This Yorktown and Vesuvius, two new vessels for the United States navy were launched at Philadelphia, on April 24th. The Secretary of the Navy with a large number of guests were present, having been brought from Washington by a special train. The Yorktown, the larger of the two vessels, is unarmored, 203 feet long, 36 feet wide and with a mean draught of 14 feet. She measures 1,700 tons. The Vesuvius is built of steel, 216 feet long, 28 1/2 feet wide and with 8 1/2 feet mean draught. She is 16 feet longer than the Yorktown and only a little over two-thirds her width, and measures 700 tons. They are both propelled by twin screws. The latter vessel is to be armed with the Zolinski torpedo gun, which is described as follows:
The accuracy and efficiency of the weapon can be judged of from the record. But while that trial, successful as it proved, was executed with an eight inch gun, the new vessel is to carry three guns of sixteen inch caliber. Yastly greater destructive powers will be developed by them. They will throw projectiles each containing six hundred pounds of explosive gelatine a distance of over a mile. The guns are to be capable of maintaining a rate of discharge of two projectiles per minute.
The three tubes are to be placed forward in the ship, their ends projecting above the deck well forward while their breeches are fixed in the hull. They are to be set at a downward angle of 15 degrees. The range is to be adjusted by varying the amount of air admitted. The eight inch projectile has reached a destructive range of one mile with about the same elevation. The range will undoubtedly be much greater with the larger projectile. All the details of the loading and discharging mechanism are to be as perfect and automatic as possible. Within the hull are stowed a quantity of heavy tubes to contain the compressed air.
In firing practice, the distance of the mark must be estimated and the discharge valve set accordingly. The vessel is then turned until the gun points to the mark, when the projectile is discharged. Should the vessel be rolling, the discharge must take place when she is on an even keel, the artificer waiting his time. The pitching will tend to alter the range, but owing to the high trajectory the effect will be far less than in ordinary gun practice. An inclination of over 4 degrees, due to pitching, is not looked for in ordinary sea.

The Yorktown having no projecting keel on her bottom, bilge keels are provided, one on each side. These are designed to counteract any undue tendency to rolling. Her bow, which is strengthened internally, projects forward below the water line, so as to form an efficient ram. The stem is adorned with quite an elaborate carving in place of a figurehead, and near the top, directly in the line of the stem, an ornamental opening appears, from whence it is proposed to eject torpedoes. The stern overhangs the rudder to such an extent as to appear quite ungraceful when out of water. The Secretary of the Navy has taken a great interest in the construction of these formidable war ships, which would destroy a whole fleet of ordinary gun boats.

Heppner is literally unprotected against fire, and it would seem the right thing to take warning at the fate of Goldendale and Palouse city and make preparations for some protection. A reservoir on either the Nelse Jones' place or the Halleck property would give enough pressure to put out fires, by taking water directly from the mains. The water could be raised to the reservoir by a 30 horse power engine, placed at a well down by the creek. This would not only furnish water for fire purposes, but would assist to beautify town property, by affording water for front yards, during the dry season. If the corporation is not wealthy enough to do this, there are a number of citizens who have capital, that could put in water works, and it would be a paying investment, as such an enterprise would be liberally patronized by both the city and individuals.

It is claimed that the spiritist fraud now on trial in New York, Miss Dina De Bar, was at one time a resident of Salina, Kansas. It is an exceedingly chilly day when Kansas fail to appear conspicuously before the public generally, however, the Sunflower appears more creditably than in this instance.

The woolen manufacturers decline to purchase wool except for immediate needs. Prices have declined three cents and they expect a considerable further decline when the Mills tariff bill goes into operation, if Congress is successful in passing it with the tariff knoed off from wool.

The political fever in this section is now at the top notch, and earnest democrats and republicans are raking each other's opinion on the present political issues. But after all it is only a neighborly, friendly talk, which will be decided at the coming presidential election. The coming campaign has been proclaimed to be one of intense excitement. There is no good reason for anything of the kind, and we hope to see the next president elected as quietly as that great event demands.

NOTES FROM LEXINGTON.
Born.—To the wife of Andrew Beoney, May 19, a boy.
The drought and crop prospects are making many long faces down this way. Dr. Lewis broke his arm over again last week, and is now confined to his room again.
We learn that the Rhea Bros. and Jimmy Cecil left Castle Rock Saturday with their cattle for the Big Bend country.
W. E. Basher has rented the Lexington feed stable and took possession Monday morning.
Tom Ayers was in town Tuesday on right-of-way business.
Johnnie Ayers stopped in town Tuesday, while en route to Arlington.
Dr. Fell informs us that the members of J. C. Thompson's family who have been very low with lung fever, are now convalescing.
Dunbar left this morning to accompany G. W. Wright on his stumping tour. They will devote the independent cause and perform Mr. Wright's democratic speeches.

