Chapter II

The next year, a few changes had taken place. In the old home, the son was living there with his mother. It was then that Mr. Oliver, Jr., entered the picture. He had just returned from a long trip abroad and was eager to establish himself in the family business. His mother, Mrs. Sarah Oliver, was overjoyed to have her son back home. Together, they decided to open a new branch of the business in a nearby city. The son proved to be very successful and within a few years, the business expanded even further.
