The town teams of Lexington and Heppner played a game of football yesterday at Heppner, states Monday's East Oregonian of Pendleton, which ended with the score standing 6 to 6. Buck Lieuallen of Pendleton played tackle for the Heppner team and is discovering many sore spots on his body today as a result. The Heppner team had not played a game this season before yesterday's go, and the members of the team were feeling pretty good over their showing. Mr. Lieuallen said. The Lexington team was the same aggregation that played the Athens town team three games this season.

Dr. W. W. Kettle has located at Ione, taking the place left vacant by the departure of Dr. Walker, who has gone to Vale. Dr. Kettle has recently been practicing in Portland, and being in Vale when Dr. Walker was there, decided that Ione would be a good point to locate. The doctor was in Heppner on Monday, getting somewhat acquainted, and states that his family will remain in Portland until the close of the school year before coming to Ione.

Good rains this week over the Eight Mile and Gooseberry sections, and practically all over the county, for that matter, cause the farmers to rejoice. Wheat is reported from all sections to be coming along well now, and there will be no reseeded necessary because of the drought. For a time it was thought much of the grain would not survive the dry spell, but the moisture has come along sufficiently to overcome all fears in this direction.

Ed Templeton of Spray, brother of Mrs. John Cason of this city, passed through Heppner Monday with 2300 head of sheep, purchased from parties down on the Columbia river. Mr. Templeton, who is now owner of the Dam Ranch on the John Day near Spray, is stocking it up and hopes that within a very few years it will become one of the best paying propositions in Wheeler county.

O. G. Crawford and wife, Miss Jean Crawford, their daughter, and Miss Frances Parker, arrived Wednesday evening from Joseph to spend the Thanksgiving holidays with their relatives here. Miss Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Parker of this city, is teaching right near Joseph this winter. They returned home on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Olden were visitors in the city a short time Tuesday from their farm home at Fairview. Mrs. Olden stated that a telegram from Olympia, Wash., announced the arrival of her first grandson, born on Thanksgiving day to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dobyns. The grandmother is justly feeling quite proud.

An informal reception was given Ben Morgan and family of Morgan at the Christian church in Ione on Monday evening, Nov. 23rd, states the Ione Independent. Mr. Morgan and family are leaving for Cheney, Washington, where they will make their home in the future. Mr. Morgan and family departed Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Lieuallen and Jack Hynd, Pendleton, spent Thanksgiving and the week end with the Hynds and other relatives at Heppner and vicinity. "Buck" and Jack taking part in the big football game between Heppner and Lexington here Sunday afternoon, helping the local team.

District Attorney Notson arrived home from Ione on Sunday. He was called east to attend to some matters pertaining to his father's estate. While there he also enjoyed a short visit with his son, Lee Notson, and had Thanksgiving dinner with his family and other relatives.

Mrs. Ward Graves, who lives 2 miles west of Ione, was a visitor in Heppner Tuesday. Mr. and Mrs. Graves run the Halleck Stange place, raising chickens, turkeys and grain. Fairly good rains have visited their part of the county recently, to the benefit of fall sown grain.