The Mair boys have moved in town this week, preparatory to working on the railroad. They have a one mile contract, instead of three, as stated in last week's GAZETTE. We understand they receive nine cents a yard for dirt and eighty cents for rock.
Thos. Beoney has moved his band of 20 horses down on the Mart Richardson range near the sand, having bought a half interest in Mart's range and water privileges.
Jo. Jo.
EIGHT MILE.

Weather very dry, and the wind blowing almost constantly. Some of the farmers are getting very much discouraged.
Pasture on the range is short, and as nearly all of the springs are fenced in, the cattle have to go quite a distance sometimes to get water.
Mr. M. J. Swift has moved to the mountains. He expects to carry on the sheep raising business.
Sheep shearers are still busy. Quite a number of bands have been removed to the mountains.
Robert Halley is located at Lone Rock. He is in the tin-ware business, and his wife has a fancy store.
Wm. Halley attended the prohibition convention at Heppner. He spoke of the ladies of Morrow being interested in this cause. This speaks very highly of those ladies.
The Sabbath school at Eight Mile Center held their annual meeting, first Sabbath in May, and elected the following officers: Mrs. Ashbaugh, supt.; Mrs. Isaac Knighten, asst. supt.; Miss Cora Stanton, sec't; E. Knighten, treasurer; M. Ashbaugh, librarian.

The nuptials have gone through Esq. Jones' family, the Esq. himself being the best man to take them. He is convalescent.
A good preacher at Eight Mile Center would be welcome, one that would come according to promise. We have been so frequently disappointed by promises being made and not fulfilled that we are getting discouraged. Antioch.
EIGHT MILE NOTES.

Since the departure of "Josiah's sister-in-law," there has not been very many letters from our midst to your worthy paper, so I will for the first time in three years take up the pen in behalf of Eight Mile.
The grain generally, speaking, looks well, but the gardens are beginning to look better since the few warm days' but we are sadly in need of a good rain.
Sunday there was morning and evening services at "Eight Mile Center," the Rev. Beoney preached and a very good reasoner he proved too. He will have regular appointments hereafter and will preach once a month.
Mr. and Mrs. Conroy will start for the Big Bend country the latter part of this week. We are sorry indeed to lose such interesting neighbors.
C. L. Sweeney has gone to Arlington by way of Trail fork where his sheep are being sheared.

The interesting J. A. McMorris paid Eight Mile a dying visit recently. He is getting over a great deal of the country in his own behalf. I believe, as he is one of the candidates for school supt. of Gilliam county. Should he be elected, they will have a very efficient man and one that will work up school interests.
Edwin M. Hawley, teacher of the McBoe school, will give a picnic soon, and the people are generally invited to come and bring their baskets well filled with good things. June.
Attention! Sheep Herd.
I will pasture bucks at my ranch on the head of Middle fork of Rock creek;—will gather from the ranges at shearing time and dip them July 1st. I will make central dipery between the middle and last of October and pay for all bucks not accounted for. Terms, $1.10 per head for the season. Address, JAMES HAMS, Harlan.

For sale.
A dwelling in Heppner, contains five large rooms; is cooled and papered; has good brick foundation, a small orchard that will bear some fruit this year and good stable. Corner property comprising two lots. A good bargain may be had by applying to J. W. Monnow.
Taboring.
I have opened a well-appointed taboring establishment in my new building on May street, and am now regularly receiving new goods and will make custom made chairs from $7 to $15—best goods in the market. A. ABRAHAMICK.

Happiness and Health.
Are important problems, the former depending greatly on the latter. Every one is familiar with the healthy properties of fruit, and no one can afford to be sick and miserable while the pleasant California concentrated liquid fruit remedy, Syrup of Figs, may be had of the enterprising druggist, C. N. Mallory, Heppner.
SHEARERS.—From the range, one four year old mare, dark bay, branded cross inside circle on left shoulder. A liberal reward will be given for her return to meat Heppner. J. C. BATA.

REPUBLICAN COLUMN.

This column is devoted to the interests of the republican party, and we are not responsible for anything that may appear in it.

