There are a number of boys running about town, that should be in school. Parents are not only doing the children wrong by not having them attend school but also the community in that they reside. Every boy and girl of school age should be compelled to attend school, instead of being allowed to run about town.

That Stanley is safe is now the universal belief in Europe. His mission has virtually been accomplished, and if he is not on his return trip, he has taken his own life. Under the name of Stanley under the name of Pasha. When Stanley returns, if he ever does, what a story he can tell of his adventures in the heart of the dark continent.

The Arlington Times objects to giving the John Day and Long Creek people a good road across the mountains as provided in Fell's Bill. It strikes us that is a foolish thing for an Arlington paper to do - to fight a measure which will benefit the people who trade with them. No doubt these people will remember Arlington for her kind consideration of their welfare.

The attendance at the public school is gradually increasing, and we regret that owing to recent illness Mrs. Dr. Swinburne has been obliged to close her department. Our teachers are deserving of special praise for the pains and interest taken in their work. A good school is one of the most valuable attributes to the merits of a town, and upon this one possession depends, to an extent the advance of a city.
