Tomorrow Is 1926—

YES, this is the last of Old Man 1925; he passes out at midnight and one second later a brand new baby will be with us—the Kid 1926. And with his arrival a new problem presents itself; namely, how are we going to rear the youngster?

With true parental solicitude, we will no doubt resolve to do a good job of it; have we not always done so with every kid year Mr. Stork has left at our door. Surely, our resolutions will be of the best.

But why spend a lot of good time on this resolution rot. We chase around telling our friends what we have decided to do the coming year to make ourselves better, thereby admitting our weaknesses, and they laugh up their sleeves, thinking "Yes, you poor prune, when the year is ended you'll be just what you are."

Why do they think this? Merely because they know, as everyone knows, that it can't be done—that is, the way most people go about it. One can't pick out one little fault and say it shall go; no, it simply can't be done. Why? Because all those little faults are so mixed up and intermingled that they can't be separated. It must be a clean sweep or none, and so those little faults just naturally stick.

It sounds like the youngster has a poor chance, doesn't it? But he'll survive, and if we don't miss our guess he'll be a good healthy man when he grows up, too. That is, if we don't fall down on the job entirely, which isn't likely to happen unless the world goes terribly out of whack from its present order.

We think there has been some little progress in the last 1925 years, and that this will continue on through the coming 365 days. But the world will not become perfect in such a short time. It isn't reasonable. However, we can't help but profit a little bit by the mistakes we made in bringing up young 1925, and 1926 will be a better man for it.

Christian Faith Gains Ground.

THE public announcement of that great Jewish theologian, Rabbi Wise, that the hour has come when the Jew must accept Christ as a fact, and make His teaching the basis of Jewish life and conduct, burst like a bomb-shell in the city of New York where the Jewish population is so tremendously large; and yet the sensation has been accepted more as an obvious truth than as a proposition set forth for purpose of controversy. Coming as it did on the eve of a new year, in fact just at Christmastide, it brings new heart to the world, encouragement where faith was faltering, for it demonstrates how powerful, in deed how irresistible is the influence of the Prince of Peace. The torrent sweeping down the mountain side has force that is but puny when measured by the force of Christian Truth.

"Jesus was," Rabbi Wise admits, sweeping aside for all time the age long teaching that Jesus was a myth. The theologian then proceeds to say that the teachings of the Nazarene have formed the very foundation of the Jewish onward march to God, that the truth no longer can be ignored, but must and should frankly be admitted. He states that the basis of Christian life is the foundation of moral life, and that if Christianity has seemed to fail it is not because of its weakness, but because so many of those professing Christianity have practiced it so loosely and indifferently—many indeed not practicing it at all. The arraignment is salutary. May it bring the mind to a clearer understanding of the fact that Christianity is a living thing, non-existent when not translated into life and action. It is beside the question to raise a quibble either with Jew or Gentile—as to the personality of the world's Redeemer. It is enough if creeds and sects shall honestly worship at their respective shrines if their hands be linked firmly into a giant human chain that unites on the common ground of Christian living, of Christlike knidness and human love.

Some Relief Coming.

A BILL having for its purpose the aid of cooperative marketing, and so far the only proposed agricultural legislation known to have the indorsement of President Coolidge, has had its final preparation approved by the President, who invited Secretary of Agriculture Jardine, Senator McNary of Oregon and Representative Tichner of Kansas, to go over the matter with him. The bill has been introduced and has been referred to the Committee. The bill, as drawn, proposes to create machinery in the Department of Agriculture through which government assistance can be given to cooperative marketing associations in the disposal of crops. Another feature of the bill is that the Bureau of Economics will be directed to assist in finding markets for the sale of surplus products. Under the terms of the proposed bill the Capper act, which authorized producers to sell their products collectively, would be included in this measure. The proponents of the bill prepared will ask that Congress set an early date for the consideration of it.

Hospitality Counts.