Gen. Jackson on the constitutionality and indispensability of the protection of American industry, from his second annual message 1855.—Second American Statesman, page 858.
The power to impose duties upon imports originally belonged to the several states. The right to adjust these duties with a view to the encouragement of domestic industry, is so completely identical with that power, that it is difficult to suppose the existence of the one without the other. The states have delegated their whole authority over imports to the general government, without limitation or restriction, saving the very inconsiderable reservation relating to the inspection laws. This authority having thus entirely passed from the states, the right to exercise it for the purpose of protection does not exist in these; and consequently, if it be not possessed by the general government, it must be extinct. Our political system would thus present the anomaly of a people stripped of the right to foster their own industry, and to counteract the most selfish and destructive policy which might be adopted by foreign nations. This surely cannot be the case; this indispensable power, thus surrendered by the states, must be within the scope of one authority on the subject, expressly delegated to Congress. In this conclusion I am confirmed, as will be by the opinions of Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Madison and Monroe, who have repeatedly recommended this right under the constitution, as by the opinions of our statesmen, the continued acquiescence of the states, and the general understanding of the people.

WILL NOT SPEAK.—Thos. Fell was up from Arlington Monday, and was generally interviewed by wool men and politicians. To the former, he says: "Prospects for any advance over present low prices are not bright. The tariff agitation causes buyers to confine their operations within the limit of possible free trade basis, pending definite settlement of that which will govern values in the future." There is such a close analogy between wool and politics, that I looked after our interests in railroad matters, and attending to business upon the wool platform at Arlington, than I can by stumping around over the country, haranguing the people concerning that which they understand quite as well, if not better than I do."
W. R. Ellis, candidate for district attorney, has served in that capacity two terms, one appointive, and has given an universal satisfaction. He is respected by both parties for his integrity and capability, as not a word has ever been uttered to his detriment. He lives in Morrow county, in one of our best and best looked after the interests of the said county. Could you do better than to elect such a capable man to the office he seeks? And when the June election draws near, the candidates will be glad to have voiced the sentiments of the good people of Morrow.

DEMOCRATIC COLUMN.

This column is devoted to the interests of democracy, and we are not responsible for anything that may appear in it.
Tom Morgan will run a strong race for sheriff in our June election. His friends will see that he is properly supported.
One of the most efficient constables Heppner precinct ever had, was Thomas Morgan. He is a man who abides by the laws, and expects others to do the same. This is the man who is before you this year for sheriff of Morrow county. Work for him, Talk for him, Vote for him, and then you will have done your duty.
Tom Morgan is now going the rounds with the "stump speakers." It is safe to say that he will make many votes on this trip.

STUMP SPEAKING.

At the earnest solicitation of the Democratic Campaign Committee, I have consented to speak on the political issues of the present time at the following-named places and dates in Morrow county, viz:
Matheson precinct (school house), Tuesday, May 22, at 11 o'clock A. M.
Harlan, Tuesday, May 22, at 7 o'clock P. M.
Dry Fork (Gooseberry), Wednesday, May 23, at 1 P. M.
Eight Mile Centre school house, on Thursday, May 24, at 1 P. M.
Lone, Friday, May 25, at 1 P. M.
Lexington, Saturday, May 26, at 1 P. M.
Cecil, Monday, May 28, at 1 P. M.
Ellis, Tuesday, May 29, at 1 P. M.
Alpine, Wednesday, May 30, at 1 P. M.
Pine City, Thursday, May 31, at 1 P. M.
Lena, Friday, June 1, at 1 P. M.
Heppner, Saturday, June 2, at 1 P. M.
The different party nominees are respectfully invited to meet me at said places and dates, and I trust to see everyone, republicans, democrats and independents, in each precinct present at said dates. The republicans and independent nominees for representative are hereby respectfully challenged to discuss with me at said dates and places the political issues between the two great parties.
Geo. Wm. WRIGHT.

TO INDEPENDENT VOTERS.—Citizens of Morrow county who favor an independent ticket at the county election next June, are hereby notified to assemble in their respective precincts on Saturday, April 21, 1888, to elect delegates to a county convention to be held in Heppner, on Saturday, April 21st. The representation of each precinct has been established on the basis of the vote cast for Lexington in June, 1886, as follows: Heppner 4; Lexington 6; Alpine 4; Eight Mile 4; Dairyville 2; Lone 4; Lena 2; Cecil 3; Wells Springs 1; Pine City 2; Dry Fork 2; Castle Rock 1. As a basis of this action the Independent Central Committee believe that as the precincts are at present bounded we are not fairly represented in our county conventions. By order of J. F. Brewer, Chairman Independent Co. Central Com.
