His Sacred Request.

Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain.

SURELY this is a commandment that all of us might properly resolve to observe as one of our fixed determinations for the coming year.

The thought that profanity adds strength to expression is one of the fallacies. Great men, great women, great writers, great speakers have come to see that strength and power lie in simplicity.

How terribly shocking to one of any refinement to hear from almost childish lips the oath that should be reserved for solemn and sacred occasions.

How About This?

FORMER Governor Sweet, of Colorado, one of the most prominent advocates of the league of nations court, is now touring the country making addresses urging that the United States enter the league court.

Governor Sweet was speaking on the subject of the league court at the Chicago Forum in the Apollo Theater, when a young man in the audience rose to ask a question.

"Governor," the questioner inquired, "if Tokio should appeal our Japanese ban to the world court and America should be commanded to let the Asiatics swarm in, would you approve that decision?"

Governor Sweet did not take long to answer the question. "Young man," he said, "at present no question can be brought before the court which either party to the dispute objects to.

Although the audience was supposedly filled with league sympathizers it is said that the governor's reply was greeted with a painful silence broken only by the hand-clapping of two Asiatics in the gallery.

Governor Sweet is a true internationalist and he is to be congratulated on his frankness if not on his judgment.

Another Boy By Bruce Barton

SLEEPLESS and bewildered but gloriously proud, the husband of Mary emerged from the stable and made his way to the census taker's booth.

The angels' song hummed through his heart and timed his steps with its rhythm; his fine, bronzed face was radiant with the wonder of the night.

"Name?" he demanded in a routine tone. "Joseph, carpenter, of Nazareth, of the house of David."

"Children?" "The sturdy young carpenter drew himself up. "One child," he answered proudly.

Was there any comment? Did that petty government official, who wrote for the first time the name that was to be "above every name"—did he wonder as he wrote?

Probably not. It was just one more name on the census role. Just another boy. What laughter would have rung through Rome if someone had pointed to that name and said: "There is the beginning of all empires everywhere."

Yet it would have been true. Democracy began and thrones began to totter, when He said: "You are sons of God."

Rome would have laughed, and Rome is dead. The influence of the Child lives on, uplifting the standards of action and thought, inspiring laws, enlisting the strong in service to the needy and the weak.

They, not we, are the really important people of the earth. In cradles, and at the foot of Christmas trees, are the lives that are to overthrow and rebuild all that we have built.

Messages

"I'm taking all messages," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets.

"I want to give these messages to the Dreamland King," she then he will give them around for me.

Then She Met Polly. "We want to send our heartiest and best wishes," said the members of the Storm family.

"We want to send our heartiest, fluffiest wishes," said the Tide Twins. And the Foam Brothers sent their greetings, too.

"I know you do, Your Honor," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets. "I will take along your messages."

"I believe in a little praise, you know," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets. "I'll have to let them hear of the Court of Fun and how a Jury of twelve Joking Men decide who can be admitted to the Court."

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Sweets for the Season A GOODLY supply of sweets to pass around when entertaining is always a great satisfaction.

Candied Peel—Cut orange or grapefruit into long strips, cover with water and bring to the boiling point; drain and repeat this three times.

Creole Kisses—Blanch one-half pound of almonds, finely shred half of them and dry slowly in the oven. Put one-fourth of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of sugar in a saucepan, and as soon as the boiling point is reached add the remaining almonds and cook until the sirup is a golden brown color.

Molasses Chips—Put three cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one cupful of water into a kettle. Stir until the boiling point is reached, brushing down the sides of the kettle to remove any grains, using a brush dipped into cold water.

Coconut Caramels—Cook one cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful of corn sirup, two tablespoonfuls of butter, and one-fourth cupful of boiling water. Cook to a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Remove from the heat, stir until cool, adding one-half cupful of coconut, then pour into a pan powdered with sugar.

Do you own a dog? There has been some amendments to the dog law, and it has more teeth in it. Sheriff McDuffee states that there is to be no escape from its enforcement, and you had better look after getting the 1926 license tag immediately.

This is indeed a very pleasant Christmas season. Some folks think they cannot enjoy the annual festival, however, unless there is an abundance of snow with the freezing weather that necessarily accompanies. For our part we are perfectly well satisfied with what the weather man is handing out, and it just puts us in the frame of mind to express to all our readers a very Merry Christmas.

They were sweeping the Skies. "Send them my love," Polly said, "and tell them never to forget how to talk. It is apt to be very useful."

And Fairy Wondrous Secrets hurried to the Dreamland King with all her messages for the children. (© 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)
