When a man's principles are chiefly boodle, he never fails, either in politics or other ties, to follow where boodle leads.

THE PEOPLE of Heppner are represented in their city government by Henry Blackman as mayor. Will the Budget man repeat the charge that no "Self respecting man" wants to be represented by a Jew, and say that two-thirds of the voters of Heppner are not self-respecting men.

THE editor of the Budget is a consistent and "self-respecting man." He claims to be a republican. But to be consistent and retain his self-respect he is sure to be found working for independents in 1888, and for democrats in 1890. Does it conform to what he claims or to what he is? True republicans are not that kind of stuff.

"BEES about the bungle of a cider barrel," is what the late democratic receiver and register of The Dalles land office say of Governor Pennoyer's state school land commissioners and their attorney, in their persistent efforts to get patents for school lands sold to a ring for $1.25, who had already sold them for $3.50 per acre. Read the letter on the first page.

ACCORDING to the Budget the democratic ticket was made by a combination of democrats and "republicans who wanted to down the ring." How funny that republicans should, to avoid one ring jump into another. And thus they made a ticket "entirely satisfactory" all around. Heppner got the five important offices and all was lovely. Why should it be "satisfactory" when the city got the county on the hip.

"ONE of the strongest precepts of political tricksters is deceit," says the editor of the Budget. He is a thorough scholar in that school and has shown himself to be an adept in that practice. Another of its precepts is "Defense is deception." It is supposed that these are the reasons why he won't come to the front and explain that Heppner ticket. Look out for it to-day. He will bring his tactics into play.

THE GAZETTE records to the editor of the Budget, that he "is wise in his own conceit," but like all vain men, he will expose his own foolishness. His vanity and superficial knowledge leads him to expose unintentionally his secret "precepts" for political action. It may be found in the Budget of May 1st, and reads thus: "One of the strongest precepts of political tricksters is deceit." That is just what the GAZETTE has been trying to get the people to see, from the course which the Budget has adopted to secure votes for his Heppner ticket; and is what Judge Mitchell means in his letter of May 1888. Read it.

THE Budget's "modern chronicles," of last week, contains intimations that certainly should cause every democratic delegate from Morrow county to the state convention, and their many friends, to sour on part of their program. What right has that paper to presume that gentlemen representing the democratic party did sell their influence? The following is an extract from their slanderous article relative to Mr. Blackman: "And it came to pass after many days, when he had gathered together his followers and bought up all the proxies he could control, that they journeyed to the mighty city where the high priest were to gather themselves together." The delegates to the democratic state convention were C. A. Lee, F. J. Matlock, J. W. Redford, J. L. Morrow, E. G. Sloan and Thos. Quail. Does that paper mean to say that these gentlemen, or their proxies, were bought up? We have only to refer to the people for an unanimous answer in the negative. This plainly shows to what extremes that paper will go to defeat the object of their personal hate—one of the best friends Morrow county ever had.

THE GAZETTE has attempted to conduct this canvass with decency and respect to the private personal feelings of the candidates on the democratic ticket and those who composed the convention which nominated it. On the contrary, the Budget, which supports that ticket, have assailed not only those who are candidates on the republican ticket, but all who assisted in making it and supporting it in convention and out with abusive invectives, malicious slander and villainous lies. It became necessary to use the knife in dealing with a bad case, and we have used it not to strike at any of the personal qualities of any gentleman on the ticket, but it was necessary in defense of those gentlemen whose personal qualities are their equals, who were grossly, maliciously, slanderously and without regard to truth, ruthlessly assailed by the editor of the Budget. It is with pleasure the GAZETTE can say that it has not designed or used the name of a single democratic candidate in its controversy, except Judge Wm. Mitchell's, which we regret to say was necessary in its defense, and not then only in deep respect for the judge. The GAZETTE is confident that a thorough and careful examination of its files will confirm this statement.

ABOUT THOSE SCHOOL LANDS

If Governor Pennoyer was not interested in the syndicate to obtain the exclusive control of these school lands, he shows the lack of astuteness and business qualifications which, in the management of the state's interest, have been attributed to him in the management of his own private business. Was the desire on the part of the governor greater to insure the apparent value of the school fund, or to obtain the $3.50 for the school lands which the syndicate were permitted to have the exclusive privilege of purchasing at $1.25. It appears that honest settlers were cut off from purchasing any of those lands direct from the state at the state's prices, at $1.25, by what looks like a clear fraud to hold the lands for speculation, in which the school commission seemed to take so much interest, as declared and exposed by the late democratic register and receiver of the land office at The Dalles, Oregon, who were too honest and honorable to be silent when they saw that the school fund of the state, and the people were being defrauded and deceived by their own officials. Can any one, after reading the official letter of The Dalles land office officials, which will be found on the first page of the GAZETTE, doubt that the entire board of school land commissioners did not know that they were working in the interest of a syndicate of land speculators, and against the interest of the state and the actual settler? When the settlers went to the board, they were met with the reply that there were no more lands but if they went to the syndicate they could get the lands for $3.50 per acre. Then, and not till then, did this honest board of school land commissioners, of which the honest Governor Pennoyer was the head, discover that the state did have school lands for sale. Can any one doubt that the president of the board was aware of such villainy in a board comprised of three persons only, besides himself? He might be excused and a plen of ignorance be accepted in a few exceptional instances, but when the fraud is an entirety, and enters into every transaction, he cannot avoid the irresistible conclusion that the entire board were interested in the syndicate, Governor Pennoyer and all. If he were not, it is still evident that the governor is a unfit person to whom the people should intrust the interests of the state.

BIRDS OF A FEATHER, ETC.

"As a prominent citizen of Heppner said at the beginning of the present campaign, the GAZETTE always manages to get on the wrong side of every question, and if there is any dirt around it is sure to smear itself completely." — Lexington Budget.

If the editor of the Budget is not at his old trick of lying, and the p. c. did say so, it is only evidence that there is something wrong in his upper story, when his vanity persuades him that he is always right, and the GAZETTE is always wrong, and looks to the Budget for what is right. "Always right" men are denominated "cranks," now-a-days. If he is satisfied with the Budget "dirt," it is clear proof that his mind is perverted. "Birds of feather flock together," you know.

As the Budget's editor fought some of the best citizens in Morrow county two years ago, so he fights them now—except where inducements makes change of policy. Two years ago he said: "The democrats of Heppner precinct claim that they will support Howell. They will not do it. Every son of a gun of them will vote for Fell." The election came along, and it was found that Howell carried his party in Heppner precinct. In the same column he slandered Uncle Billy Mitchell, and in this campaign admits that he lied. Now, what faith can the voters of Morrow put in that "barb wire and bacon" story so persistently urged against Henry Blackman? He admits that he has lied in the past, and we have every reason to believe that he will lie again to accomplish his dirty designs.

"ONE of the strongest precepts of political tricksters is deceit," says the Budget. How well it follows its precept is seen in its purpose to follow the tactics of the shoplifter which he refers to as being the most noisy and loudst to cry "stop thief." His ticket is so apparent to the eye which sees it, that it cannot be successfully defended from the appearance of a combination or a ring, that it follows in the wake of the shoplifter and cries Boss, Ring and Ringster. "It's too thin, Mr. M."
