THE RUSH TO OKLAHOMA.

At 12 o'clock M. on last Monday, Oklahoma was opened for settlement and thousands of people poured over its borders. By night, 15,000 people were located in the city of Guthrie which before noon was only an insignificant railroad station. This city has a daily paper, the Oklahoma Herald, a bank with $50,000 capital, all established within six bours. An election notice has been published and a mayor and council will be elected in a few days. The place had not been in existance two hours till it had its Guthrie Avenue, Oklahoma Avenue, Main street and other important thoroughfares.

It was feared that grent bloodshed would attend the opening of this territory, yet everything is peaceable so far, although great excitement prevails. No more troops will be needed it is thought.

Many old boomers were well acquainted with the territory, and knew where to find the choicest prevails and which leads to so many serious nervices. At 12 o'clock M. on last Monday, Ok
