PICTURES FOR THE PRESS

Mistakes Which are Sometimes Made "An art editor has to be a live man," "An art editor has to be a live man," said S. H. Horgan, of the American Press Association. "Frequently mistakes are made. I remember a fraud that was perpetrated upon The Graphic. It was at the time that Sitting Buil, the Sloux chief, had a great deal of newspaper prominence. An army officer came into The Graphic one morning with a picture which he chaimed was a good likeness of the great chief. He wanted $50 for it. As the paper was anxious to publish the As the paper was anxious to publish the picture he was paid his price and went his way. A beautiful front page cut was made from it at considerable expense, and it was proposed to bring it out within a few days. Luckily, another army officer well known to the editor called at the office the day prior to its publication. He said girl, cables, trait of a lawful marriage. As a Fraceh exile he is now in Spain, where his Mexican son is also an officer in the army, but his Mexican wife and daughter are living here in a quiet way on the north side of the Alemada. His possessions were unturally confiscated by Justers and the Libreral ports we that posture. He recognized the picture as that of an old Indian who was a hanger on at Fort Laramis. Of course, the pict-ure was never published, and The Graphic was more careful in the future.

'Many mistakes of this kind have occurred however. At one time likenesses

When we have borrowed a photograph to copy we must be careful not to return it until after we have published it, otherwise some other newspaper might secure it and anticipate us. I remember the time we had in getting John Kelly's likeness. I went to him personally and asked him for his photograph for publication. He did not seem displeased with the idea, but laughingly turned me off with the remark. I guess the public have seen enough of me in caricature. After a long search his photograph was found at last in a little place on the Bowery. "Artists who are sent to sketch the prominent characters at state or national conventions have little trouble. Most men in such bodies come prepared for the newspaper men with written interviews and photographs in their trunks. If they come into prominence they are ready for the emergency. In case a man becomes prominent at a convention who is not so prepared we telegraph to the place where he resides for his likeness. When a new cabinet is to be appointed we prosure be forehand the portraits of every conceivable candidate for the offices, so as to be ready when the appointments are actually made. In the case of Cleveland's cabinet we had twenty-four engravings made of likely men.—New York Mail and Express