OREGON BUSINESS
GREAT areas of fine lands at reasonable prices, available for successful settlement, under a vast variety of attractive conditions—that is the message Oregon has broadcasted to prospective homeseekers.

Proof of substantial acceptance of our hearty invitation is offered by the quinquennial farm report just published by the United States Census Bureau.

Oregon is one of the few states to experience an increase in farm acreage. A gain of 5,702 farms is registered for the five years from 1920 to 1925, the total farms for the state being 55,908, against 50,206 in 1920.

Practically every community in the state is organized to assure incoming settlers a fair deal and a real opportunity for success. Appraisal boards, county agents and bankers are of inestimable assistance, but to them should not be left the whole responsibility of insuring permanent residence of our new farmers.

Among the strong impressions a settler receives, there are none more lasting than his reactions to the courtesy and hospitality of his neighbors. While this is true of the farmer, many more times does friendliness count with his wife. Even a little sociability goes far to dispel the sense of strangeness which comes from being in a new land.

Much importance attaches to the kindly attitude of immediate neighbors, but most significant is the community hospitality.

What is your commercial organization doing to make new settlers feel at home?

Record Broken.

ACCORDING to reports from Washington, D. C., the past year holds the record over any previous year for federal aid on highways. 11,320 miles were completed. The previous high year mark was a little less than 10,000 miles. The mileage that has been completed since 1917 totals 46,486 miles. The figures given for the year just past account for those portions which are entirely completed. They do not embrace road building activities that are still in progress. There are stretches yet to be finished that have a total length of 12,463 miles. The work just ended represents an approximate cost of two hundred and forty-three million dollars, of which one hundred and eleven million dollars were paid by the United States government. Since 1917 the government has furnished three hundred and seventy-three million dollars as its portion of the road work.

ISAAC L. PATTERSON has made more of an impression upon the state press than all other gubernatorial candidates put together. His portrait, his preliminary platform and his prison discussion were very generally accepted as news when they were received by the editors, and hundreds of columns of space were given to them. So far, the other candidates for the same office have been able to obtain very little space in comparison. The attitude of the state press confirms Patterson as the leading candidate for the republican nomination. At present, it is Patterson against the field, with the field far in the rear. Among business men, the talk is that Patterson is the best qualified candidate. This applies to Portland as well as out in the state. Of course, the opinion of Portland business men cuts little figure, but when business men of widely distributed communities all over the state spontaneously mention Patterson, it has a great deal of significance. Not the least of the significance is that it suggests that business men generally through the state regard Patterson as safe and sane,—not likely to make a lot of spectacular mistakes should he become governor. Considerable doubt exists whether any candidate so far named can beat Pierce but we find the opinion general that Patterson has a better chance than any other one of the candidates so far in the field.—Oregon Voter.

THE recent statement alleged to have been made by Sam H. Thompson, head of the American Farm Bureau Federation, that Vice-President Dawes was committed to one particular plan for agricultural relief, has been denied by both Mr. Thompson and Mr. Dawes. The Vice-President, in commenting on the matter, said "If the consideration of measures for agricultural relief assume a political nature then chances of a sound, economic solution of the difficulties of agriculture will be injured."

NEW YORK STATE leads in the matter of revoked or suspended automobile operators' licenses during the past year, 4,477 operators having been deprived of their legal right to drive.

ACCORDING to a recent poll taken 499 parents in Washington, D. C., in answer to a questionnaire decided against girls smoking. Evidently parents prefer the powder to the cigarette puff.

JUDGING from some of the addresses delivered over the radio they might be called "gas" stations.

COUNTERFEITERS' wares were recently discovered through the poor spelling employed—all of which goes to show that education is necessary in all walks of life.

FRIENDSHIP does not call for recompense. Only its counterfeit keeps balance sheets.

KITCHEN CUPBOARD

By NELLIE MAXWELL

Seasonable Foods
AFTER a feast there are always some leftovers. In many families there is strong objection to a review of any food. It is the wise cook who is able to attractively disguise the fact that the dish has appeared before.

