the tariff on wool is a hard pill for me to swallow, but still I have to honestly admit that he is right. Like many other people, I am selfish, and want to make all the money I can. And if putting a high tariff on wool will make manufacturers pay me more for what I produce, of course high tariff goes if my saying so will make it go. But of course the bearer of coolens will have to pay the fiddler in the end. We sheepmen have no just right to claim protection for our business at the expense of our neighbors who produce other staples.

The Big-Head.

A small man with the big-head is a sad sight to behold. Godalmighty made part of him, and his own vanity made the rest. Even if he don't own a whole town and the adjoining precincts, he sometimes thinks he does. Although having a good start in life himself, and being comfortably fixed, when he sees a neighbor gradually working out of debt by hard work and honest industry, the selfish spirit of the big-headed small man comes to the surface, and he forthwith starts in to crowd out his poorer neighbor and steal the business, and then he struggles to build up. Well, sometimes wire-pullers and schemers succeed in their avicious ideas and sometimes they don't. Sometimes it depends.

Land Notices.

A bill has been introduced in congress to repeal the law requiring settlers to advertise their intention to prove up. At present the law compels a settler to advertise his intention for six weeks in the paper published nearest the land, and fixes the advertising charge at $7, although some papers allow local land agents to increase their own fees by a shave of $2 from the paper's proper pay. If the law is repealed it will be a saving to the settler, but some other way will probably be devised to make his land cost him just as much as it does at present.

Tardy Justice.

Congressman Glasscock of California has introduced a bill to pay all soldiers and sailors who served on the Pacific Coast the difference between the greenbacks they received for their services and the gold coin they were required to have wherewith to purchase necessities of life. Soldiers on this coast during the war were paid $16 per month in greenbacks, when the clatter were only worth 33 1/2 cents on the dollar. It is about time their accounts were balanced up.

The Northwest.

We have received the January number of The Northwest, an elegant 28-page illustrated paper published in New York by E. V. Smalley. It is devoted to the development of our Northwest country, and is a very valuable work.

AT ALKALI.

Our town continues to enlarge and improve with great rapidity.

The many friends of Henry Blackman, of Heppner, were pleased to see him on our streets again last week.

What with store, forwarding and express business, Phil Heppner now has his hands about as full as they will hold.

A bold burglar was captured here the other day while going through Frank McFarland's house. While burglarizing at Blacklock the same fellow had been shot at, but didn't seem to mind it.

Our town is always ready to do its duty towards the unfortunate, and a few of our citizens subscribed $20 towards the funeral expenses of the poor man who recently died on Lower Willow creek.