Turkey Soup.—Take bits of leftover meat, of turkey, chicken or duck, with the bones of the carcass, cut into small pieces. Cover with sufficient water to cover well, with one small sliced onion, one cupful of rice, a bay leaf, pepper and salt. Cook very slowly, strain and serve hot.

Supper Sandwiches.—Take thin slices of cold roast fowl, lay on buttered bread with a crisp slice of bacon; cover with mayonnaise dressing; add another buttered slice and serve with a lettuce salad.

Fowl Chop.—Chop the meat from a fowl. Butter a baking dish and put a layer of buttered crumbs in the bottom, cover with the chopped meat and any gravy leftover, add a few slices of hard-boiled eggs, then repeat, finishing with a layer of buttered crumbs for the top. If there is no leftover gravy, for moisture add milk. Cover and bake for half an hour, removing the covers to brown the top.

Leftover squash will make a delicious pie, adding milk and eggs to a cupful of the seasoned squash. Mashed potato added to a doughnut mixture will make the cakes much more moist and palatable. Potato cakes, mashed potatoes over chopped meat, in the form of shepherd's pie, baked, is another good way of using up seasoned mashed potatoes.

Leftover pens, added to the breakfast omelet, or rinsed of the sauce, may be added to a vegetable salad, or a vegetable soup, or consommé.

Any course stalks of celery may be cooked until tender after being cut into half-inch pieces, then used as an escalloped dish, using any leftover white sauce and grated cheese in layers. Bake as usual until hot.
Reheat any leftover pumpkin pie, garnish with a spoonful of whipped cream, and sprinkle with grated cheese or chopped nuts, whichever is convenient.

FROM THE STATE MARKET AGENT

The Taxes We Pay.

If all the taxes that are now collected in the United States were apportioned equally among all the people—men, women and children—each individual would have to pay $70.97 a year. Last year we paid almost five times as much in taxes per person as we did in 1890. The tax bill per person thirty-five years ago was $13.88. In 1913 it had jumped to $22.73; in 1919 it had gone to $76.51 and in 1921 it reached the high mark of $76.55. Yet with this great increase, if the burden was distributed justly—if each paid wealth, income and ability to pay—and none escaped, it would not be much of a burden. Agriculture today pays far more than its just proportion—this statement is undisputed. The farmer cannot hide his property. Thousands and thousands are leaving the farms and thousands more will leave unless conditions change. Farmers buy under high tariff prices and sell in almost free trade markets. High railroad rates, high taxes and high prices for purchases on one hand and low prices for products on the other, leaves the farmer where he cannot pull out, if he is in debt—as the most of the are.

Wheat on Protein Basis.

The extension service of Kansas is taking up the marketing of wheat on a protein basis. Elevator managers, mill buyers and elevator directors are visited and the proposition presented, followed by meetings with wheat growers. In this way all the interested parties are reached and the extension service reports splendid co-operation and support.

Columbia County Leads.

L. A. Morris, potato inspector for Columbia county, says the inspection law is protection to growers, retailers and consumers and that when they understand it better they will all heartily observe it. Mr. Morris boasts that Columbia county leads all others of the state in observance, and that not a retail merchant in the whole county will handle a sack of potatoes that is not branded with the grower's name and address and the grade. The State Market Agent says if the counties generally would do as Columbia county has done the law would be fully enforced. Retail merchants hold the key to enforcement, and it not only protects and benefits them, but guarantees an honest pack to their customers.

The Smut Menace.

The Grain Standards Board of Toronto, Canada, says that over 30 per cent of the wheat inspected to date in that district has been excluded from standard grade because of smut, and the season's loss to the farmers will be from 5 to 15 cents per bushel, or a total of $700,000. Smut lays a heavy toll on Oregon wheat and the State Market Agent urges treatment of all seed to eradicate it.
